FRANCE STRIVES TO RISE AGAIN AS A GREAT POWER

But She Finds Self Between 2 Fires.

(This is the first in a series of articles by Mr. Darrah, correspondent of The Tribune in France, who is in America for a short vacation.)

BY DAVID DARRAH.

Diplomats believe that negotiations for collaboration between the Germans and the French will dominate political activities this winter. They are convinced that the outcome of the negotiations will be far reaching.

Anything may happen. How far will collaboration go? How far should it go is the question the French must decide. Everything indicates they will decide the matter purely on a basis of national expediency, and from the viewpoint that the French in Vichy have a will to become a great power again. But they are also willing to play their part alongside Germany in a reorganized Europe.

Between Two Fires.

The French find themselves between two fires. Their defeat and the logic of events compel them to become good neighbors with their powerful former adversary. But when they do, they find themselves the butt of threats from Washington, D. C., and the countries already at war with Germany.

While they are ready to collaborate in a new European framework with their eastern neighbors, they are just as anxious to keep on good terms with the United States and other friends. Expediency and opportunism for a defeated nation is politically imperative, as the French see it.

Everything will depend on how far collaboration goes. The Germans might insist on too much in the talks that are underway. The extreme German wish in collaboration is that it shall become military. They want full collaboration eventually. One group in France is willing to concede it. Marshal Petain, chief of state, is not, altho he agreed to the departure of Gen. Maxime Weygand as proconsul in French North Africa and commander of Vichy's troops there.

Obdurate on French Honor.

If the Germans insist on the "lease-loaning" of Bizerte, fortified seaport in Tunisia, and the French fleet, Petain might resign. He is obdurate on what he considers French honor. On the other hand the Germans do not wish to precipitate any ugly situation with the French.

Military collaboration and Bizerte are the extreme German demands. The extreme French ones are the return of the 1,200,000 prisoners of war, and the restoration of Paris as the capital—that is the cessation of German occupation.

The negotiations will represent a give and take between these two extremes. Whether they will result in a peace treaty or merely a modified modus vivendi [a temporary arrangement until disputed matters are settled] to replace the unilateral armistice convention is a matter which probably will be decided by the conferences.

Petain's Formula Cited.

All diplomatic observers concede that the most important factor in European affairs is going to be the extent of the understanding and collaboration between the French and Germans. The keynote of such talks most likely will be Petain's own formula: "We will be able to dominate our defeat if you are able to dominate your victory."

It is clear from an intimate study of the situation from the inside—excluding the falsifications of a lurid propaganda war which crackles over the radio—that the Germans need the French badly in the new European setup which they envisage. The French know this and are using this position in the slow work of rebuilding their nation into a first class European power.

For in spite of the fact that the French are down and out now they are in a bargaining position and this is a horse trade.

Expect Skilful Maneuvering.

An intimate study of the moves and countermoves of the last 18 months probably will disclose at some later date considerable skilful maneuvering on the part of the French, perhaps equal to that exercised by Von Stein and Scharnhorst after the battle of Jena in 1806 when Napoleon crushed Prussia.

An astute Frenchman remarked

EXPECT TO FIGHT SOON, CREW TOLD BY U. S. ADMIRAL

New York, Nov. 28 [Special].—Rear Adm. Adolphus Andrews, commandant of the 3d naval district, today told the officers and crew of the new destroyer Ellyson to expect to fight soon. He spoke in the Brooklyn navy yard at the commissioning of the ship, a sister vessel of the Kearny, which was torpedoed off Iceland. They are of the newest and most powerful type of destroyer now being built for the navy.

"The purpose of this ship is to fight," the admiral said. "Make no mistake about it. You are going into active service. Strenuous days at sea lie ahead of you.

"There will be long days and long watches at night. The enemy is well aware of this and stands ready to take advantage. The greatest vigilance is required. There is no time for dreaming. The lives of your shipmates depend on your vigilance. It is up to you to bring us thru the dawn of a new life."

Moscow Army Beats a Retreat on Two Flanks

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, Nov. 28 (AP).—The Russian armies on two bloody flanks of the Moscow sector today were reported to be beating a slow retreat under the most powerful of German pressure. However, a Nazi smash from the west appeared to have been stopped 36 miles from the Red capital.

The defending armies were falling back northeast of Tula, which is some 100 miles south of the capital, and in the region of Volokolamsk, 65 miles northwest of Moscow, where a German wedge driven into the Russian lines had imperiled the Red army position.

Call Situation Dangerous.

These are called "distant approaches" to Moscow, but the situation, especially to the east of Tula in the region of Stalinogorsk, was most dangerous. Stalinogorsk is 120 miles southeast of Moscow.

There, the Russians said, the Germans have hurled the last of the forces they have available on the central front in an effort to outflank Moscow on the east.

First of all, the Germans are trying to encircle Tula and its defenders on the north and east, dispatches from the front line said. The Russians acknowledged the fall of a city called "N" near Tula, under the concentrated fire of artillery and trench mortars.

Report Thrusts Stopped.

All German attacks in the Mozhaisk and Maloyaroslavets areas west and southwest of the capital were stopped, altho in the former sector it was acknowledged the German lines had been pushed within 36 miles of the city.

Russian cavalry counterattacked at Klin, 50 miles northwest of Moscow, against German forces which drove between Kalinin and the capital last week. Several villages were reported reoccupied. Kalinin is 95 miles northwest of Moscow.

An official soviet statement said that more than 5,000 German officers and men have been killed in a northwestern sector of the front in 10 days of fighting.

Take Part of Rostov: Reds.

LONDON, Nov. 29 [Thursday]—(AP).—The Moscow radio broadcast heard by the Daily Mail today said that Russians attacking German positions in and before Rostov had captured the old part of the city in a fierce fight.

QUEZON REVEALS PHILIPPINES NOT READY FOR WAR

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 28 (AP).—Outbreak of war in the Pacific would find Filipinos unprepared and the civilian population of the islands unprotected, President Manuel Quezon said in an extemporaneous speech tonight. He charged his critics had shackled him from exercising emergency powers conferred by the national assembly in 1940, thus delaying civilian defense preparations.

The commonwealth president, recently reëlected for a second term, spoke to an audience commemorating National Heroes day at the University of the Philippines.

His critics, including men he termed "American imperialists," had obstructed him for a period of seven months, Quezon charged.

ACTION BLOCKS HENDERSON AS SOLE DICTATOR

Sets Up 5 Man Body to Control.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—The house, by a vote of 224 to 161, tonight approved a bill to control prices after adopting drastic modifications which materially weaken the proposed price administration's powers over industry.

The measure permits the freezing of prices at the Oct. 1, 1941, level; or the establishment of a price ceiling which is deemed equitable.

The original bill sponsored by the Roosevelt administration would have entrusted this extraordinary authority to one man selected by the President. This individual undoubtedly would have been Leon Henderson, present price coördinator, who repeatedly has been accused of communistic sympathies.

Board to Review Rulings.

As modified by the house, the act will be administered by a five man board, which will supervise the decisions of the administrator with power to review and alter them. A Republican amendment to this effect was approved, 139 to 117.

Also stripped from the bill was a proposal to license industry as a method of enforcing price control. A roar of "no" defeated the licensing provision, and its sponsors did not even ask for a formal roll call in an effort to reverse this action.

A motion to recommit the measure, dooming it for this session, was offered by Rep. Jessie Summer [R., Ill.]. This motion was defeated, 173 to 134.

The standing vote on passage of the measure was 191 to 120, as counted by the speaker. Then the roll call vote was demanded by the bill's opponents.

Coalition Balks Leadership.

A combination of Republicans and Democrats overrode the administration leadership and forced the alterations in the measure. Members were held into a night session to reach the final decision.

The business licensing provision, characterized by the administration as absolutely essential to make the measure function, went out by a thunderous voice vote. Rep. Henry Steagall [D., Ala.] did not even demand a standing vote after the members had shouted a chorus of "No!"

This provision would have permitted the government to suspend licenses and thus put out of business any firm which violated a price ceiling set upon its product. The provision had been termed the power of life and death over industry. Many speakers said it was the weapon ideally designed to destroy the American system of free enterprise.

The debate became bitter in the closing hours. Rep. Joseph Casey [D., Mass.] shrilled a charge that the

RENEWING OLD ACQUAINTANCES

Suitors Battle with Knives on Hectic Voyage

New York, Nov. 28 (AP).—The Egyptian passenger liner El Nil crept into port today after a bizarre 84 day voyage from Alexandria.

The 48 passengers and 165 men of the crew told of bombings at Suez, a frantic search for fuel oil along the east and west coast of Africa, and jealousy which caused knife battles because of the presence of a pretty woman.

R. C. Watson [top], J. P. Karminati. [AP Wirephotos.]

Passengers said a ship officer and several passengers became embroiled over the attentions of the woman, described as English, but not identified, and that several mêlées with knives resulted.

Flyer Tells of Threat.

Richard C. Watson of Halifax, N. S., a flying officer with the royal Canadian air force who crashed in a sandstorm in Nigeria, said he was innocently involved in the affair and that a ship officer told him he would not reach shore alive. Watson said the officer was jealous over the woman.

Watson said he carried a gun constantly on advice of the ship's skipper, Capt. H. G. Walton, after reporting the threat.

A man dressed in clerical garb who said he was an American citizen was removed from the vessel by British authorities at Trinidad after officers and passengers complained he had tried to spread Nazi propaganda aboard.

Chief Steward Marc Attia said the man's alleged references to Jewish refugees caused several fights.

Brings Fortune in Art.

J. P. Karminati, 53 years old, former Iranian consul in Turkey and a wealthy mine operator, arrived for medical treatment for injuries suffered in a fall from a horse.

Karminati brought a fortune in Mohammedan art treasures, manuscripts by the prophet, and what he described as the only oil painting of Mohammed in existence. His collection was declared for customs purposes as worth $171,000, but Karminati said it was worth millions. He amazed reporters by carelessly tossing a metal cigaret box full of diamonds and other precious jewels, on a table for their inspection.

The ship, making the longest Alexandria-New York voyage in modern history, brought 3,000 tons of cotton and a crew that included Sudanese and Assuans who carried triple knife scars on each cheek—a tribal custom inflicted shortly after birth.

A shortage of water left the ship dry three days before she reached Trinidad and the crew refused to sail the 7,769 ton motorship to Freetown, Sierra Leone, because of fear of axis submarines and raiders.

Leaves Alexandria Sept. 5.

The El Nil left Alexandria Sept. 5, witnessed bombings at Port Said and Suez, put into Mombasa for oil and finally reached Cape Town.

From there she went to Lagos and Takoradi on the west African coast and her crew refused to take her to Freetown when it was learned a British destroyer was fighting a German raider off Lagos and that a ship that sailed the day before had been torpedoed.

After a long delay in search of fuel the ship sailed for Trinidad. A Swedish ship following close behind was torpedoed. Days later officers learned the American cruiser Omaha had captured the German freighter Odenwald on the El Nil's course and only a few miles away.

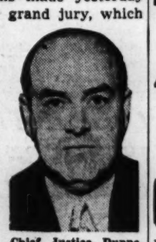
Pledges Action on Grand Jury Gaming Report

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Recommendations made yesterday by the November grand jury, which reported shocking conditions of syndicated gambling in Cook county, will be carried out, State's Attorney Courtney announced last night.



Chief Justice Dunne.

The grand jury declared that gambling had been conducted openly and flagrantly and that the police had waged only a sham battle against the evil.

The jury members mentioned their long labors in gathering facts about the gambling syndicate, its horse betting parlors, its big gambling houses, and its slot machines. The base on which they started their work was the publication by THE TRIBUNE, in October, of ledger sheets of the syndicate.

Bribes of $300,000 a Year.

This documentary evidence showed that in July of 1941 the syndicate, headed by Jack Guzik and Frank Nitti, old Capone henchmen, was paying bribes of $300,000 a year to police and officials, and still was able to show profits at the rate of about $2,500,000 a year.

"The leaders of this group [the Guzik gang] should be ferreted out and fully prosecuted," the jury asserted.

"I must compliment the grand jury for its intelligence, its interest, and its energy," Courtney declared. "I assure the grand jury and the public I will do my part to carry out the wishes of the jurors."

Urge Continuation of Probe.

The jurors also recommended that Chief Justice Robert Jerome Dunne of the Criminal court charge the December grand jury, and succeeding grand juries if necessary, to carry the investigation of the Guzik syndicate to a conclusion.

The jury spoke of the police of Cook county and of the city in scathing terms and demanded a cleanup. Courtney said the cleanup had already been put in effect.

The jury made its report to Chief Justice Dunne after he had evinced a willingness to hear it. The usual function of a grand jury is to return indictments or no bills and reports on other than routine subjects are not provided for by law. The judge warned the jurors that they were not exempt from libel rules in matters exceeding the granted authority.

Court Accepts Report.

The jurors indicated their desire to make a public statement and with a few suggested changes their full report was accepted for filing.

During the hearing much had been said about fake raids by police on gambling resorts. The jury commented:

"The practice of arresting one or two unimportant persons or stooges under fictitious names . . . is merely a sham.

It Can Be Suppressed.

The jury agreed with a statement made by Courtney to the effect that the present day shutdown of gambling indicates that it can be suppressed whenever the authorities decide on a shutdown. The jurors warned, however, that the present shutdown must not be accepted as an indication that the Guzik gang has quit.

The jurors suggested that in the future the police commissioner take drastic action against police captains in whose districts gambling is found. The jury learned that in the 10 years of his term of office Commissioner Allman has never taken a captain before the trial board, State's Attorney Courtney said.

No evidence on which indictments could be based was presented to the present jury, Courtney said, but such evidence may be obtained and presented during the coming months.

Chicago becomes the agricultural center of the world today with the opening of the 42d annual International Live Stock exposition in the International amphitheater at 41st and Halsted streets.

Into a chaotic and warring world, this magnificent parade of the finest animals and grains the earth produces brings a breath of peace and a sense of constructive achievement.

Fat, blocky cattle doze peacefully in beds of bright new straw. Hooded and blanketed sheep stand contentedly in their pens, and grunting porkers, scrubbed until they glisten, root up the bedding in their stalls.

Come from 41 States.

From 41 states and five Canadian provinces they have come—13,146 blue blooded animals worth 5 million dollars.

The 20 acres covered by the vast amphitheater are jammed with a record number of entries representing the cream of the continent's live stock. In the halls and corridors are row upon row of samples of wheat, corn, oats, hay, and small seeds forming one of the finest displays of crops in the history of the exposition.

In the magnificent displays visitors will find an unforgettable record of the progress and achievements of a free agriculture flourishing under the banners of democracy.

W-G-N and the Mutual network will broadcast highlights of the exposition. The first broadcast will be made today at 5:30 p. m., and the second tomorrow from 12:45 to 1 p. m. From Monday thru Friday there will be two programs daily, conducted by Lew La Mars and Jack Brickhouse.

Youths to Open Show.

The honor of opening the great show has been given to the farm boys and girls of America. More than 1,400 strong, they have assembled at the amphitheater with the proud results of their year's work in the 4-H club. Champions among the rural youth of 45 states are there with their fat-calves, swine, and sheep which they reared themselves. The girls will display the results of their knowledge of canning, cooking, and home making. The boys will show that they can farm as well as their dads.

Today the 4-H club delegates, representing 1,400,000 farm boys and girls, will move into the tanbark arena with 691 fat calves to open the junior live stock feeding contest.

This record number of entries comes from 17 states and represents the year's work of 554 youths. From this parade of cattle the junior grand champion steer will be selected. The best steer will come before the judges again next week in the open sweepstakes for the grand championship of the show.

Watch Junior Champion.

Adult exhibitors will watch this contest with interest, for the youngsters have established the reputation of producing the finest fat cattle in the nation. Time and again the junior champion steer has moved forward into competition with the best the experienced breeders could produce, and has carried off the coveted title. The last three grand champion steers have been shown by 4-H club members, two of whom were girls.

The important task of weeding out the prize steer has fallen to W. L. Carlyle, noted Canadian stockman and manager of the duke of Windsor's Canadian ranch. Consulting with him as an assistant judge will be J. Charles Yule of Carstairs, Alta., who chose the grand champion last year.

Judging contests also are scheduled for today. The intercollegiate live stock judging contest will start at 8 a. m. with 140 young men from 28 state agricultural colleges and universities competing for honors.

Five Members on Team.

Each team is composed of five members who will pass judgment on the cattle, sheep, swine, and horses lined up before them. Experts also will judge the stock and compare their results with the selections of the students.

Iowa State college took the honors last year, scoring 4,436 points out of a possible 5,000. Texas A. and M. was second with 4,409 points. Chief prize each year in the students' competition is a handsome bronze bull, known as the Spoor trophy, which must be won three times to become the property of the winners.

Experts will start eliminating samples in the grain and hay show this morning. From the 5,000 samples entered, the most perfect ears of corn, grains of wheat and oats, and displays of hay will be chosen and the owner will be crowned king of his crop.

Judges also will start the difficult task of selecting the best carload lots of fat cattle that have been entered in the exposition. One of the biggest carlot entries in the history of the show has been reported by the management.

First Horse Show Tonight.

In the evening the first horse show will be staged. Sleek harness horses, hunters and jumpers, and huge draft horses will parade thru the arena before the judges. More than 600 pure bred horses have been entered to give Chicago one of the finest groups of animals ever assembled here.

The horse shows will be held nightly with matinées on Sunday, Wednesday, Friday, and next Saturday. The show tonight will be exclusively for exhibitors from the Chicago area.

To complete the nightly program there will be demonstrations by cowboys from the stockyards, driving exhibitions by ton-weight six-horse teams, sheep herding by the nation's best sheep dog, and stunt riding and driving.

As a curtain raiser, farm boys and girls from 27 states in teams of three competed yesterday in the junior live stock judging contest. The youngsters spent most of the day examining cattle, sheep, and swine, recording their observations and choosing the animals they considered best.

Compare Expert Ratings.

With each group was an expert judge who made his selections among the animals. His ratings will be compared with those of the boys and girls to find which team shows the best judging ability.

B. H. Heide, manager of the exposition, predicted that a record breaking crowd would jam the amphitheater during the eight day run of the exposition. He expects more than 450,000 visitors, 200,000 of whom will come from out of town.

Prize money totaling $100,000 awaits winning exhibitors.

APPEAL IS WON BY EMPLOYER IN LABOR DISPUTE

The Illinois Appellate court yesterday reversed the conviction of a sign company owner, who was sentenced in Municipal court to 90 days in the county jail on a charge of carrying a revolver.

The appeal was won by William J. Ross, owner of the Chief Sign Hanging company at 2835 Lincoln avenue. Three union officials, James Duffy, Michael Kearney, and Frank Ryan, testified at Ross' trial before Municipal Judge William V. Daly that he drew a revolver when they stopped to talk to him and his employés who were hanging a sign in front of 4026 Milwaukee avenue on a Sunday in May, 1940.

Ross testified that the three union representatives ordered him to stop the work. When he refused, he said, one knocked the ladder from under one of the workmen while another smashed a section of the sign.

Ross said Ryan then knocked him down and the other two threw the contents of his truck into the street. He ran to the telephone and called the police. When they arrived, the union agents accused him of threatening them with a gun that was found in the street. He denied the charge.

The Appellate court ordered a new trial for Ross, declaring:

"The evidence shows that there is grave and serious doubt as to the guilt of the defendant. The testimony of Kearney and the others is hardly compatible with the actions of the defendant in summoning the police. It is more reasonable to assume that his actions were peaceful and that he did not attempt to use force by displaying the weapon."

Passer of 3 Bad Checks Gets Year in Bridewell

Edward Lawrence Cordner, 30 years old, of Dallas, Tex., was sentenced yesterday by Chief Justice Harry H. Porter of the Evanston Municipal court to three concurrent terms of one year each in the Bridewell. Cordner was also fined a total of $1,002. He passed three bad checks for $31 in Evanston and then tried to repeat Wednesday on one of his victims, Arthur Sax, 18, of 520 Greenleaf avenue, a filling station attendant, who called the police.

LOOP DETECTIVE IS SUSPENDED FOR GAMBLING LAXITY

Fine Bookie for Taking Bets in Lobby.

The war against syndicate gambling was marked yesterday by the suspension of a detective for "inattention to duty" and a verbal clash between Attorney William Goldstein and Judge Oscar Caplan in South State street court. Goldstein lost.

Royal Chapman, arrested in the lobby of a building at 108 North Dearborn street, was fined by Judge Caplan for possessing gambling equipment despite Goldstein's attempts, in turn, to have the evidence suppressed, to have the case continued, or to have it tried before a jury.

Fined Total of $200.

Judge Caplan fined Chapman $100 each on two charges and refused a motion for a new trial. When Goldstein continued his protests, Judge Caplan remarked that Chapman has been arrested about 40 times, and just before his most recent arrest, during testimony before the grand jury, told that body he was going out of business. Judge Caplan dismissed a state charge of operating a gambling house against Chapman, who was doing business on the spot when arrested.

Suspension of Detective Andrew Fosse by Commissioner Allman, on the recommendation of Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Central station, came after Sergt. Thomas Lyons and a squad from the commissioner's office raided a handbook on the second floor at 166 West Washington street, arresting three men.

Assigned to Keep Places Closed.

Capt. Duffy said Fosse was assigned five weeks ago to see that the handbook and another one on the 10th floor at 33 North La Salle street remained closed. Both reputedly are run by Oscar Gutter, veteran bookmaker. Theodore Grainik, 1259 Komensky avenue, one of those arrested, told Sergt. Lyons that the place had been open seven or eight days in the last two weeks. Lyons and his men smashed the glass in the handbook door when refused admittance. The others arrested were Milton Waldman, 1100 North La Salle street, and Joseph Feils, 4520 Sheridan road.

Tularemia Causes Death of Michigan Man; Widow Ill

Coldwater, Mich., Nov. 28 [Special].—Lucas Van Dam, 74 years old, of Colon, died yesterday of tularemia which he contracted while cleaning rabbits several days ago. His widow also is ill of tularemia.

PACIFIC LUXURY LINER STRIPPED TO PROVIDE SPACE FOR TROOPS

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 28 [Special].—Fine furnishings of the Matson luxury liner Matsonia have been stripped from the vessel in order to provide more space for troops during her next four trips, when she will operate for the government in the Pacific.

This was learned today and caused a wave of speculation as to whether the ship ever will be returned to the Matson service under present conditions. Likewise it was announced by the Matson line that the liner Monterey, due here Monday from Australia, would proceed directly to San Francisco.

It is reported that the Matsonia's lounges have been converted into dormitories, with all furniture removed and rows of bunks, four high, installed. It is reported that both ships will be used as troop transports. However, no plans for stripping the Monterey have been announced.

HOTEL IN JOLIET RAZED BY FIRE; 1 FATALLY BURNED

One man was burned to death and two others were injured last night when a fire razed the three story Monroe hotel in the main business section of Joliet. Fifty other residents of the hotel, many of them in their night clothes, were carried down ladders by firemen, and others were forced to flee from adjoining buildings threatened by the blaze.

The dead man was identified as William Foy, 35 years old, an electrician employed in the Elwood shell loading plant 12 miles south of Joliet. His body was found in a hallway connecting the Monroe hotel with the nearby Grand hotel, and firemen said he apparently was attempting to flee when trapped by flames.

The injured were Edward Donohue, 74, a retired printer, who jumped from his second floor room into an alleyway, and Clarence Esery, 48, who was overcome by smoke. The blaze started in the basement of the 65 year old hotel. Firemen fought for more than four hours before extinguishing it. Damage was estimated at $100,000.

Text of Grand Jury's Report on Flagrant Operations of County Gambling Syndicate

Following is the text of the Cook county grand jury's report on gambling, made yesterday to Chief Justice Robert Jerome Dunne of the Criminal court:

"The November grand jury further respectfully reports to the court that it has started an inquiry into protected syndicate gambling in Chicago and Cook county. We have not been able to complete this inquiry because of its widespread ramifications.

"We have found from the evidence presented before our body shocking conditions which not only justify our having started the inquiry, but which clearly demand the continuation of intense grand jury investigation in this field.

Assail "Meaningless" Arrests.

"It is our conclusion that in Chicago and Cook county protected syndicated gambling has openly and flagrantly operated for a long period of time without any real interference from the police, whose duty it is to prevent this evil. Meaningless arrests of so-called small fry employés of large gambling houses, which do not stop the gambling operations, merely serve to give false color to a claim that police are functioning. The practice of arresting one or two unimportant persons or 'stooges' under fictitious names and then immediately releasing them on bail does not, even in a small way, tend to help in the suppression of gambling, but is merely a sham.

"The prompt release of these stooges arrested in these apparently fake raids is a matter of grave concern to this jury and indicates clearly that gambling is controled by some hidden central syndicated force. This powerful syndicate furnishes and supplies money for bail, defense, and fines when necessary.

Gambling Can Be Stopped.

"The temporary closing down of gambling in both city and county during the latter part of this investigation should not be accepted as an indication that the syndicate has abandoned its operations. It is, however, conclusive proof that the police officials can stop syndicated gambling when they have the will to do so.

"We are satisfied from the evidence presented to us during this last week that the executives and superiors can, by proper and sincere orders to police subordinates, really compel activity that will end open syndicated gambling. Failure of subordinates to obey instructions of superiors should be met with prompt dismissal.

"The preferring of charges, together with trial board action, should be invoked against all police under civil service who hereafter fail or refuse to function. In the city of Chicago the responsibility is, and clearly should be placed on the shoulders of the captains in their respective districts.

"Neglect of duty on the part of any captain should draw prompt suspension and early action before the civil service commission. It is manifest that syndicated room play gambling accommodating scores and even hundreds of patrons cannot operate without the knowledge of the district commanding officer unless he wants to permit the place to run or is woefully inefficient.

"We see no legitimate reason for the continuation of a special gambling or morals divisions if district captains are held responsible for gambling conditions in their districts.

"This jury has had ample evidence before it that slot machines and gambling in all forms have been openly and brazenly operated in many sections thruout the county outside of Chicago. This condition could not possibly exist without the knowledge of the county police and the police departments of the towns and villages in such areas.

Term Conditions Tolerated.

"These are tolerated conditions. No tavern keeper owns his slot machine. Such machines are placed and maintained by the syndicate which spreads its power and influence to the extreme ends of the county.

"These syndicate controled slot machines and the syndicate controled gambling houses produce such a tremendous revenue that the syndicate combine is thus enabled to continue its lawless activity and spread corruption, purchase protection and openly and flagrantly flaunt the law.

"We have had sufficient convincing evidence before us to the effect that this syndicate is composed of the worst elements of hoodlums and gangsters and gunmen. Considerable progress has been made in ascertaining the identities of many of the important cogs and lesser hirelings in the syndicate.

Witnesses Fail to Appear.

"We have caused to be issued subpenas for several witnesses who have failed to appear before this body. We request your honor to call to the attention of the grand jury the fact that there are outstanding subpenas in the hands of the sheriff of Cook county. One of the subpenas has been issued for one Lieut. Fred Hagen of the Cook county highway police department. Among the others for whom subpenas have been issued are Jack Guzik, Edward Vogel, Edward Brinks, William Bennett, Thomas Novak, Thomas Russo, Fred Blazer, Julius Zimberoff and Lester Laird. We recommend that the December grand jury be apprised of the importance of interrogating these witnesses at the earliest possible date.

"Many more witnesses now under subpena were not heard by this body because of lack of time. Their names are in the possession of State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney.

"We earnestly recommend to this court that the December grand jury and as many grand juries as necessary be charged to coöperate with the state's attorney of Cook county in the continued investigation of protected syndicated gambling, to the end that the leaders of this group be ferreted out and fully prosecuted."

GRAND JURY FOREMAN FAVORS LONGER TERM FOR MAJOR INQUIRIES

Fred S. Slyder, 8143 Rhodes avenue, a salesmanager who was foreman of the November grand jury, said last night he advocated legislation that would enable a jury to have sufficient life to complete an inquiry such as that necessary to uncover and indict those responsible for gambling conditions in Chicago and Cook county. He said he and other members of the jury just disbanded would be glad to coöperate with the December jury.

"It does not seem quite right," Mr. Slyder said, "that about the time a jury gets acclimated to the job and begins to know what it is all about, its term is over. [Under the law a state grand jury cannot be extended over a court month.]

"It is an amazing education to the ordinary citizen to be placed on a grand jury and to learn first hand of conditions which exist.

"Our jury worked long hours trying to get as much evidence as possible, but the time was much too short. The jury had enough evidence to see what is going on in this community. So many persons are involved and the ramifications of the syndicate so broad that it may take several months for a grand jury to get the evidence to indict and prosecute those responsible."

TWO BOYS FLEE TRAINING SCHOOL; BOTH CAPTURED

Two inmates of the Illinois State Training School for Boys, near St. Charles, fled from the institution early yesterday during a heavy fog. They were captured several hours later, cold and hungry, on a road near Wasco, several miles west of the school.

The two, David James, 16 years old, of 1919 South 19th street, Maywood, and Paul Crandall, 16, of 464 Mitchell road, Aurora, had been sent to the school two weeks ago as delinquents.

Russell W. Ballard, managing director of the school, said they escaped from a cottage by climbing out a second floor window and dropping to the ground. They then scaled the fence around the grounds. They were found after the fog had lifted.

SCOTS TO HEAR DIPLOMAT AT FEAST TONIGHT

More than 1,500 Scots will gather in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel tonight to celebrate the annual Feast of the Haggis, ancient Scottish ceremony. Kilts and bagpipes will be second only to the feast's headliner, the haggis, a Scottish pudding made by an ancient recipe.

The dinner, which is sponsored by the Illinois St. Andrew society, is the 96th annual banquet of that organization. Proceeds of the dinner will be given to the Scottish Old People's home in Riverside, Robert Black, general chairman of the banquet, said. He reported that the haggis was brought from Scotland this year thru submarine infested waters.

Sir Gerald Campbell, former British minister plenipotentiary to this country and now head of the British press services here, will be the principal speaker. Dr. James Watt Rainey, professor emeritus of the department of literature and drama at Berea college in Kentucky, will be toastmaster.

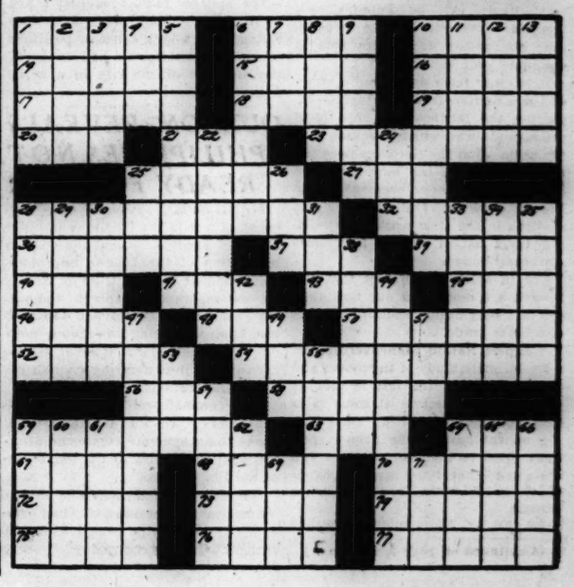
PUZZLE OF FRIDAY, NOV. 28, SOLVED



GREEN APPOINTS JONAS TO NEW COURT VACANCY

Must Quit Monday, Says Judge McKinley.

Gov. Dwight H. Green, in a surprise move yesterday, named Judge Edgar A. Jonas to the Walter T. Stanton vacancy on the Superior court, with the apparent intention that Jonas should serve the three days remaining of Stanton's present term, plus a portion of the new, six year term to which Stanton was elected on Nov. 4. Stanton died Nov. 8.

Judge Edgar A. Jonas.

In order to accept the Stanton vacancy, Judge Jonas resigned the Judge Denis E. Sullivan vacancy which he has been filling since Aug. 31. The governor immediately appointed him Stanton's successor.

McKinley Doubts Power.

Then, in his new rôle, Judge Jonas sought an assignment from the chief justice of the Superior court, Judge Michael L. McKinley, but was told, he reported later, that the chief justice doubted the governor's legal right to fill Stanton's post past Dec. 1—next Monday. The governor and Judge Jonas are Republicans, and Judge McKinley is a Democrat.

Judge Jonas told Judge McKinley that the governor had acted on the constitutional provision that a judge holds office until his successor is duly elected and qualified. Attorney John T. Dempsey, chairman of the Cook county Republican central committee, said under this construction the governor might fail to call a special election and Judge Jonas would sit indefinitely or the governor might set the election to coincide with the Supreme court election next June or the general election next November.

No Similar Illinois Case.

Friends of Judge Jonas said that no identical cases have ever come before Illinois courts. Supreme courts of other states have upheld the course the governor is following, they said.

Judge McKinley ceases to be chief justice next Monday, the expiration date of the present Stanton vacancy, Judge Jonas was told. Jonas said he would seek an appointment Monday—probably from the new chief justice, who will be selected Monday.

"I expect an assignment," Jonas said. "I don't expect judges to play cheap, petty, provincial politics."

While the law gives the governor no power to fill a vacancy which lasts more than a year, Green's advisers pointed out that actually he is filling only a three day vacancy, the possessor of which will continue to hold office until his successor is elected—whenever that may be.

Jonas Sues for Seat.

Meanwhile Judge John Prystalski of the Circuit court heard arguments in a suit in which Judge Jonas has been seeking to have himself declared elected Nov. 4 because he ran in 22d place behind the 21 victorious Democratic Superior court candidates.

Judge Jonas bases his contention on the argument that the legislature in 1935, in effect, abolished a Superior court judgeship, but did so unconstitutionally. Therefore, he contends, the judgeship still exists and, since he was 22d in the Nov. 4 returns he is entitled to a seat on the bench.

Harold G. Ward, recently elected to a six year term on the Superior court bench, will be given the oath of office by Michael J. Flynn, county clerk, in the chambers of Chief Justice McKinley Monday morning. The 20 reelected judges will take the oath at the same time.

WILLKIE TO ACT FOR COMMUNIST ON ALIEN APPEAL

New York, Nov. 28 [Special].—Wendell L. Willkie will represent William Schneiderman, secretary of the communist party of California, before the United States Supreme court during its January term to hear an appeal from decisions of two lower federal courts revoking the Red leader's citizenship.

The courts have held that Schneiderman, a leading Pacific coast communist, admittedly was a member of the communist party in 1927 when his naturalization papers were granted and therefore he was not acting in good faith when he swore "true faith and allegiance" to the constitution and the laws of the United States.

Disclosure by Mrs. Carol King, chief counsel for the communist secretary during the two lower court cases, that the 1940 Republican Presidential candidate had accepted her invitation to take over the high court pleading was confirmed by Willkie. He said he considered this "a vital test case" that might possibly affect every naturalized American citizen. He said he would represent Schneiderman without fee.

Waiting to Wed

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]
Dolores Del Rio and Orson Welles.

PATRICIA DANE.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 28 (AP).—Orson Welles and Dolores Del Rio say they'll wed shortly after her divorce becomes final on Jan. 18. They didn't expect the informal announcement to surprise any one, and it didn't. They've been together so frequently their friends' only question was "what's the date?"

Miss Del Rio, screen actress, obtained an interlocutory degree from Cedric Gibbons, movie art director, last January. They were married in 1930 in Santa Barbara, Cal., two years after the death of her first husband, Jaime Del Rio.

Actor-Producer-Director Welles was divorced two years ago by the former Virginia Nicholson of Chicago.

It was reported here that Gibbons will marry Patricia Dane, young screen actress, as soon as he is free.

MAYOR PLEASED BY AID PROMISED SMALL INDUSTRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—Expressing his confidence that responsible government officials are determined to avert the dangers to small business growing out of the rearmament program, Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago wound up a two day series of conferences with administration leaders this afternoon and boarded a train for home.

He announced shortly before his departure that he will return to the capital in time to appear Tuesday before the senate naval affairs committee which is considering a bill for revising the administration's present priorities system.

The measure would create a special forum or clearing center thru which little business could make known its wants for raw materials. The granting of such requests would depend upon whether there would be any interference with arms production, according to the bill.

The mayor also conferred during the afternoon with Leon Henderson, the administration's price fixer and civilian supply allocator, in connection with procuring materials needed for completion of Chicago's subway.

NEW DEAL FACES MORE FIGHTS ON ANTI-STRIKE BILL

Forced to Yield Ground in House and Senate.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—Compromise anti-strike bills reported by senate and house committees today produced widespread rumblings of dissatisfaction and left the prospect of legislation to restrain labor disturbances still more confused and uncertain. Free for all legislative floor fights in both the house and senate are expected next week.

The house labor committee quietly chloroformed a compulsory arbitration proposal which was put forward timorously—after a White House legislative conference last Monday night—and was soundly denounced by both labor and management. The committee reported a bill by Rep. Mary T. Norton [D., N. J.], its chairman, authorizing government seizure and operation of plants to break strikes after the failure of conciliation and mediation efforts and the lapse of a so-called "cooling off" period of 60 days.

Seizure Bill in House.

The senate judiciary committee also reported a plant seizure bill sponsored by Sen. Tom Connally [D., Tex.], which would "freeze" all employer-employé relations except wages during government operation of arms factories or other facilities and provide for wage adjustments by a Presidential board.

A senate subcommittee headed by Sen. Lister Hill [D., Ala.], majority whip, shelved a bill by Sen. Clyde Herring [D., Ia.] which would have outlawed all new closed shop contracts in armament industries, required a "cooling off" period for conciliation and mediation efforts before a strike could be called, and prohibited strikes not authorized by a majority of the employés—who would have voted secretly, under government supervision. The subcommittee reported instead a bill by Sen. Joseph H. Ball [R., Minn.], requiring negotiation, mediation and report of a fact finding board before strike could be called.

Fight to Curb Labor Czars.

New Dealers generally shunned all anti-closed shop and compulsory strike ballot proposals, which have been urged by conservative Democrats and Republicans to establish a greater degree of democracy in labor relations.

According to the anti-New Dealers, it is just as undemocratic to compel a man to join and pay dues to a union as a condition of employment as it is to compel a man to abstain from union activity as a condition of employment. It is equally undemocratic, they contend, to permit union bosses to call strikes without regard to the wishes of the workers whose livelihoods are affected.

The bill reported by the house labor committee is expected to receive administration support.

Rep. Robert Ramspeck [D., Ga.], acting chairman of the house group, said the Connally proposal to "freeze" employer-employé relations was rejected because, for one thing, it would forbid the government to employ non-union workmen in a closed shop plant.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

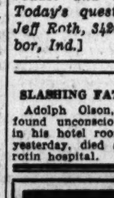
QUESTION.
Do you believe that modern youth has greater temptations than the youth of other generations?

WHERE ASKED.
Pittsfield building.

THE ANSWERS.

H. M. Hall, police officer, 4821 Belle Plaine avenue—In these speedy days the young people surely know what's going on. They have to start resisting temptation at 14 that I didn't know existed until I was 21. And naturally they're not as capable of making the wisest decisions at that early age. They not only have more temptations, they don't have a chance to grow up first.

H. P. Parker, assistant elevator starter, 9806 Seeley avenue—When young people spend as much time away from home as they do these days, I'm sure they encounter more temptations. When I was a youth I spent most of my evenings right under the good old home influence.



David Bass, architectural draftsman, 55 E. Washington street—I think ideas are temptations and the modern youth surely gets enough of those thru the movies, radio, and newspapers. The movies are less censored and youngsters see more of them. The bandit and villain rôles are glamorized, too, so youth is tempted to imitate what it sees on the screen.

June Lowe, assistant manager of apartment bldg., 1263 Pratt boulevard—There are lots of interesting things for young people today and they do spend more of their time in clubs and groups, but still I think they encounter more temptations. In former generations people were a little more inhibited and sedate and less outspoken. Now temptations are just a part of life.

K. P. Ehn, field representative of chemical company, 2544 Farwell avenue—My wife and I were just discussing that question and our 14 year old daughter last night. I don't think temptations have changed any but the attitude of youth and their parents toward the problem has. Parents can't do a successful job of being strict like they could a generation ago, so they prepare their children for the battle instead of shielding them from it.

Charles Schelly, house detective, 3332 Dickens avenue—Maybe our young moderns are a little too aware of all the existing temptations, but I wouldn't say that being informed was any more dangerous than being curious. Youth is youth and so are temptations. If they're strong they'll stick to the straight and narrow anyway.

SEEKS MIDWEST ARMY OF 60,000 TO BALK INVADER

Civilian Defense Director Decries Apathy.

A picture of Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan at readiness for possible invasion from an unnamed source was painted last night by Raymond J. Kelly, former national commander of the American Legion, in an address in Hotel Sherman before the 40 and 8 society.

Kelly, now director of the 6th civilian defense region, came to town from Detroit recently to begin his duties. These, as he outlined them in his speech, will include the recruiting of 60,000 men, women, and youths for for such diverse jobs as air raid wardens, air raid watchers, nurses, guards for public utilities, guards against sabotage, and possibly even auxiliary police and firemen.

Decries "Hooey" Attitude.

Kelly said that in New York many people regarded the civilian defense program as "hooey" and that the same attitude, perhaps to a greater degree, prevailed here. He said such apathy was a bad thing, and that he had hopes of a trained corps of watchers by early next year, when the army air corps is expected to make mock raids thruout the country.

Reports of the volunteer spotters would be phoned, presumably, to various fields where groups of interceptor aircraft are stationed, and these would then take to the air to beat back the "hostile" forces.

Kelly, who previously has come out in opposition to this country's entry into the war, which, he has said, might mean the loss of American freedom, regardless of the outcome, said, ominously, that "even tonight in the Pacific the outlook is serious."

Nothing to Lose, He Says.

Continuing on the national defense theme Kelly assured his hearers that if this country were invaded the civilian defense program would be "a great thing, and if it isn't invaded, nothing will be lost."

During the meeting one member rose to say:

"The hell with bundles for Britain! How about bundles for the boys in our own convalescent home?"

The identified speaker immediately ruled himself out of order, however, and assured his fellows that he was all for aid to Britain and "for this program 100 per cent."

Sponsor of Rifles

MIRIAM STREED.

Miriam [Mimi] Streed, 119 Clyde avenue, Evanston, was named sponsor of the Pershing Rifles, crack drill organization at the University of Illinois, last night. The announcement was made at a pledge dance of the organization held in the new Illini Union building. She is the winner among six finalists named a week ago. Miss Streed is a pledge of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority and is a freshman in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

2 GANG KILLERS DIE IN GAS CELL WHILE PRAYING

San Quentin, Cal., Nov. 28 (AP).—Two men who plundered and killed laughed today as they faced death, but as it came—in the prison gas chamber—each was muttering a prayer.

It was the end of the notorious Duchess gang, ruled by Mrs. Juanita Evelita Spinelli, 52 years old. She was executed a week ago. The two henchmen who followed her in death today were Mike Simeone, 33, her common law husband, and Gordon Hawkins, 22. The three were convicted of slaying a member of the gang, Robert Sherrard, 19, because they feared he would disclose that they had killed a man in San Francisco.

Within two hours of the execution the bodies of the two men were buried in a little cemetery in the Marin county hills, near the grave of "The Duchess."

HOUSE BLOCKS HENDERSON AS PRICE DICTATOR

Votes for Five Man Board to Rule in His Stead.

Republicans were playing politics. He said he was for any legislation, no matter what, to curb inflation.

Replying, Rep. J. William Ditter [R., Pa.] castigated Casey for "throwing constitutional restraints to the winds." He said Casey had descended to a new low level in partisan debate and in espousing the "dangerous policy that the end justifies the means."

Rep. Charles A. Halleck [R., Ind.], took a hand in the debate, noting that Democrats on the banking and currency committee once voted against the licensing provisions, but put them back under administration pressure.

"If there is any politics in this," he declared, "the Democrats started it."

Steagall Gives Ground.

Steagall himself had offered an amendment abolishing the office of price administrator and substituting in its stead a five man board with power to elect a chairman who would have the price fixing authority.

This did not satisfy the militant combination of Republicans and Democrats who have voiced fears that the price control bill has for its true objective the regimentation of the United States under totalitarian rule.

Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott [R., Mich.], who is ranking minority member of the banking and currency committee, in proposing the amendment to curb the price administrator's powers, suggested that a five man board without power of review would elect a chairman, who probably would be Henderson, and that four of the members would go fishing while Henderson would work his will upon business.

"Insult" to Membership.

"My amendment," Wolcott told the house, "is intended to prevent one man from obtaining control of the economic destiny of this nation. The Steagall amendment is an insult to the intelligence of the house. I believe the same elements that have embarrassed and humiliated our committee thruout the consideration of this legislation have been at work again."

Wolcott said later that he referred to the administration lobbyists who wanted extraordinary powers to be given the price administrator.

"Under the Steagall amendment," he continued, "the board would elect a chairman who would be administrator while the rest of the board could go fishing. Administration leaders have said they wished to compromise on this bill, but this monstrosity is no compromise. A third grader could see thru its purpose. There is no provision for a review of price ceilings, whereas my amendment contains such a provision which would act as a brake upon the enthusiasm, ambitions, and recklessness that might be found in the price administrator."

Steagall indignantly denied that any "sinister influences" had a hand in writing his amendment.

"Snoopers" Voted Down.

The house also approved by voice vote an amendment by Wolcott which canceled from the bill an entire section which had been termed the "snooping section." This section would have empowered the price administrator to pry into the operations of industry and to set up as large a force of "investigators" as he wished.

The opposition's first victory came under the leadership of Rep. Charles S. Dewey [R., Ill.]. He proposed an amendment to the section giving the administrator broad powers to buy and sell commodities anywhere in the world, with a revolving fund of unspecified size, thus manipulating the market to help enforce his price decrees.

Dewey proposed that these buying and selling powers be confined to government agencies already set up under the Reconstruction Finance corporation, upon notification by the price administrator to the President that such purposes and sales were essential to carry out the act. The amendment was adopted by voice vote and the price administrator thus was deprived of one of the powers much desired by proponents of the measure.

Ovation for Rep. Dies.

The temper of the house in regard to Henderson and other radicals in high government positions was illustrated when a rising ovation was given Rep. Martin Dies [D., Tex.], chairman of the committee investigating un-American activities, after he had delivered an impassioned address assailing the failure of the President to remove such individuals from office.

"I raise the question," said Dies, "that should be asked by all thoughtful men: How can this country prepare to defeat the enemies abroad unless we are prepared to defeat the enemies within our own country?

"Further than that, if we are going to delegate those vast powers of life and death—control of our system of free enterprise—to a group of men who have said to the country that they do not believe in it, then I say there is no other course for this congress to pursue except to send this bill back to the committee. By that action we will announce to America that congress is not a mere rubber stamp; that congress has not surrendered its legislative prerogatives and its dignity. We represent independent constituencies, and with the help of God we must sustain our power if American democracy is to survive!"

Ten Main Provisions of Price Control Measure Are Listed

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—Following are the main provisions of the price control measure enacted tonight by the house:

1. Purposes—To curb inflation; stabilize price and rents; eliminate profiteering; protect the wage-earner from undue impairment of his living standard.

2. Creates a five man board of review with broad powers to overrule decisions of the price administrator. Members of this board and the administrator are to be appointed by the President and confirmed by the senate. Each shall receive an annual salary of $10,000.

3. Fixes penalties of one to two years' imprisonment and fines up to $5,000 for violation of any order issued by the price administrator.

Powers Expire in 1943.

4. Sets June 30, 1943, as the date for termination of the powers granted.

5. Permits the administrator to set a ceiling—a top price—on any commodity threatening to reach the inflation point.

6. Permits establishment of ceilings on rents in defense areas and gives tenants the right to appeal to the administrator if they believe their rent too high.

7. Permits the government [thru the RFC] to buy and sell in the domestic market to stimulate production of high cost or marginal producers.

Farm Product Levels.

8. Forbids establishment of any agricultural commodity "ceiling" below 110 per cent of the parity price [the 1909-'14 level], or below the market price prevailing on Oct. 1, 1941, or below the average price for the commodity during the period between July 1, 1919, and June 30, 1929, whichever is highest.

9. Provides for an emergency court of three or more persons to be designated by the chief justice of the Supreme court to hear appeals from rulings by the administrator or the board. This court may set aside such rulings upon petition of persons affected by the price ceilings. In turn, this emergency court's decisions may be appealed to the Supreme court.

10. Orders that the administrator report to congress every 90 days on his operations under the act.

CALLS FOR FIGHT TO HALT COURTS' LOSS OF POWER

Chicago Bar Head Assails Executive Usurpation.

Lloyd D. Heth, president of the Chicago Bar association, warned last night of a slowly moving current of unrest and turmoil against the nation's judicial structure. He urged attorneys and judges to coöperate in a fight to prevent the further encroachment of administrative processes over judicial.

Heth, whose plan for a bench-bar committee recently was rejected by the Circuit and Superior court judges, was one of three main speakers at a banquet in the Palmer House, climaxing an all-day meeting of the Illinois State Bar association. More than 1,000 lawyers and judges attended.

"Our courts are being removed from the battleground of constitutional enforcement," Heth said, "and the fundamental principle of separation of powers between the legislative and executive branches of our federal government threatens to become a rhetorical myth. Commissions, bureaus, and boards, in a startling number, are being substituted for our courts and the tendency to supplant the judicial process by the administrative is dominant."

Bench Needs Aid of Bar.

The bench alone, Heth said, cannot lead the fight to maintain the integrity and strength of the judicial structure.

"Judges and lawyers must march alike," he said, "to defend and preserve the process that is judicial. For it is upon this structure that our whole social fabric has been spun and upon which the happiness and welfare of mankind depends."

Loren E. Murphy, chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court, who, with the associate justices, was a special guest, declared that if the establishment of truth and justice is one of man's chief interests, the legal profession is best suited to accomplish that interest. He said that all lawyers and judges should strive to strengthen public confidence in the legal profession, for "the faith of the people in lawyers and in the judiciary leads to a stronger and more united nation."

American Bar Head Speaks.

Walter P. Armstrong, president of the American Bar association, predicted greater freedom on the part of state Supreme courts in cases dealing with the federal constitution. More and more, he said, federal courts are remanding cases of state interest to local courts instead of having the United States Supreme court make the decision.

A feature of the banquet was a series of dramatizations sketching important historical events in the development of the Illinois Supreme court. Various attorneys and judges portrayed rôles of former justices and of such historical personages as Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas. During the day most of the association members attended round table conferences and discussions on miscellaneous legal subjects.

MURDER CHARGE FILED AGAINST CHICAGO SOLDIER

Fort Custer, Mich., Nov. 28 (AP).—Pvt. Henry A. Pryor, 23 years old, was charged today with murdering Pvt. Charles H. Adams, a press relations officer announced. Both are Negroes and Chicagoans, Pryor's address being 4516 Indiana avenue, and Adams' 5847 Calumet avenue.

The officer said the district attorney's office in Detroit had issued the warrant charging Pryor with murder. Army officers previously had said the shooting was apparently an accident during a friendly tussle.

The shooting occurred in an area occupied by the 184th field artillery's anti-tank battery.

'America's Line of Defense'; Col. McCormick Talks Tonight

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—An exchange of telegrams inserted in the Congressional Record today by Rep. Charles S. Dewey [R., Ill.] disclosed that Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, flatly rejects the theory the British Isles constitute America's first line of defense. Our first line of defense, Col. McCormick holds, is British Newfoundland, Bermuda, and Trinidad, in which the United States is now establishing naval, air, and army bases on sites leased from Great Britain.

Rep. Chas. S. Dewey.

The exchange of telegrams was an aftermath of the recently published correspondence between the Tribune publisher and Lord Kemsley, publisher of the London Sketch. In the course of his letter to Lord Kemsley Col. McCormick said "I believe that many Americans would volunteer to aid you in arms to prevent your being conquered and I am one of them."

Refers to Letters.

Some interventionists inferred from this utterance that Col. McCormick subscribes to their theory that the British Isles should be defended from invasion as the first line of American defense. It was to this point that Congressman Dewey addressed himself when he took the floor shortly after in the house.

"In recent editions of the press there have appeared two interesting letters," Dewey told the house, "one written by Col. R. R. McCormick of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to Lord Kemsley of the London Sketch. In one of the paragraphs of the letter written by Mr. McCormick, he states that he might be willing to fight to save Britain.

"Some of my friends asked me what this meant, and I wired Col. McCormick and received a telegram in response. Sen. Guffey of Pennsylvania recently placed Lord Kemsley's letter of response in the appendix of the record. I ask unanimous consent to include these two telegrams, the one I sent to Mr. McCormick and his reply and also Mr. McCormick's original letter to Lord Kemsley, so that the correspondence will be complete."

Telegram to Col. McCormick.

Rep. Dewey's telegram to Col. McCormick follows:

"Col. R. R. McCormick,

"I have read with great interest your letter to Lord Kemsley and his response thereto. Does your expressed willingness to volunteer to defend the British Isles from invasion mean, as is claimed by some here, that you consider Great Britain our first line of defense? CHARLES S. DEWEY."

Col. McCormick's telegraphed response to Dewey read:

"Rep. Charles S. Dewey,

"Obviously I do not think Great Britain is our first line of defense. If I did, I would be over there. Our first line of defense is Newfoundland, Bermuda, and Trinidad.

"R. R. MCCORMICK."

The correspondence mentioned by Dewey will appear in tomorrow's Congressional Record.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, addressing a coast to coast audience on W-G-N's Chicago Theater of the Air tonight, will read his recent letter to Lord Kemsley, chairman of the London Daily Sketch, in which he said that he, and he believed many other Americans, would fight to prevent the conquest of England.

Col. McCormick also wrote, however, that little support exists in this country for a military expedition by the United States, either to keep the British in possession of their island or to keep Germany out.

Next Saturday's Chicago Theater of the Air will feature a reading of Lord Kemsley's reply to Col. McCormick. The London editor asked for all-out American intervention in the present conflict, stating that such a declaration would have a very damaging effect upon German morale.

"The Mikado" Offered.

Col. McCormick will read his letter on the program which includes presentation of a streamlined version of one of Gilbert and Sullivan's most delightful productions, "The Mikado." Starred are Marion Claire, singing the rôle of Yum-Yum, and Attilio Baggiore as Nanki-Poo.

The singing rôles taken by Miss Claire and Baggiore will be acted and spoken by Barbara Luddy and Bret Morrison. Others in the singing cast are Win Stracke as The Mikado of Japan; Earl Wilkie as Ko-Ko; and Marion Schroeder and Ruth Slater as Pitti-Sing and Peep-Bo.

The dramatic cast includes Willard Waterman, Bobby Jellison, Marvin Mueller, Olan Soule, Rita Ascot, Marilou Neumayer, and Muriel Bremner. John Weigel is the narrator. The musical background will be supplied by the W-G-N concert orchestra under the leadership of Henry Weber, and the chorus directed by Robert Trendler. The production will be staged in costume.

Hits Will Be Sung.

"The Mikado" contains many memorable songs which have places in the streamlined version. Miss Claire will sing "The Sun, Whose Rays Are All Ablaze," and, with Miss Schroeder and Miss Slater, "Three Little Maids from School Are We."

Baggiore's solos include "A Wand'ring Minstrel I." He will join Miss Claire in "Brightly Dawns Our Wedding Day" and "Here's A How-De-Do."

William A. Bacher will produce the program. Guests in the audience will include the following artists and conductors: Josephine Antoine, Frederick Jagel, Egon Petri, Isaac Stern, Maria Kurenko, Carlo Peroni, Emile Cooper, Janet Fairbank, and Beal Hober.

PRESIDENT GOES TO GEORGIA FOR RESORT DINNER

Presides at Founder's Day Banquet Tonight.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard Presidential Special En Route to Noonan, Ga., Nov. 28.—President Roosevelt tonight was en route to his second home—Georgia—to participate in the annual observance of the founding of the infantile paralysis resort he established at Warm Springs.

Tomorrow night Mr. Roosevelt will preside at Founder's day dinner—twice postponed at his reluctant suggestion by the press of international and domestic affairs. He will carve a turkey for a head table of patients selected by lot from the foundation population. Friends of the colony, the foundation staff and patients will join in the ceremonies.

Normally the anniversary is observed on Thanksgiving day. This year the patients picked the early Thanksgiving set by the President, altho the official state day of Thanksgiving, set by Gov. Eugene Talmadge, long time foe of the New Deal, was Nov. 27.

Trip Twice Delayed.

When he was forced by the coal strike in captive mines, the Japanese crisis, and the railroad strike threat to postpone his visit for the first date set, Mr. Roosevelt hoped to reach the colony for the established Thanksgiving day. Events again forced a postponement until tomorrow night.

The President today proclaimed Dec. 15 as "Bill of Rights day" and called upon the American people to cherish "the immeasurable privileges which the charter guaranteed" and "to rededicate its principles and its practices."

The date marks the 150th anniversary of the appending to the constitution of the first 10 amendments, which guaranteed freedom of religion, press, speech and assembly, and a right to petition the government for redress of grievances.

The President first went to Warm Springs, Ga., in 1924 when he was recuperating from the attack of infantile paralysis which struck him in 1921 after the Presidential campaign of 1920 in which he was the running mate of James Cox of Ohio, Democratic candidate for the Presidency, who lost to Warren G. Harding.

'2D WIFE' SAYS SHE'LL TESTIFY IN TORRANCE TRIAL

New York, Nov. 28 [Special].—Mrs. Martha Caldwell Torrance, who claims she was the second wife of Dr. Arthur Frederick Torrance, facing trial in Monterrey, Mexico, on a charge of murdering his 71 year old bride, announced tonight that she is preparing to go to Mexico to testify against Torrance.

Mrs. Torrance, who is well beyond middle age, said she is the daughter of James Caldwell of Wheeling, W. Va. She said she is wealthy and that her father formerly was attorney general of West Virginia. Mrs. Torrance said she obtained a divorce from Torrance at Wheeling in 1935.

Like her successor, Mrs. Torrance met Dr. Torrance on a ship while on a world cruise. This was in 1932, she said. Later they returned to the United States and were married at Charleston, S. C., in 1934, she said.

JAPAN TO MAKE DECISION: PEACE OR WAR IN EAST

U. S. Stand Is Unyielding on Terms.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—Whether there shall be peace or war in the Pacific is wholly for Japan to determine, according to the stand taken by the United States government in the negotiations unsuccessfully initiated by Tokio for a compromise of the conflicting objectives of the two countries.

The unyielding resistance of the United States to Japan's policy in the far east was set forth courteously but firmly by the President and Secretary of State Cordell Hull in their discussions with Tokio's special emissary, Saburo Kurusu, and the regular Japanese ambassador, Kichisaburo Nomura.

The failure of the Japanese to obtain a relaxation of America's economic embargo of Japanese trade or to get any other concessions has been reported to Tokio and the Japanese negotiators are awaiting instructions. President Roosevelt is standing pat and awaiting Tokio's next move.

Reports of Troop Movements.

That Tokio is already moving is the interpretation here of reports that Japanese troops are being massed in Indo-China on the border of Thailand presumably for an occupation of that country as a base for an invasion of British Burma for the purpose of closing the Burma road by which the Chinese army is being supplied.

Following receipt of the advice of this move the President summoned his war council consisting of Secretary Hull, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Adm. Harold Stark, chief of naval operations. A protracted discussion ensued but the decisions reached, if any, were held secret.

President Issues Statement.

A significant action bearing upon the situation in the Pacific was made known in the following official statement Mr. Roosevelt issued at his press conference:

"American merchant vessels sailing on routes between the United States ports and ports of Spain, Portugal, and their adjacent island possessions will not be armed.

"American merchant vessels sailing in the inter-American trade between ports of the United States and ports in Central and South America will not be armed.

"American merchant vessels sailing on routes in the Pacific ocean will not be armed under existing circumstances.

"Public announcement will be made of any change of policy affecting any of these routes."

Question for Tokio.

Asked how long the "existing circumstances" in the Pacific might be expected to prevail the President said that question might better be asked in Tokio than in Washington. Asked to comment on the far eastern situation he thought it better not to. That he regards it critical, however, was evidenced by a remark that he would stay at Warm Springs till Tuesday unless the Japanese situation compels his earlier return.

The acts and utterances of the administration displayed a caution to take no step of a warlike nature against Japan but to hold to a defensive line of action, so that if war develops it will have been started by Japan, not by the United States. The Japanese, of course, have made it clear from the start that they regard the course pursued by the United States as one provocative of war against which they are compelled to defend themselves.

The Japanese charge the United States with consorting with Great Britain, China, and the Dutch East Indies to encircle Japan for the evident purpose of crushing her when circumstances favor. The United States, on the other hand, accuses Japan of attempting the encirclement of the Philippines. Much was made of this argument in the discussions with the Japanese negotiators.

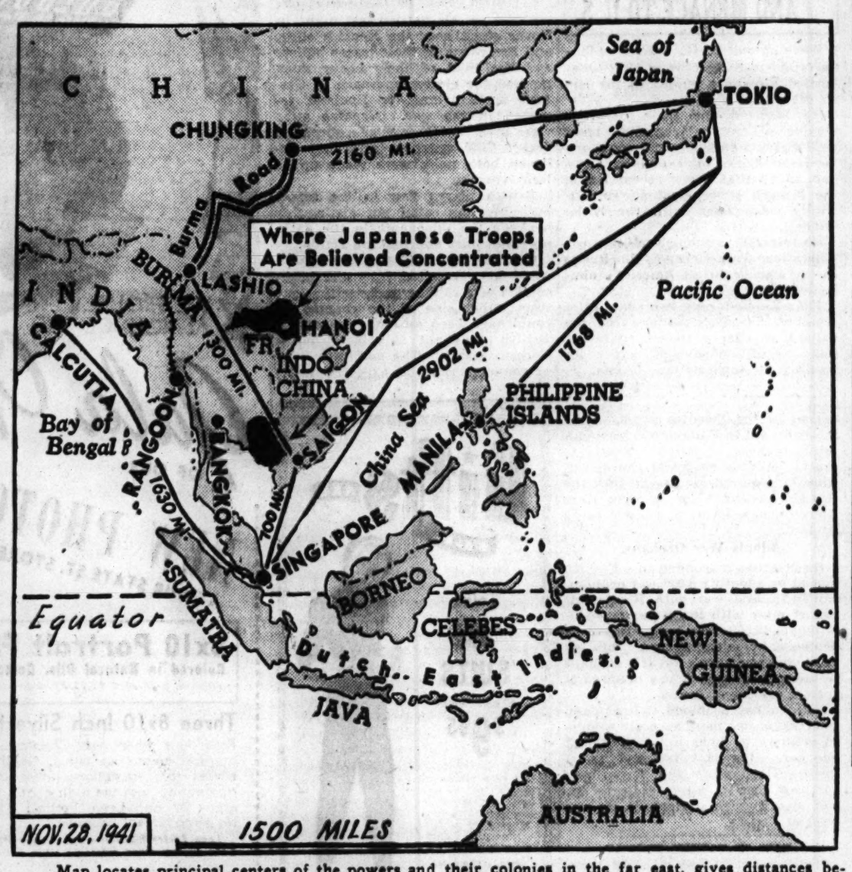
Status of Philippines.

The Philippine Islands asked for their independence of American rule and have been granted it, effective in 1946. The position taken by the United States, however, is that the islands are still under the American flag and will be defended as American territory until the flag is pulled down.

So the argument was advanced in the negotiations with the Tokio envoys that what with Japanese territory to the north and Japanese mandated islands on the east, Japan completed a horseshoe around the Philippines by occupation of Indo-China, completing the circle except on the south. This was viewed as a grave threat to the safety of the Philippines which the United States is justified in regarding with concern and in taking steps to remove.

Furthermore the interest of the United States in the far east was represented to be the tin and rubber obtained from the Dutch East Indies and British Malaya. This interest, the administration contends, would justify the United States in employing its armed forces to resist a Japanese move against British Singapore and the Dutch Indies.

Danger Points in the Far Eastern Crises



Map locates principal centers of the powers and their colonies in the far east, gives distances between them, and indicates where Japanese troops are reported concentrated for a possible attack on Thailand and the Burma road.

EXPECT U. S. NAVY TO BEAR BRUNT IN ANY PACIFIC WAR

Blockade Is Best Weapon Against Japan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28.—If war comes in the Pacific the brunt of the conflict will be borne by the United States navy, military experts in the national capital are agreed.

The navy will be called upon immediately to establish a blockade by sitting athwart Japan's commercial lanes and to destroy the Japanese navy piecemeal or by grand naval engagements should such actions be offered.

Capital military experts are confident that the navy would be able to carry out its mission. They believe that the American navy is vastly superior, ship for ship and man for man. The American ships can shoot faster and with far greater accuracy than comparable vessels in the navy of Nippon, the experts say.

Blockade Can Be Effective.

Experts also assert that the American navy by sitting on sea highways can conduct an effective blockade of Japan. With the outbreak of war the navy would probably move into the great British naval base at Singapore and into lesser bases in Australia, New Zealand, and the Dutch West Indies to block Japan's life line to southern Asia, Africa, Europe, and the Australian archipelago.

The Philippines would constitute a keystone in the arrangement of bases, not only because of the American naval facilities in the islands but also because the island would be a base for air and army operations against Japan. The United States for several years has been training a commonwealth army, which was recently incorporated into the United States army.

On the outbreak of war American divisions would undoubtedly be sent to the Philippines to support commonwealth troops in defense of the islands and the principal fortress of Corregidor Island, which commands the entrance to Manila bay.

Long Line of Communications.

The navy would be charged with maintaining a line of communications between the islands and the American mainland. All supplies and forces would have to move along a line thru Japanese mandate islands, which have reportedly been fortified. The navy would be called upon to reduce these fortifications.

Blockade of Japan's life lines to South America would operate from the Philippines eastward to Hawaii and then to the Panama canal. American island possessions would be linked in a blockade chain. From Alaska the American navy would work to cut Japan off from fishing grounds.

Military experts do not believe Japan can survive such a blockade. They feel that such a blockade would force the Japanese fleet to come out and seek action, altho the odds would be heavy against Japan.

It is considered significant that the Japanese naval officers are not for war with the United States. They have a wholesome respect for the American navy, acknowledged to be the best in the world, and realize that Japan is not fitted for an economic war or for carrying a naval war to the United States.

Vulnerable to Air Attack.

Japan is considered by military experts to be highly vulnerable to air operations. A single air raid on Tokio could cause unbelievable havoc, experts say. The population of 7 million is crowded in flimsy houses in an area not larger than that of Chicago.

Incendiary bombs probably would make the city one vast inferno. It does not possess sufficient highways or railroads to effect rapid evacuation. The city is without air raid shelters. Other Japanese cities are in similar st...

Almost all Japan's raw material must come from the outside. With the United States sitting on the supply lines, Japanese industry would be starved out.

Regarded War Weary Nation.

Japan is not keyed for war. Military experts regard her as the third most war weary nation in the world as a result of the prolonged Sino-Japanese war. They place only Spain and Italy above Japan in war weariness.

Military experts are certain that this knowledge of the war picture in the Pacific has inspired the determined stand that the administration has taken in the conversations with Japanese representatives looking toward solution of differences in the far east.

The administration is regarded as convinced that Japan cannot hope to wage a successful war with the United States in the Pacific and for this reason has demanded that Japan withdraw from China, abandon aggression as a national policy, and break off her alliance with the axis powers.

The administration is reported certain that Japan is aware of the odds against her and will finally elect to back down rather than fight against such odds. The gamble, according to military experts, lies in the difference between eastern and western psychology—the eastern mind may elect to try the hopeless rather than lose face.

ROOSEVELT ON AEF

On January 3, 1940, in his annual message to congress President Roosevelt said:

"I can understand the feelings of those who warn the nation that they will never again consent to the sending of American youth to fight on the soil of Europe. But, as I remember, nobody has asked them to consent—for nobody expects such an undertaking."

U.S. Coast Guard Increases Protection of French Ships

New York, Nov. 28 (AP).—The coast guard has increased its protection of French ships, it was learned today, placing a dozen additional men aboard the liner Normandie and several more on the freighters Mont Everest and Fort Royal. There now are 160 guardsmen on the Normandie and 20 on each of the smaller ships. It was reported that more guardsmen would be sent aboard in the next few days, in view of reports that the French government at Vichy might reach closer collaboration with Germany.

AIR CHIEF SAYS ARMY HAS 2,500 COMBAT PLANES

Praises Performance of U. S. Designs.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Henry H. Arnold reported today the army air forces possessed 2,500 or more modern, combat type war planes despite the diversion of American made aircraft abroad.

In a revised version of a recent confidential speech at the military academy, released by the air forces, Gen. Arnold said 800 or more planes were ready for action in advanced bases outside the continental United States. He gave no figures for trainers or craft other than combat planes.

Detailing progress made in expanding army air power in the last two years, the air force chief stressed improvements in effectiveness as well as the gain in numbers.

British Like P-40.

Gen. Arnold said the British had found the army's P-40 pursuit planes superior to their own Hurricane fighters and that they were standard equipment in the near east "altho we no longer rate the P-40 better than a good pursuit trainer."

Long range, four engine B-17 bombers "have executed, for some time, successful day and night raids over Germany at 34,000 feet with virtual immunity from enemy fighters and ground fire," Arnold said.

"We have reached the large production stage on our single engined Bell P-39, a type that has demonstrated it is a match for the Spitfire and Messerschmidt up to 16,000 feet, and on our Lockheed P-38," he said. "Eclipsing both of these, however, is the new single engine Republic P-47B."

New model American light and medium bombers and other types also excel foreign planes, Arnold asserted.

Japanese Charge Britain Plans Thailand Invasion

TOKIO, Nov. 28 (AP).—Dispatches purporting to describe a new British "menace" to both Thailand [Siam] and Japan began to appear in Japanese newspapers tonight, as the cabinet, flanked by high war and naval ministry officials, deliberated Japan's final stand on the Pacific peace negotiations in Washington, D. C.

Nichi Nichi printed under a Bangkok dateline the report that more than 50,000 British troops had been brought up to Thailand's borders, among them "ferocious Indians"—in order to imperil Thailand and strengthen what the Japanese called the "ABCD encirclement" of Japan. British air forces, the dispatch said, were flying daily across the frontier in order to frighten the Thai people, and preparations were said to be complete for a British invasion of Thailand over 10 roads. [Japan calls America, Britain, China, and the Dutch East Indies the ABCD group.]

See End of U. S. Talks.

Prior to the cabinet meeting, government spokesmen declined to say whether there would be a reply to Secretary of State Cordell Hull's note of Wednesday. The official news agency Domei expressed the opinion, however, that there was little leeway for prolongation of the Washington discussions.

Taking cognizance of the fact that Japanese occupation of French Indo-China has entered into the negotiations, the Japan Times and Advertiser, which is controlled by the foreign office, argued that this was necessary because of "increasing encirclement" and "Free French" activities in the French colony.

Report Transports on Move.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 29 [Saturday] (AP).—Reliable reports were heard here today that more than 70 Japanese troop transports had been seen moving in the direction of Hainan Island or French Indo-China early this week, a development which Americans here termed "far from reassuring."

Sources here estimated that the transports carried fully a division and a half—22,000 to 23,000 men—with complete campaign and landing equipment, including landing boats.

Add to Singapore Forces.

SINGAPORE, Nov. 28 (AP).—Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, commander-in-chief of the British Far Eastern forces, welcomed today what a communique called "the usual weekly reenforcements" to his steadily growing command. Several thousand troops, many of them veterans of fighting in other war theaters, arrived from the United Kingdom after "an uneventful voyage," the communique said.

See Fall of Tojo Régime.

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 28 (AP).—Responsible far eastern authorities predicted tonight that current efforts to insure American-Japanese peace would fail and that this would cause replacement of the Tojo government in Japan by another fully committed to a war program.

GERMANS STRIKE AT CAUCASIAN OIL PRIZE FROM AIR

Admit Russian Attack on Black Sea Corner.

BERLIN, Nov. 28 (AP).—Admittedly hit in the Black sea corner of the eastern front by Russian counterattacks of unusual strength, the German armed forces stabbed at the fringe of the Caucasian oil country from the air tonight in the start of new offensive operations.

The Nazi armies of the Crimea also opened a new drive on the Red navy fortress of Sevastopol, which has been holding out in the southwest corner of the peninsula while more spectacular operations unfolded elsewhere.

Break Thru Mountain Passes.

The Germans said they weakened the stubborn land defenses of the port considerably by breaking thru the difficult mountain passes to the east, despite alternating cloudbursts and snowfall.

[The Moscow radio said that "the threat to Sevastopol is growing. The enemy continues to bring up fresh forces in the Crimean sector."]

On the Moscow front, scene of the most prolonged and violent German pressure, the attacking armies were pictured as forging methodically ahead, slowly choking off the Red capital's communications on north, west, and south.

The Russians obviously had a good deal to do with intensification of the fighting in the south. German dispatches said they had counterattacked heavily in the Rostov-on-Don and Donetz bend sectors with the support of both tanks and planes.

Claim Reds Slowed Up.

The German version was that these counterassaults were slowed up by the heavy losses which the Germans were able to inflict.

Starting offensive action of their own in the same general region, the Germans sent planes across the Strait of Kerch, which separates Crimea from the Caucasus, for bombardment of a part of the Kuban river section. This is on the fringe of the oil country which the Russians desperately need to hold and which the Germans desperately desire.

FINLAND FORBIDS SENDING OF FATS TO MEN IN ARMY

Nation's Leaders Confer on Food Problem.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Nov. 28.—Field Marshal Mannerheim, Finnish commander in chief, arrived in Helsingfors today with his staff to confer with President Risto Ryti and other members of the government concerning economic and tactical matters.

Finland's most serious economic problem is food. Only 150 grams of fat [about ⅓ of a pound, there being 453 grams in a pound] will be allotted to each inhabitant over 16 years in December. Children under 16 will receive 500 grams. As compensation, the monthly ration has been increased to 1½ kilograms [slightly over three pounds]. The government has decided to furnish bakeries with wheat flour so white bread can be sold during the Christmas holidays.

Bans Butter Shipments.

Citizens will be permitted to purchase 50 cents worth of meat during the month. The country's last reserves of coffee will be exhausted by the December ration, which amounts to 250 grams a person.

Newspapers today warned relatives of soldiers not to include butter or other fats in packages addressed to the front. The food shortage has not yet affected men in the army.

The government has reported the purchase of 1,000 tons of oranges from Spain, which is the only luxury the Finns will have for Christmas.

Finland's food problem is widely discussed in the Swedish press. Altho Sweden's aid to Finland has been curtailed because of British threats to cancel Swedish navicerts [naval certificates required for pasage thru the British blockade] for imports from America, new forms of aid are being devised.

Adopts War Orphans.

Sweden has responded to a Finnish appeal by adopting 5,500 war orphans. Finland's first war with Russia left this country with 15,000 war orphans, of whom 13,500 have been adopted by people at home and abroad. Thus far 7,000 children have been left orphans in the present war. Seven hundred of them have been adopted.

Sweden has proposed that Finland send 300 of her more severely wounded soldiers to Sweden for treatment and care. Upsala university has informed Helsingfors and Turku universities that it wants to care for wounded Finnish students in its hospital at Upsala.

DIES IN PARKED TRUCK.

Eric Anderson, 54 year old, 1800 Larrabee street, died yesterday of a heart attack in the cab of his truck while it was parked near 1265 North avenue.

HULL CALLS FINLAND A PUPPET OF HITLER AND MENACE TO U. S.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28 (AP).—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today labeled Finland a puppet of the Hitler régime.

He asserted the little country's signing of the anti-comintern pact was highly significant and could not be camouflaged or explained away, and added that every recent act of the Finnish government shows it is "fully coöperating with the Hitler forces."

He referred to Finnish military collaboration with Germans in Russia as "a menace to all America's aims for self-defense."

Thus Finland, only two years after winning America's acclaim for her valiant resistance to an aggressor, finds herself denounced again for fighting the same nation—Russia.

BRITISH AND NAZI WARSHIPS BATTLE IN DOVER STRAIT

LONDON, Nov. 29 [Saturday] (AP).—Naval vessels battled last night in Dover strait near the Kentish cliffs, and the gleam of their tracer bullets and the thud of their heavy guns marked the closest approach of German surface craft to England reported in the war. Machine guns were fired rapidly from mist shrouded decks. Cliff watchers said they believed both units were made up of light vessels.

British planes flew to the scene, but observers could not distinguish between the opponents in the darkness and mist and took no action.

One observer said that the action could have resulted from the interception of a raiding party setting out from either side of the channel, or could have been an effort to protect British merchant shipping from a German attack. The admiralty said no comment could be expected immediately.

HOLLAND'S QUEEN BIDS SUBJECTS TO RESIST GERMANS

Cautions Them Against 'Rash Acts.'

LONDON, Nov. 28 (AP).—Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands urged her subjects in occupied Holland tonight to continue their "tenacious passive resistance" to the Germans, but cautioned them against "rash acts."

She praised American military protection in Dutch Guiana as "extremely important not only to ourselves but our allies."

She spoke over radio Orange, one of the foreign language transmitters of the British Broadcasting company.

Explaining the agreement between the Netherlands and the United States for sending troops to Surinam, she said it was necessary to take "extraordinary measures for protection against assaults of the enemy."

Nazi Tactics Anger Queen.

The queen declared the Nazis had "miscalculated" in attempting to subjugate Holland because they "did not realize how your resistance to oppression would grow."

She said she heard with "sorrow and indignation" that German occupation authorities "seek to force you by roundabout methods to take part in the struggle against your own country, how they arbitrarily drag your men and women into prisons, how they let you suffer from lack of elementary foods, and how they persecute the Jews in an abominable way."

German propaganda, she said, "rolls off you because it is too stupid, too transparent, too crude, and entirely unbelievable."

U. S. Troops to Erect Camps.

PARAMARIBO, Dutch Guiana, Nov. 28 (AP).—Three United States ships steamed up the Surinam river to Paramaribo today with army troops and equipment for setting up barracks for larger contingents to follow.

The remainder of the troops being sent here by agreement with the Netherlands government and with approval of nearby Brazil to guard important bauxite mines are to follow after erection of camps.

Brazil Retains Reserve Officers.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 28 (AP).—Indications that Brazil is strengthening garrisons in the north, where she is coöperating in the defense of Dutch Guiana, were seen today in an order keeping at their posts there second line reserve officers who were to have been released Dec. 31.

The order by Gen. Eurico Gaspar Dutra, minister of war, retained the officers until further notice. Elsewhere in Brazil such officers will be released by the end of the year.

POLISH PREMIER HOPS TO SEE STALIN ON U. S. AID FOR ARMY OF POLES

TEHERAN, Iran, Nov. 28 (AP).—Premier Wladyslaw Sikorski of the "Free Polish" government, announcing that President Roosevelt had promised lend-lease help for a Polish army mobilized in Russia, left by soviet plane today for Moscow to complete arrangements with Premier Josef Stalin.

Polish staff officers and Lieut. Col. Townsend Griffiss of the United States army air corps accompanied Sikorski in another heavily armed Russian plane. Griffiss was bound for Kuibyshev, temporary soviet capital.

Sikorski told foreign correspondents that 50,000 British uniforms and firearms had been distributed to Polish soldiers in Russia, while another 50,000 had arrived at Archangel and 60,000 kits were on the way from the United States. He described the outlook as good for "re-creating a strong Polish army" from 500,000 Poles now in Russia. Sikorski said he had the "full support of Britain and President Roosevelt."

FIND TAX EXPERT DEAD OF FUMES IN PARKED AUTO

Walter C. Stenstrom, 41 years old, 2044 Arthur avenue, a tax service expert with offices at 105 West Adams street, was found dead of carbon monoxide poisoning yesterday in his automobile, parked on Landwehr road, south of Techny road, near Glenview.

A hose led from the exhaust to the inside of the car. The following note in pencil was found on the back of a business card:

"To my dear wife, Grace: Sorry, but this is the only way I can see out. My insurance will cover the education of the boy. [The Stenstroms have four children.] Goodby and God bless you all, Wallie."

Sergt. Max Ramlow of the Morton Grove county highway police said Stenstrom was believed to have committed suicide because of financial worries. Ralph Gutgsell, Stenstrom's attorney, said Stenstrom was put on probation in 1935 in connection with the embezzlement of $1,120 from the Home Owners' Loan corporation.

MRS. COOLIDGE TELLS CRITICISM FOR WAR STAND

Northampton, Mass., Nov. 28 (AP).—Mrs. Grace Coolidge, widow of President Calvin Coolidge, asserts that her acceptance of the honorary chairmanship of the Hampshire county Fight for Freedom committee has drawn some protests including a letter describing her and Sen. Carter Glass [D. Va.] as a "couple of old age destroyers."

She made the comment smilingly to newspaper men last night after attending for the first time a meeting of the committee which supports the administration's foreign policies and advocates "all-out" efforts to defeat the Nazis.

ARGENTINA BANS 5,000 RALLIES OF PRO-BRITISH UNIT

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 28.—On direct instructions from acting President Ramon S. Castillo, police today issued an order forbidding public meetings that were to have been held tomorrow under the auspices of the pro-British Accion Argentina in Buenos Aires and 5,000 other places in Argentina.

The reason given was that the government could not tolerate meetings whose avowed purpose was "to protest against the supposed government policy of international isolation."

Castillo's decision came like a bombshell as all arrangements had been completed for the greatest Argentine public manifestation in favor of the fight of the democracies against the dictatorships.

It was calculated that 100,000 people would attend the meeting here.

FIND PAPAL HOME IS 13TH CENTURY PALACE, NOT 15TH

ROME, Nov. 28.—The Vatican palace that has been the home of many popes was not begun by Nicholas V. around 1450, as believed, but by Nicholas III., who headed the Roman Catholic church from 1277 to 1280, Prof. Redig de Campos of the Vatican museum said today in a report to the Academy of Sacred Archæology.

Proof of the new date was found during alterations in the flooring of the third story of the palace. A wall was discovered in the space between the floor and the ceiling of the hall below, and the decorations were said to be clearly of 13th century style. Nicholas III. was the first pope who preferred to live in the then modest little Vatican building instead of the sumptuous Lateran palace.

O. K. BRITISH BILL TO DRAFT BOTH MEN AND WOMEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 28.—The British cabinet today approved the text of a new national service bill making all men and women in this country subject to call for duty in the fighting forces or war jobs. Leaders of all parties supporting the government have sponsored a motion to be debated in the house of commons next week empowering the government to introduce the measure. The bill, it is understood, provides that men up to 50 years of age and women up to 40 will be affected by the extension of conscription.

Negro Soldier in Uniform Shot to Death in Street

Pvt. Joseph Harderman, 18 years old, a colored soldier on leave from Fort Riley, Kas., was shot to death last night near 54th street and Prairie avenue. Witnesses told police that two men walked up behind Harderman, who was in uniform, and one of them fired a bullet into his back. Harderman's home was at 213 East 56th street.

Rob Attorney and Wife of $600 Gems and Coat

Two handkerchief masked gunmen armed with shotguns robbed Attorney Louis W. Reinecker and his wife, Caroline, of jewelry worth $600 and a fur coat valued at $300 in front of the Reinecker home at 6130 North Rockwell street last night. Reinecker said the gunmen drove up beside his car as he stopped in front of his home.

PREMIER ASSAILS GERMAN DIG AT AUSTRALIA ARMY

CANBERRA, Australia, Nov. 28.—Berlin radio broadcasts to the effect that Australian troops in the fighting zones were being placed in the front lines in retaliation for the Australian government's refusal to introduce conscription were labeled as "completely false" today by Prime Minister John Curtin.

Australians would not be diverted from concentrating on the war effort by a differing view on policy, Curtin said, emphasizing that the Australians overseas were volunteers "fighting for the voluntary way of life." He said the government has no uneasiness over the flow of recruits.

Whatever views Australia aired regarding conscription represented the essence of their way of living, the prime minister declared.

ELITE NAZI TANK FORCE IN LIBYAN TRAP, SAY BRITISH

2 Units Facing 'Fight for Life' Below Gambut.

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 28 (AP).—Strong axis formations trapped east of the Tobruk-Rezegh zone—the elite among Gen. Erwin Rommel's surviving North African tanks corps—threshed against a closing British line tonight in a desperate effort to escape annihilation.

Retreat to the west to seek a junction with other German and Italian forces simultaneously and heavily engaged deeper in Libya, beyond Rezegh, was blocked by an imperial wall standing athwart the coastal routes.

Rommel thus struggled for the life of two axis columns, one returning sorely weakened from a foray across the Egyptian frontier and the other formed of troops defending their broken positions in the frontier region of Sidi Omar and Halfaya [Hellfire] pass.

Claim Both Face Destruction.

The northernmost of these columns had been under violent British bombing assault for more than 24 hours before it was met head-on by British tanks and dispersed in a two hour battle, said the British command. The second column was not precisely located, altho it was declared that it, too, was threatened with envelopment and destruction.

The British imperial commander, Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham, was throwing the greatest of his striking power into the region because the axis mechanized army is concentrated there and that is objective No. 1 for destruction.

Thus, the main fighting had swept back some 30 miles to the east below the region of Gambut where Rommel's two frontier columns moved up to the showdown—to break the imprisonment or die.

British informants reported the remainder of Rommel's mechanized forces had now been widely scattered—two, in the north around Rezegh and west of Bardia, with infantry support and that enveloped in the Gambut area, which has no infantry.

Bomb Axis Reënforcements.

In the area just beyond Tobruk to the west, however, Rommel still was bringing up reënforcements, for the royal air force announced that big axis concentrations north and northwest of El Adem had been heavily and successfully attacked.

Meanwhile, Britain continued to hold the Tobruk-Rezegh line while other British and New Zealand forces, now in full contact, fought their way westward mile by mile over powerful German opposition toward the strong axis positions of Gazala and Derna.

The Tobruk-Rezegh line itself appeared all but cleared of axis forces. Substantially the whole of the Italian Bologna division holding the eastern side of the Tobruk perimeter was declared already annihilated and only a few of Rommel's remaining tank units still held out near Rezegh.

British Confidence Growing.

While there still was no disposition at British headquarters to claim a final victory, and much bloody fighting still was clearly ahead, quiet confidence prevailed.

British bomber and fighter attacks upon axis tanks, bases and air fields over a wide area met only "negligible" opposition, the RAF declared. It also reported bomb hits on a liner and its destroyer escort in the Mediterranean.

It was authoritatively disclosed, however, that British Mediterranean shipping itself was now taking increasing punishment. The growing power of such German air attacks was attributed to a forced withdrawal of Nazi squadrons from other theaters—presumably including Russia.

[In London authoritative sources denied that the British battleship Malaya had been crippled by a torpedo off the Libyan coast.]

Fight Bitter, Says Rome.

ROME, Nov. 28 (AP).—The Italians were reported tonight inflicting "notable losses" on the British in Libya in the desperate fight to save Italian North Africa.

Fighting was particularly fierce in the Sollum and Fort Capuzzo areas near the Egyptian border and at Rezegh and Tobruk in the west, the high command said. Axis losses were described officially as "not serious."

[The Berlin communique reported "continuing severe fighting" in Libya and said numerous British tanks had been destroyed warding off "breakout" attempts at Tobruk.]

Three British planes were shot down over Tobruk and a fourth elsewhere, the communique said, and in the Mediterranean Italian submarine chasers sank three British submarines.

A British air attack on Naples in southern Italy last night caused "notable damage," and several fires, the Italians said. Five persons were injured. Three British planes were reported shot down.

Battle to Smash Two Axis Columns

(Story in adjoining column.)

NAZIS REPORTED RUSHING TROOPS, PLANES TO LIBYA

[Copyright: 1941: By the New York Times.]

ANKARA, Turkey, Nov. 28.—Germany is sending huge reënforcements of troops, munitions, and war planes to Salonika, southern Italian ports and Sicily for transshipment to Libya to stem the British offensive, foreign military sources in Ankara reported today.

Austrian infantry and German elite troops withdrawn from Austria, Russian Poland and the rear of the eastern front are being concentrated at Salonika. Unconfirmed reports say "several divisions" are being withdrawn from France and routed thru Italy.

Many Austrian regiments, originally outfitted for a drive in the Caucasus, are said to be moving thru the Corinth canal to waiting transports.

German bombers and whole squadrons of Messerschmitt fighting planes from the eastern front are flying to Africa from Rumanian and Bulgarian airdromes.

Australian Rents Pegged at August, 1939, Level

CANBERRA, Australia, Nov. 28.—The commonwealth government issued regulations today pegging house rents at the rates in effect on Aug. 31, 1939, subject to the determination of the fair rents boards.

ASSAILS UNIONS FOR FORCED USE OF EXTRA LABOR

Thurman Arnold of the United States attorney general's office yesterday assailed the "grotesque and ludicrous labor practice known as 'feather bedding'" in a talk before the Executives' club luncheon in the Hotel Sherman.

Thurman Arnold.

These practices cost Americans at least a billion dollars a year, Arnold said. He cited a few examples of "feather bed" tactics in certain localities. Among them:

When threaded pipe is delivered to a construction project the union plumber insists on cutting off the threaded end and doing it over.

Electrical wiring installed in prefabricated houses before they are erected must be torn out and reinstalled by a union electrician.

Arnold said his division is helpless to remedy the situation unless there is new anti-trust legislation passed.

ASSERTS BRITISH NEED RUSSIAN ARMY'S SURVIVAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Altho declaring that "the triumph in Libya will contribute powerfully" to the eventual defeat of the axis powers, the Evening Standard tonight says: "Britain's highest interest is that Russia's great army shall survive. Upon their survival depends our capacity to beat the Germans in the only place where they can finally be defeated—on land."

TELL HOW BRITISH WON ITALY'S LAST FORT IN ETHIOPIA

Gondar Fall Ends African Empire of Duce.

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, Africa, Nov. 28 (AP).—Thousands of exhausted Italian troops hoisted a tiny banner of surrender yesterday at Gondar in the mountains of northwestern Ethiopia to mark the end of Premier Mussolini's vast East African empire.

British led Ethiopians, faithful to the restored Emperor Haile Selassie, were given a final smash at the 10,000 Italians under Gen. Guglielmo Nasi before the Fascist collapse.

Two days of assault by tanks, airplanes, and artillery, in which British Indian, Sudanese, South and West African units, and "Free Frenchmen" participated, climaxed the fall of Gondar.

Reconquer Vast Area.

This natural stronghold, 7,000 feet above sea level, was all that had remained after the sweeping British spring and summer drives which reconquered not only the 350,000 square miles of Ethiopia the Italians grabbed in 1936, but also Italian Somaliland and Eritrea.

British tanks aready had battered their way into Gondar's streets when the Italians gave up.

[The Italian high command in Rome announced: "With all means for keeping up resistance exhausted, and in order not to expose the Italian and native populations to further sacrifices of life, the high command of the theater of operations ordered hostilities suspended at 2 p. m." Rome sources expect the end of hostilities in Ethiopia to free thousands of British troops, tanks, and planes for the battle in Libya.]

Tell of Final Assault.

The attack yesterday began at dawn on both extremes of the Italian line, British East African headquarters announced.

"By 8:30 a. m. the enemy lines had been pierced on both flanks. Our troops fought magnificently. By midday the whole of the Italian southern flank was turned and our attack was passing around to his rear. . . .

"Our aircraft in the early afternoon saw our armored fighting vehicles entering Gondar and our own troops approaching the town from a hill on the southern side.

"Shortly afterward a car with a white flag was seen approaching our forces."

FRANCE STRIVES TO RISE AGAIN AS A GREAT POWER

But Nation Finds Itself Between Two Fires.

some time ago that "we need Laval [former premier who favors collaboration with the Germans] DeGaulle [leader of the 'Free French'], Petain, and representatives of every possible tendency."

Another ardent supporter of Petain is credited with saying that "Like God, if DeGaulle did not exist we would have to invent him."

In the subtleties of European politics it is the oblique that counts and it is not a foregone conclusion that because Petain consented to the retirement of Weygand the two are not coöperating in the interests of France.

[An Associated Press dispatch from New York last night said reports had been received there that Gen. Weygand is now a prisoner under lock and key in Marseilles.]

French Recover Faith.

What stands out from a prolonged survey of the scene from Vichy is that the French, after the initial shock, have recovered faith in their future as an European power. They believe less and less in the possibility of an English victory in this war.

That largely determines their stand on collaboration. In all these decisions about a foreign policy it is material necessity that counts.

There is opposition to collaboration in France on both sides of the line of demarcation. But in Vichy it is maintained that anticollaboration is a sentiment and that collaboration is a policy.

Collaborationist Argument.

The collaborationists reason this way:

In the occupied zone, the factory worker, the railwayman, and the farmer, are collaborators whether they like it or not. All the more reason why the city halls, the administration, and the government should follow the same line!

The collaborationists argue that outright resistance to the occupying power by refusing all industrial, commercial, and transport collaboration would in the first place be impossible. Besides, they continue, "We are still in a state of armistice, which is essentially a provisional régime that threatens the conquered nation with paralysis. It is therefore the duty of the government to improve these armistice conditions, for otherwise France, deprived for several years of its prisoners and with its youth insufficiently nourished, will be irreparably hit in its vitality."

Frenchmen in Vichy assert that it would serve no purpose to try to carry out a tricky kind of collaboration with the Germans. They say the Russians tried that without success.

Skeptical of British Victory.

The anti-collaborationists [and there are some in Vichy] exclaim: "But if England, backed by the United States, wins the war we are out of luck with our collaboration."

The collaborationists say no and are very skeptical about an English victory, even with American aid.

"Even in the event of an English victory we would get no break," they say. "We would be treated in accordance with the interests of the victorious. We do not forget that in 1919 we were victors, too."

This school thinks that even if the French got a place in the scheme of things that would result from a British victory it would be no more than that of a second class dominion.

Sees Self as a Portugal.

"In the event of a compromise peace between Germany and England," the French say, "several years of refusal to work with Germany, meanwhile, not only would leave us exhausted at the time of the treaties but also the compromise likely would be made at our expense. We would then become another Portugal—a field for the rivalries of stronger powers. Finally, if Germany wins the war an Anglophile policy would crush us completely. We would be split up piecemeal. We would be a western Serbia.

"In these three suppositions—Anglo-Saxon victory, compromise, and German victory—a frank and decided attitude of European coöperation enables us, for the present, to maintain the country and the empire.

A Glimpse Into Future.

"Such an attitude implies for us in the future:

"1. A fate similar to what an anticollaborationist attitude would have brought us if England wins. We lose nothing, but we gain nothing.

"2. The possibility, if there is a compromise peace, of seeing it realized and not at our expense.

"3. If Germany wins the war the possibility of France being:

"a. The essential factor of the reconciliation of Europe with itself. [Germany cannot bring about a reconciliation without the assistance of Petain's France.]

"b. The principle bridge between Europe and Africa.

"c. The natural link between Europe and the Anglo-American world."

Right or wrong, that is the way the French in Vichy put their case. They want a reconciliation which will avoid the heavy errors they say were made by the victors after the 1918 armistice.

NEW SONG HELPS BOOST 'SMOKES FOR YANKS' DRIVE

Premiere to Be Tonight on W-G-N and in Hotel.

"Smokes for Yanks!"

It's a song now, as well as a nation-wide movement to send cigarets and cigars to the far-away boys of the American armed forces.

Dr. George A. Rose [top] and Bud Jacobsen.

The song, "Smokes for Yanks!" will be introduced tonight by Del Courtney and his orchestra in the Continental room of the Stevens hotel. Miss Avis Kent will sing the new song, and its première will be broadcast from the Continental room by W-G-N at 10:45 p. m.

The words and music of "Smokes for Yanks!" were written by Dr. George A. Rose, Chicago optometrist who has been active in the Chicago musical field for years. The musical arrangement was done by Bud Jacobsen, recording artist and band leader who was one of the major figures in the early development of hot jazz music in Chicago. Del Courtney adapted the song for his orchestra's presentation. Arrangements for the broadcast are in charge of William Wolf, assistant manager of the Stevens.

Showmen's League Contributes.

The Showmen's League of America made a generous contribution yesterday thru its officials. The league opens its annual convention in connection with that of the International Association of Fairs and Exhibitors tonight at the Hotel Sherman.

The Trafficmen's Association of America will collect cigarets and cigars for the soldiers and sailors tonight at its dinner dance in the Bal Tabarin at the Hotel Sherman. Arrangements are in charge of E. W. O. Bogan.

Circulation truck drivers of THE TRIBUNE were busy collecting filled boxes of cigarets and cigars yesterday. If you have a "Smokes for Yanks!" collection box that is nearly full of Christmas gifts for the boys of the service, please telephone the "Smokes for Yanks!" headquarters at THE TRIBUNE, Superior 0100. A truck will call for it. All "Smokes for Yanks!" collectors have identification cards.

Time's Short Till Christmas.

The boys on patrol duty in the Atlantic and on guard at the American bases from Iceland to the Caribbean are far away. Your gifts must be shipped within a few days if they are to reach their destination in time for Christmas.

If you want to remember some lonely soldier or sailor, don't delay. Send your gift today.

Checks should be sent to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., Tribune Tower, Chicago. Cash and gifts of cigarets, cigars, and tobacco may be brought to THE TRIBUNE public service bureaus in Tribune Tower or in the loop at 1 South Dearborn street.

The easiest way of all to help is to drop some cigarets or cigars into the collection boxes to be found in stores and offices thruout metropolitan Chicago.

OVERCOME BY EXHAUST FUMES.

John Bark, 40 years old, 1621 Merrimac avenue, a truck driver, was revived yesterday by a fire department rescue squad after he had been overcome by exhaust fumes while working on his car in the garage in the rear of his home.

WITNESSES DENY WASTE IN ARMS PLANT BUILDING

Defend Parallel Roads; Charge Prejudice.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28 (AP).—Counsel for builders of the shell loading plant at Milan, Tenn., charged today that witnesses who told the senate defense investigating committee of alleged waste and extravagance were prejudiced.

Will R. Manier, Nashville attorney for the contractors, Ferguson-Oman company, informed the committee he could refute charges made by the witnesses, mostly government employés formerly attached to the plant. He said most of them related "every little job gossip they could hear."

Explain Road Costs.

Manier and A. Kingsley Ferguson, chief liaison officer for the contractors, devoted much of the afternoon to an explanation of why two partly parallel roads were built at the ordnance plant and to a denial that the construction cost approximately $29,000 a mile for a black topped road which Sen. Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.] remarked wasn't "worth a damn for heavy traffic."

Ferguson said the roads actually cost $23,432 a mile after deducting a contingency fee that was returned and the cost of concrete driveways entering the highway, to say nothing of machinery acquired by the government worth $4,000 a mile.

Dispute Rental Charges.

Ferguson and Manier read affidavits which in some instances directly disputed testimony of Phillip W. Harrison, formerly with the equipment section of the constructing quartermaster's office at Milan, that the government paid fancy rentals for equipment which was little used.

In other cases the affidavits described some of the equipment seldom used as necessary "standby" machinery rented for protection against possible emergency and other equipment as material rented before it was essential due to the fear it might not be obtainable later due to competition for building equipment in the armament emergency.

The plant, originally estimated to cost $20,000,000 has cost the government $51,000,000 and construction still is under way, Sen. Truman said.

ACQUIT OFFICIAL OF LAKE COUNTY ON FRAUD CHARGE

A jury before Judge Theodore Forby of Zion, sitting in Lake county court at Waukegan, returned a directed verdict of not guilty last night in the trial of Harry Christensen, 33 years old, of Fox Lake, supervisor of Grant township, Lake county. Christensen was accused of obtaining $93 illegally by overcharging the township for meetings of the board of auditors he attended, and by charging for meetings which were not held or which he did not attend.

Judge Forby said the evidence was uncertain and termed the trial "a sort of fishing expedition with dirty politics behind it."

Commenting on testimony that Harold Meyers, former town clerk, had failed to keep minutes of the meetings properly, Judge Forby said, "If he had kept proper records this matter would never have been brought to court, with the consequent expense to the county." It was estimated the five day trial cost $2,000 or more.

Show Need of Training in Modern Arms.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Camden, S. C., Nov. 28.—The final phase of the "battle of the Carolinas," the army's last major maneuvers of 1941, ended today with the 300,000 participating soldiers somewhat weary but in possession of valuable information obtainable only by such experience.

As at the end of last week's five day sham battle, the concluding four day conflict ended with the Red force of 104,000 men entirely on the defensive against steadily increasing pressure from a Blue force of 195,000 men. Altho the Blue force was numerically stronger, it had only equal fire power and inferior mobility compared with the Reds' armored units and mechanized infantry.

However, the Red army was successful in carrying out its mission, which was to defend the bridge head at Camden. Despite the considerable advance of the Blue forces, Camden was not threatened when the order to cease firing was issued by Lieut. Gen. Leslie McNair, in charge of the war games.

Lessons of Modern Weapons.

It was the consensus of the senior officers contacted that the exercises demonstrated anew the now-known power of modern weapons, and, of more immediate importance, that these weapons cannot be handled efficiently by untrained men.

The speed with which the armored units were whipped in and out of delicate situations during the maneuvers was attributed to the machine mindedness of American youths, who need little or no training to drive expertly the army tanks and other vehicles assigned to them.

An apparent weakness, however, was the lack of training in battle tactics, primarily in connection with reconnaissance and formation coördination, especially when on the defensive. It was pointed out that tanks are essentially attack weapons and that disorganization is likely to result among untrained troops when superior enemy numbers force the machines to retreat.

Deplores Lack of Training.

Maj. Gen. C. R. Scott, in command of the 1st and 2d armored divisions which were part of the Reds' 4th corps army, said that 50 per cent of his entire personnel had joined the units since May and had been on field duty during the full interim without any previous ground schooling or base training. Two years of basic, field, and actual fire training are necessary, he asserted, to make a tank soldier.

Asked if his divisions are ready for war, Gen. Scott replied: "Certainly not. Not until we have had five months' training in target practice with live ammunition."

There was disagreement between senior participating officers concerning the value of field exercises that last more than three days, as did both of the phases of the present problems. Some officers contended that after three days green men become exhausted, lose interest, and stop learning. Others, however, maintain that the long grind serves to "shake down" men and officers alike and teaches them to conserve their energy.

Criticism of Umpires.

It was also contended that some of the value of the maneuvers training, especially concerning joint air and ground operations, was lost thru unsatisfactory umpiring and because pilots failed to cooperate, disobeyed rules against flying too low and paid no attention to simulated anti-aircraft fire.

Contributing to this loss, it was said, was the failure of ground troops to pay attention to the potential power of bombs and strafing from the air, failure to take advantage of camouflage, and by congregating vehicles in open fields and moving on highways in formations of close column infantry and bumper-to-bumper vehicles.

ENGLAND PROBES 'MYSTERY' OF U. S. CANNED FOODS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Heralding the introduction of a new points rationing scheme on Monday when the first consignment of lend-lease canned meats from America will be available to shoppers, women cooks at the ministry of food experimental kitchen today demonstrated to newspaper men how various brands of canned meat and "other mysteries of the trans-Atlantic canned foods" can be used in hot and cold dishes.

A big proportion of the ham and pork among the lend-lease cans is preserved in a way entirely new to most British housewives. The press told them that Spam is ham "deliciously flavored with sugar and spice and best eaten cold," while Mor is chopped pork shoulder meat, "with a flavor resembling the best cured ham."

They also were advised that cans labeled "pork sausages" contain "neither whole sausages nor sausage meat," but finely minced pork, from which many appetizing dishes may be made. In addition to meats, housewives will be able to buy lend-lease milk powder on Monday. Each family can get one tin at a price of 9 pence [about 14.4 cents] which will make four pints of milk.

Iran to Build New Rail Line to Speed Up War Aid

TEHERAN, Iran, Nov. 27 [Delayed] (AP).—The Iran [Persian] government announced today that a new 72 mile railway would be built to aid the Anglo-Russian program of developing routes for hastening lend-lease supplies to the Russian front. The railway link, to cost 150,000,000 rials [$4,300,000], will connect the Trans-Iranian railway with the Persian gulf port of Khorramshahr.

STATUS OF BRITISH SHIPPING

SCOTS COMPLAIN OF HIGH PRICES; DEMAND CURB

Cost of Uncontroled Goods Skyrockets.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Examples of boosting of prices of goods not covered by government price control regulations were revealed today by Col. Hugh B. Spens, chairman of the price regulation committee for the southwest Scotland region. He mentioned specifically:

An electric washing machine purchased in 1938 for $56 sold by a second hand dealer in Glasgow for $196.

A cigar lighter imported at a cost of 5 cents, plus 70 cents duty, sold in a tobacco shop for $5.

Razor blades costing 25 cents selling in some shops at 60 cents.

Lipstick, normally priced at 10 cents, now sold for 50 cents.

Hunt for Thieves.

Spens demanded that the resale of goods among traders be prohibited and that secondhand stores be licensed to curb rising costs.

Enforcement of price control for rationed goods also is proving difficult. Metropolitan Police Commissioner Sir Philip Game, in response to appeals from the food ministry and other government departments, today detailed thousands of policemen to help round up thieves, profiteers, and black [illegal] market operators. In addition, about 50 policewomen and a dozen women detectives have been put on the job.

According to one source, government investigators "have had to admit that the gangsters have become too numerous and powerful for them to deal with."

Store Losses Heavy.

West End store managers, it was said, believe that professional thieves are touring the big shops and stealing for the black market. Shoplifting is said to have reached an unprecedented scale, one firm reporting the theft of 2,152 garments from a single branch in the West End in the last 10 months. From 13 branches in various parts of the country, the firm's losses total 19,503 garments, representing 130,000 clothing coupons.

CANADA FREEZES SALARIES PAID TO FIRMS' OFFICERS

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 28 [Special].—All managerial, executive, and other salaries in private industry not already stabilized under the wages and cost of living bonus order today were "frozen" for the duration of the war by order of Finance Minister J. L. Ilsley. The order applies to all employés above the rank of foreman or comparable ranks. It provides that no employer shall increase the salary paid to an official above the most recent rate established and payable on or before Nov. 6. The order does not require a payment of a cost of living bonus, such as is required for wage earners, altho payment of a bonus to employés receiving less than $3,000 a year is permitted.

FRANCE SENDING COAL TO ALSACE-LORRAINE AND TO GERMAN ARMY

VICHY, France, Nov. 28 (AP).—A spokesman for the ministry of industrial production said today that France is shipping coal to Alsace-Lorraine, which now has been incorporated within the reich.

Besides 100,000 tons shipped, he estimated that 40,000 tons had been levied for the use of German troops of occupation.

These and other deductions, he said, left 2,800,000 tons available for use in France, as compared with the 4,500,000 tons used in the last year before the war.

GERMANS SOWING MINES BY AIR IN U. S. SHIPS' LANES

LONDON, Nov. 28 (AP).—The German air force is sowing a "considerable" number of mines along the sea lanes off the west coast of England thru which some United States ships coming directly to Britain must sail, an authoritative source said tonight. This source said that the mining had been a continuing process but that the British had been "very successful" in dealing with air sown mines, altho the "nuisance value" to the Germans had been enormous, considering how many men were required to keep the approaches swept clear.

RAF SINKS AXIS TANKER IN RAIDS ON NORTH COAST

LONDON, Nov. 28 (AP).—British coastal patrol bombers attacked shipping off the Norwegian and Dutch coasts today, sinking a small tanker, the air ministry stated tonight. Two other vessels were bombed, but results were hidden by bad weather.

Last night British bombers raided objectives in northwest Germany. [In Berlin, the Germans announced a number of civilians had been killed or wounded, especially in Aachen and Cologne.]

The air and home security ministries said a small number of Britons was injured and some damage was caused in German air raids in coastal districts of East Anglia and southeastern England.

An earlier communique reported destruction by the RAF of four German ships—two supply vessels and two antiaircraft boats.

93 SOLDIERS DIE DURING CAROLINA WAR MANEUVERS

Camden, S. C., Nov. 28 (AP).—Ninety-three soldiers have died in the Carolina war games since they began the first week in October.

Col. F. W. Weed, surgeon of the 1st army, said that 75 men had died in the ranks of the 220,000 man 1st army. Sixty-three of them were accidental and 12 were from natural causes. Most of the accidental deaths were caused by motor vehicle mishaps.

Since late October, when the 4th army corps moved into the maneuver area, it has had 18 deaths, all from accidents except one. There was one death from pneumonia. The 4th corps has about half as many men in the field as the 1st army.

CHEMISTS DEATH HELD SUICIDE.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of suicide while temporarily insane at an inquest over Avis Piven, 48 years old, 1050 Bryn Mawr avenue, a chemist. Piven was found dead Thursday in the offices of the Muran-Cinco laboratories, 230 West Huron street, where he had been employed.

WILD WEST GANG ROBS 3 TAVERNS; 1 SHOT IN CHASE

Guns Force Doctor to Care for Wounded Bandit.

Three young gunmen armed with shotguns and rifles, believed by police to be the same ones who have held up a number of taverns in wild west fashion recently, wrote another lurid chapter in their crime career last night.

Early in the evening they robbed and terrorized patrons of three north side taverns. Shortly before midnight they eluded a detective bureau squad in a chase in which one of the bandits was struck by police bullets. An hour later they kidnaped two young men in another car, abandoning their own bullet riddled machine, and forced a physician at the point of a gun to care for their wounded comrade.

Line Up Bar Patrons.

The taverns robbed by the gang are at 4941 North Damen avenue, 5740 North Western avenue and 3700 North Clark street. In each they followed the same procedure, ordering a round of drinks and then pulling shotguns and rifles from a long box which they carried into the taverns. Customers were forced to stand in line while the bandits emptied their pockets.

The chase started when the gunmen's car was sighted at Ogden and Ashland avenues by Sergt. Timothy O'Connor's detective bureau squad. With the police in pursuit, the bandit car fled southwest in Ogden avenue, at times reaching a speed of 90 miles an hour. After several shots had been exchanged, one of which struck one of the robbers, the gunmen escaped by abruptly stopping their machine and spinning into a side street.

At Narragansett avenue and 63d street the gunmen curbed a machine in which Joseph Terihaj, 18 years old, of 5443 South Ridgeway avenue, and Joseph Brajy, 19, of 3818 55th street, were riding. They forced the men to drive them to an emergency hospital at 5548 West 63d street.

One Wounded in Shoulder.

There two of them forced Dr. James Mahony, 23, to give first aid to the third man, who had been slightly wounded in the shoulder. Then the gunmen, still with their young captives, fled west in 63d street.

Terihaj and Brajy appeared later at Chicago Lawn police station and said they were forced from their car at 26th street and California avenue.

On Nov. 7 three men answering the description of the gunmen shot up two taverns in quick succession, wounding a man in each place and terrorizing the other patrons.

INSANITY VERDICT DECREES ASYLUM FOR TORCH KILLER

Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 28 [Special].—Michael Dubina, 20 years old, today was found not guilty of murder in the torch slaying of his roommate and benefactor, George E. Eastman, 67. He was found not guilty by reason of insanity.

A Circuit court jury of eight men and four women returned the verdict after deliberating 12 hours. Judge George V. Weimer immediately ordered Dubina committed to the Ionia state hospital for the insane.

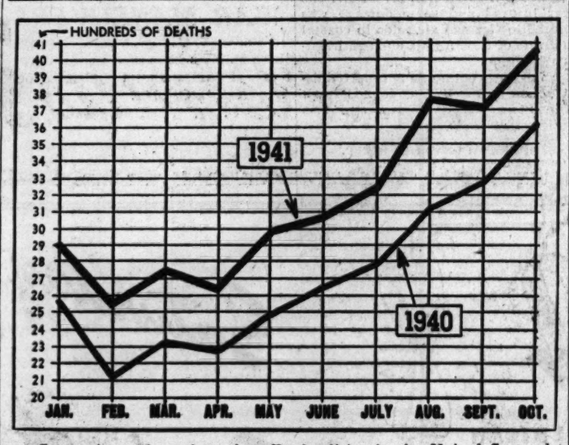
Defense attorneys had pleaded Dubina was temporarily insane when he set fire to the boarding house room in which Eastman lay sleeping on Oct. 14.

Officials said disposition of such cases is governed by a Michigan statute which provides that a person acquitted of murder because of insanity must be placed in the state hospital for the criminally insane for the remainder of his life.

Eastman, a Chicago salesman, was burned fatally in the explosion of a can of gasoline and the ensuing fire in his room.

Dubina, who had used the name of Robert Larry Gordon, confessed he had given Eastman sleeping pills before he had set fire to the room.

Nation's Traffic Deaths Increase



Comparison of number of traffic fatalities in the United States by months in the first 10 months of 1940 and 1941.

TRAFFIC DEATHS TOTAL 31,620 TO END OF OCTOBER

Toll for Nation Up 16 Per Cent Over 1940.

Traffic deaths in the United States for the first 10 months of 1941 totaled 31,620, an increase of 16 per cent over the same 1940 period, the National Safety council reported yesterday.

The relative increase by months, however, has declined since the council undertook last fall to lead an emergency safety campaign, its report stated. To keep up this progress and offset the usual rise in traffic deaths during the year-end holiday season, the council and 130 cooperating organizations are starting a Christmas safety drive. The theme will be "Give courtesy for Christmas."

October Toll 4,050.

The October traffic toll was 4,050, approximately 400 greater than last year. Before the drive started the peak increase was reached in August with 23 per cent. Then came September with 13 per cent and October with 12 per cent. Cities of 10,000 or more population reported an average increase of 4 per cent in October, compared with 6 per cent for September and 18 for August.

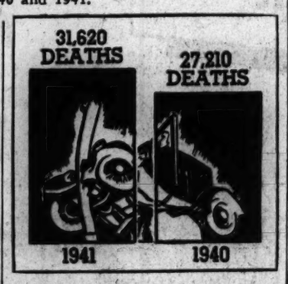
Only six states have a cumulative 10 month reduction in deaths. They are, in their order of improvement, New Hampshire, Colorado, North Dakota, Delaware, Idaho, and Wyoming. October's toll in the mountain states was worse than any other area, a 28 per cent increase.

October was relatively unfavorable for the 14 cities of 500,000 or more population. Their increase was 8 per cent. But they continued to be the only group with a cumulative reduction for the year, even tho the figure is less than 1 per cent.

Memphis Leads Larger Cities.

Memphis, Tenn., leads the larger cities with a cumulative 10 months reduction of 59 per cent, compared with 1940. Among the cities in the 500,000 population bracket, Milwaukee is on top with a 10 month death rate of 9 for each 100,000.

During the first 10 months of the year Chicago saved 18 lives. This represented a reduction of 4 per cent over the same period last year.



Total deaths from traffic causes in the same periods.

TOMORROW LAST DAY TO GET OLD AUTO LICENSES

Tomorrow is the deadline for motorists who wish to retain their 1941 state auto license numbers to mail their applications for 1942 licenses, Chicago Motor club officials warned yesterday. A request for reissuance of the previous number should accompany the regular application form. State law makes it mandatory for the secretary of state to give motorists the same numbers if they make application before Dec. 1. After that date plates are issued in the order in which applications are received.

OFFICERS PROBE POISON DEATH OF CRIPPLED CHILD

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 28 [Special].—Authorities of two counties tonight were investigating the poison death of Charlotte Ann Johnson, 13 years old, who had been crippled by spinal meningitis since infancy.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson, and another daughter, Verda, 18, of Omena, Mich., voluntarily accompanied investigators back to Lincoln, 28 miles north of here, where they said they had bought a hamburger for Charlotte.

The child died in St. John's hospital here yesterday morning about two hours after she had eaten the sandwich. The family was en route from Michigan to California by automobile.

Lincoln, where the child ate the sandwich, is in Logan county. Authorities of that county and those in Springfield, where the child died, are collaborating in the investigation.

Investigators expressed doubt that there was anything wrong with the sandwiches the Johnsons were sold.

MOTHER KILLED, SIX HURT WHEN TRUCK HITS CAR

Chicagoans Crash in Fog on Week-End Trip.

Mrs. Hazel Kilmer, 39 years old, a garment worker, was killed and five other Chicagoans were injured early yesterday when their automobile collided with a truck in a heavy fog at state routes 49 and 33, 16 miles west of Robinson, Ill.

The injured were Mrs. Kilmer's sons, Authur, 10, and Dennis, 13; her husband, George; Arch Lee Thomas, 30, the driver, and his wife, Marjorie, 25, all of 1452 East 54th place. The party was en route to Carmi for the week-end. Clifford Moss, 30, Effingham, the truck driver, also was hurt.

Paul Capehart, De Kalb, Ill., brother of Homer Capehart, Indiana industrialist and Republican leader, and four other men were injured in a head-on collision during a thick fog on U. S. route 20 in western Kane county. The others were Walter Jacobson, William Gates, and Fred Pehaly, all of De Kalb, and Raymond E. Coyne of West Chicago, driver of the other car. The Capehart party was on the way to Chicago for federal jury service.

Killed in Collision.

Ernest Blackburn, 53, 5219 Kenmore avenue, a real estate broker, was killed in a collision of his automobile and a Marshall Field delivery truck at 167th street and Cicero avenue, Bremen township. Howard Murphy, 1515 East 63d street, the truck driver, told police that Blackburn failed to heed a stop sign. Murphy, injured seriously, was taken to the Oak Forest infirmary.

Thomas M. Hayward, 64, 230 Perry street, Elgin, died in the Sherman hospital there of injuries received Tuesday when he was knocked down by one automobile and run over by another. He was a retired head of an Elgin printing firm.

Woman Dies of Injuries.

Mrs. Sophie Kinney, 68, of 4437 Van Buren street, died in the Loretto hospital last night from injuries sustained 10 days ago when she was struck at Madison street and Laramie avenue by a car driven by Arthur Kolb, 4732 Congress street.

Earl Bacigalupo, 67, of 3733 Shakespeare avenue, who was struck by an automobile Wednesday night at Palmer street and Kolmar avenue, died yesterday in the Belmont hospital. The driver of the car was Robert E. Johnson Jr., 16, of 4307 Drummond place.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 860 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 599 were killed in Chicago, where 23,808 were injured in the same period.

2 BOYS CHARGED WITH MURDER IN LAWYER'S DEATH

Bristol, Va., Nov. 28 (AP).—Charges of murder have been placed against the two 16 year old boys arrested in a southwest Virginia hotel in the robbery-slaying of Ward Loveless, wealthy Washington attorney, State Trooper E. D. Helms disclosed today.

The trooper, one of a group of law enforcement officers guarding the captive pair on the 400 mile automobile trip back to Leesburg where the shot and bruised body of Loveless was found in his home by a servant Monday, said murder warrants had been signed by Loudoun county Sheriff S. P. Alexander.

Commonwealth's Attorney Charles Harrison, who questioned the pair extensively before they were jailed here overnight, said he had a "complete confession" from Paul Bernard Hoback, Bluefield, W. Va., and the other boy, who had given his name variously as Tommie Peters, Washington, D. C., and Herbert Porter, Brentwood, Md.

CAC INDORSES MOVE TO CURTAIL PUBLIC SPENDING

The Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday indorsed a program calling for economy in nonarmament expenditures by state and local governments. The organization declared that individuals and organizations should agree during the period of the armament program not to ask any public official for expenditures that can be deferred or that do not cover projects essential for defense or the welfare of local communities. Such a program has been indorsed by the Taxpayers Federation of Illinois and the Civic Federation.

Surface Lines Employes Give $50,186 to Chest

A contribution of $50,186 from employés of the Chicago Surface lines was received yesterday by the Community Fund. Officials said this was the largest employé contribution in the 1941 campaign, which is aimed at reaching $3,583,000 by Dec. 4. Six other employé group subscriptions totaling $14,109 also were received yesterday.

HUNTER PREDICTS MAJOR ADVANCES BY CIVIL SERVICE

The time will arrive soon when nearly all public employés from townships thru states and perhaps thruout the federal government will be civil service selectees, Robert L. Hunter, president of the Illinois Civil Service commission, told 50 delegates of Chicago and Cook county Federation of Women's Organizations yesterday. He spoke at an all-day meeting at 209 South State street.

Hunter said that in England nearly all government workers were employed on a basis of merit under a civil service system. The trend in the United States is in the same direction altho the movement at this particular time is slow, he said.

Judge Frank Bisek of Juvenile court told the women delegates of the work of his organization for rehabilitation of youthful law breakers. A phase of juvenile court work developing at this time is the frequent indictment of juveniles by grand jury action.

WAR WITH JAPAN? WHO SAYS SO?

The London Daily Telegraph says the United States, the British empire, and the Netherlands East Indies are ready at a moment's notice to move in complete harmony on land, sea, and air against Japan.

A leading Tokio newspaper warns its readers that "the die is cast."

The British Broadcasting corporation quotes the premier of Thailand as saying that Great Britain and the United States have officially guaranteed Thailand's independence against any aggressor.

The Washington correspondents have been given the impression that the United States and Japan are moving toward a showdown on the issue of peace or war. All that is admitted officially is that negotiations with the Japanese diplomats have been suspended for the time being.

This is all very interesting and alarming. The only person or body which does not seem to think that we are about to go to war with Japan is also the only body that can sanction such a war. That is the congress of the United States. President Roosevelt has not asked congress for a declaration of war nor intimated that he wants one. Neither has congress nor any responsible member of congress called for such a declaration. We do not include in the category of responsibility Pepper of Florida, who was bawling for the bombing of Tokio some months ago.

Just what does Mr. Roosevelt intend to do? Is it his intention to launch in the Pacific another unconstitutional and illegal war such as he is now attempting in the Atlantic? If so, will congress permit him to do it? We doubt that it will approve; but it is a serious question whether its members have the gumption and courage to speak up. Certainly the American people want no war against Japan.

The crisis arises over the threatened invasion of Thailand, or Siam, as it was called until recently. Siam, Americans know principally as a dreamy land where the white elephant is sacred and whose king came to the United States 10 years ago to have his eyes treated. Bangkok, its capital, is 9,000 miles from San Francisco. Singapore, the far eastern outpost of Great Britain which guards the road to the treasury of India, is just around the corner from Siam. The map in the lower corner of this page betrays the secret of Mr. Roosevelt's diplomatic approach to Japan.

It is not proposed to have American soldiers and sailors die for the independence of Thailand any more than it is proposed to have them die for our interests in that area, because we have none worth such a sacrifice. The dying, if any, will be done for the perpetuation of the British and Dutch empires in the far east.

VON RIBBENTROP DOES HIS BIT.

The stupidity of German diplomacy and diplomats is scarcely a new subject. It has been fully explored in the past and is one point on which British propaganda does not seem to have influenced world opinion. The best the British could do on the subject would be to gild the lily.

The Nazi foreign minister, Von Ribbentrop, would be a wiser man if he had read a certain observation in the memoirs of Earl Grey, who was Britain's foreign minister at the outbreak of the World war. Gray remarked that during the war the diplomats of opposing powers were successful in direct ratio to the success of the armed forces of their nations. If the British and French armies were doing well their diplomats made hay; if the German military machine was having one of its good periods it was the diplomats of the central powers who lined up allies.

Herr von Ribbentrop has made quite a name for himself as the spokesman of Hitler's foreign policy, largely because he has been up against the greatest collection of pushovers since Prime Carnera was foisted on the American public. Winning diplomatic success with the German army at his back has been a good deal like peddling ice water in the Sahara desert.

And so the former wine salesman turns himself to the problem of Germany's American relations. He predicts to an assembly of trained seals rounded up for him by the Nazi armed forces that the time is coming when the American people will awaken and call President Roosevelt to account. The German official news service stresses Von Ribbentrop's differentiation between the President and his friends and the mass of the American people. We have heard that one before, too.

The Nazi minister could no doubt cite in justification of his remarks many more severe strictures uttered by Mr. Roosevelt against himself and his master. But that does not save him from winning the year's prize for diplomatic stupidity.

A majority of the American people want no part of this war. We take our stand not because of any love or admiration for Hitler, but in spite of him. We know and despise him as a brutal and bloody tyrant. We place no faith in his disclaimers of interest in this continent, but base our feeling of security on a calm appraisal of our own strength and our doubt of Hitler's ability to carry out any intentions he may have toward us. We are opposed to going to war because we do not believe it necessary to our own security and because daily we see Mr. Roosevelt and his totalitarian supporters using their self-created war emergency as an instrument to destroy the republic.

The only effect of Von Ribbentrop's stupid utterances is to give the war mongers in this country a new tool with which to work toward their goal. It is little wonder that the Germans have complained for more than a quarter of a century that the world misunderstands them. A people so obtuse to the considerations of logic and decency that rule the minds of other nations cannot but invite misunderstanding.

MR. ROOSEVELT AND TIME.

When in 1863 Gen. Burnside closed the pro-secessionist Chicago Times the editor of THE TRIBUNE took the lead among those whose representations to President Lincoln caused the revocation of the general's order. Mr. Medill, while he doubtless considered the editor of the Times a scoundrel and traitor, did not let his opinion blind him to the menace to a free press that lay in Gen. Burnside's action.

In one or two of its battles for freedom of the press during the present generation THE TRIBUNE again has found itself defending editors for whose opinions and conduct we had only contempt.

Another incident of the sort is at hand. A few days ago President Roosevelt denounced as a "disgusting lie" a statement by the magazine Time, which imputed to the dying president of Chile over-fondness for wine. Mr. Roosevelt said the article was being used by Nazi propagandists thruout South America, and that the American government had apologized to the Chilean government for the appearance of the item in an American publication.

The statement in question was typical of Time's flippant and inaccurate style intended to reach the malicious reader. Had the statement been true, it would still have been immaterial and in bad taste. Mr. Luce, the publisher of Time, replied that he could not understand the "extraordinary outburst" by his friend in the White House, but that he considered it unwise as an attack on a free and honest press.

We will go along with Mr. Luce to the extent that Mr. Roosevelt's action may be considered the precursor of an attack on the honest press.

Mr. Roosevelt's state department has in the past received many protests by foreign governments against comment on their affairs and leaders by the American press. Until now the reply had always been that under our constitutional guarantee of a free press the government has no control over the American press and, therefore, cannot make itself responsible for its utterances. That was the proper reply.

Mr. Roosevelt, under the same Bill of Rights, may say what he pleases about any publication that displeases him, subject only to the same limitations of the law of slander and libel to which the publication is liable. But in addition to venting his wrath publicly, he has apologized, in his official capacity, to the government of Chile.

The New York News points out that by his apology the President has made himself responsible in a way for what the publication says in the future. The News wonders if this is not the beginning of a new sort of "streamlined, unofficial censorship of the press by the President."

We agree that it can be so. Mr. Roosevelt seems to have amended his four freedoms to the vital extent that freedom of speech and expression shall prevail so long as they do not conflict with his policies. He is the co-proprietor of the four freedoms and the Atlantic charter, and may do with them as he pleases. Fortunately he has not the same authority over the Bill of Rights.

THE GAMBLING INQUIRY.

Cook county's November grand jury has earned the thanks of the public. In addition to performing its routine work, this grand jury undertook the first serious, official investigation into commercialized gambling which this community has seen in many years. Starting from the secret accounts of the gambling syndicate which were published in THE TRIBUNE, the jurors examined many witnesses including city and county police officers of all ranks and a large number of other persons, including elected officials who were believed to have knowledge of the business.

The inquiry is to be continued by the December grand jury. There can be no doubt that if the trails already opened are followed with determination indictments and convictions can be obtained.

Commercialized gambling, here as elsewhere, exists only because some public officials receive a share of the profits. It has been known also that the men who control the gambling syndicate in Chicago got their start as thieves and panders. It is the duty of the December grand jury to complete the work of the November jury by naming the bribe-givers and the bribe-takers. The sooner these parasites are removed from circulation the better.

MILLIONS FOR PUBLICITY.

[Milwaukee Journal.]

During the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1941, the federal government spent $27,770,000 for publicity and promotion. The New Deal employed 2,895 persons expressly for publicity purposes and used the part time services of 31,618 more. A report made by the bureau of the budget shows that 153 agencies of the executive department of the government had in this year services of information, education, contact with the public, publicity, press agentry propaganda, or whatever you want to call them.

Practically all these agencies, it should be added, dealt almost exclusively with "canned" releases—they handed out only what it suited them to hand out, slanted in such ways as desired by their superiors. Despite the fact that nearly 35,000 persons gave of their time to "interpret" the government to the people, it was more difficult than ever before in our history to get plain, factual answers to plain, but embarrassing, questions of public interest.

"Publicity" is not the word to apply to these activities, for "publicity" implies a lack of bias. "Promotion" is perhaps a better word, for "promotion" connotes argument in self-interest. "Propaganda" is the best word of all for some of the material, for it is frankly designed to gain adherents both by the presentation and by the withholding of facts.

WHY PUT IT SO STRONGLY?

[Des Moines Register.]

John Erskine, Columbia university professor emeritus, chose Georgia, of all places, as the locale for a speech attacking the requirement of a college degree as a qualification for teachers, and the National Council of Teachers as the audience to hear his charge that the granting of degrees closely approximates a racket.

Mr. Erskine is really Prof. Erskine, A. B., Ph. D., LL.D. [twice]; Litt.D. [twice]; L.H.D. [twice]; Mus. D. [thrice], and Pd.D.

Georgia educators, in the light of their recent experience with Gov. Gene Talmadge, must be just a trifle fed up on the buffeting their profession has been receiving in that state.

If Prof. Erskine has recently taken to declining academic honors thrust upon him by the colleges and universities of the world, he is perhaps less than his speech would appear to suggest in the position of a man who rises from a hearty meal with the comment that hunger is just a matter of the imagination.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

MR. PEPYS AVOIDS AN HONOR.

29th Nov.—Dined with the inner council of the Press Veterans' association one night this week and had a hearty feast and heard good talk, and finally they fell to discussing the need of a book about the exploits of their youth and the newspaper life of this city, and who would be the right man to write such a book. Was toying with my glass of Burgundy and savoring its bouquet, and thinking that such a book would take two years of hard labor out of any one's life, when suddenly I found all the press veterans were glaring at me with fiendish eyes.

"You," one said, fixing me with his bony finger, "are the man to write the book. You have plenty of spare time."

And a great pain in the neck came upon me.

"It is true," I admitted, "that I have nothing to do but get out my column six days in the week and keep mixing my punches and changing my pace to make it interesting, and to read a mass of mail that would flabbergast Julius Caesar with his six secretaries, and to rewrite contributions, and to prepare a Line Book, and to follow current literature and the drama, and to move around the town as much as possible to see what is going on.

"In my many hours of idleness, moreover, I am the secretary of my club, a member of its board of governors, a trustee of an estate, and an unpaid consultant on old Chicago houses, Napoleon trees, the actors of the gay '90s, the age of Katharine Cornell, the origin of kangaroo courts, the poetry of Bath House John, the author of 'Casey at the Bat,' and various other matters pertaining to the folklore of the American people.

"To break the dullness of this dolce far niente, I walk my dog around the block eight times a day, making 32 blocks or four miles, study natural history, explore the trails of the far west, attend the football and baseball games, and collect woolen neckties woven by Navajo Indians. Such little hobbies, of course, add zest to an idle life."

"Well, if you are too lazy to write the book," a veteran asked, "whom would you suggest as the right man?"

"The right man," I answered, "killed himself on a similar project some years ago. His name was Honoré de Balzac."

GENEROUS LOVER.

O, send my love an orchid white,
A string of pearls or two,
A diamond ring all sparkling bright
And new.

O, send my love some rich, red wine,
Not port, or common sherry,
But some superlatively fine;
O, very!

O, send my love a comb of jade
To comb her golden tresses,
And see her radiantly arrayed
In dresses.

The things I've named are all too few,
Could I give what's my will;
But wrap them up and send her, too,
The bill.

Cholly.

It Happens in Every Family.

And so we said we were going down into the basement, get out some of those old things cluttering up the premises, and throw them away.

In the basement there was a big box crammed full of old pictures and other choice bits. There was one picture about 2 x 4 feet over which water had run, obliterating half of the face but leaving the other half smiling coyly.

"Well," I said, "here is one we can certainly throw away."

"Don't you dare," was the answer. "I wouldn't think of throwing it away. It has been in the family 35 years."

We brought one thing and another upstairs and soon our apartment was littered. There were four old feathers. I said, hopefully, we might be able to throw them away.

"Why, the idea," was the reply. "Aunt Petunia looked perfectly gorgeous in them 26 years ago. We shall keep them." We put them in a vase on the piano.

All this running up and down gave our neighbor a bright thought. She said, "By golly, I'm going to throw some of my things away, too." So she skipped lightly into the basement and came up, her arms full. She was almost weeping!

"Here are some things I should like to discard," she said, "but I just can't. Will you do it for me?"

Yes, we would. We looked them over. There was a vase, some more feathers, a few pictures, and a bundle of old newspapers.

"How lovely," we said. "Aren't these old newspapers interesting! Here's one about the abdication of King Edward of England. Let's keep it. And isn't this picture of this little old lady sweet? Let's keep them all."

Next spring we must find an apartment where we have more storage space. Roy Engel.

ADVICE TO LARGE LADIES.

few ladies with large, outsize hips would ever launch a thousand ships and those with slacks and plump derrière are eyed by men with frightened stare but they don't seem to care or mind whatever's going on behind they should, by force, be made to dress in garments like an inverness along with her who gaily sports about in too tight satin shorts

so ladies with avoirdupois
if you would make men shout their joys show only what you think you should and be darned sure it's really good little girl.

Since the Harvard accent, via fireside chats, has caused the electorate to become invertebrate, I feel that to win in 1944 the Republicans must nominate an Oxford accent, at least.

Philardee.

Here is another definition of an epigram [Nov. 24], translated from classical Latin into rhyme:

The qualities rare in a bee that we meet
In an epigram never should fail;
The body should always be small and sweet
And a sting should be left in its tail.

TISSUES DIE FROM GAS BACILLI.

PROMPT and skilled care for all victims of traffic accidents is necessary because infection may be serious. Quite apart from the pus-producing organisms a group of virulent microbes abound which may cause gangrene and, at the same time, fill the tissues with gas.

These bacteria may be found in the dirt of the roadside or in the street as well as on unclean wearing apparel. One in particular is nearly always present in the digestive tracts of human beings. All can survive for long periods of time in the soil. Like the spores [seeds] of tetanus which are responsible for lockjaw, they may be blown about by the wind. Whenever particles of clothing or dust have been ground into the tissues, we may be confronted with a complication of this kind.

No one seems to be naturally immune to these germs. On the other hand, injecting tiny quantities of their poisons [toxins] will afford protection against their baneful influences. Preparations are available for just this purpose. Should symptoms appear, however, safety cannot be insured by a small amount of antitoxin. Large doses will be demanded in the hope that the circulation will distribute the neutralizing serum widely.

But this isn't all. A derivative of sulfanilamide may be employed and, in some cases, it will be effective. Not only can the drug be injected but it may be administered by mouth or the actual crystals dusted thoroly into all parts of the laceration. In this fashion it cannot fail to come into contact with the deadly organisms. The physician who prescribes this compound should, of course, be one who understands the actions and reactions of the chemical.

How does gas gangrene develop? First of all, the patient is severely toxic—with pain out of all proportion to the extent of the injury. Instead of taking on the healthy appearance of healing, the area will look beefy and dirty and will emit a foul odor. Sutures may give way and fibers separate due to the production of gas. Altho the malady is local in the beginning, it may wander rapidly, affecting adjacent regions.

Occasionally the first intimation of trouble will be marked swelling. Later a crackling sound may be elicited by pressure as tho one were crushing a piece of paper. While the temperature may not be high, the patient is decidedly out of sorts.

From the standpoint of the surgeon every fragment of damaged tissue must be removed. Teeming with organisms, bits of skin or muscle will need to be routed out completely, as every diseased cell is venomous. Not infrequently amputation will be required to save life.

The reason the word "gangrene" is used is because capillaries have been destroyed. In consequence nutriment fails to arrive. The ailment is as ruthless as a holocaust and sometimes a delay of even a few hours will allow the infection to advance beyond control.

Because gas will show on X-rays, plates may be taken at intervals if there is the slightest reason to suspect these microbes. When excessive puffing is detected, a film every six hours will often show the earliest signs of gas formation.

Prevention lies in looking upon all grimy wounds with suspicion. There are many experts who will give serum not only against tetanus but gas forming germs as well. There is nothing to be gained by omitting a safeguarding dose. On the other hand, many lives have been preserved by following the practice routinely.

DON'T CHANGE.

Mrs. J. R. writes: My little son holds everything in his left hand. I try to make him use his right more but a neighbor told me recently I should not do this. What would you advise?

REPLY.

Let well enough alone. Certain undesirable behavior characteristics are likely to follow a forced change.

VITAMIN DEFICIENCY.

Mrs. A. J. writes: I am the mother of eight children, all of whom have poor teeth. I always gave them plenty of milk. Could it be that too much milk causes soft teeth?

REPLY.

No, but a lack of vitamin D may be responsible. Generous quantities of cod liver oil, even at this date, will strengthen their structures.

WAR NOW IN THE BALANCE.

New York, Nov. 27.—I have talked recently with a number of members of congress, and come to the opinion that the question of war or peace may be decided by the way the cat of public opinion jumps when Roosevelt sends more ships into war zones and belligerent ports, and more sinkings and loss of American lives result.

If the public can be taught to see that the repeal bill does not require the President to send ships where they'll be sunk, and that, if he does so, the loss of American lives will be primarily his responsibility and not the fault of the enemy, who will be quite justified, if not obliged, to take a crack at our boats, then I think the blame will be placed where it belongs—on Mr. Roosevelt.

On the other hand, if the public gets mad at Germany—for doing precisely what our government would do in its place—then I fear it will be pretty hard to keep the country out of an all-out war with an expeditionary force in the offing.

The administration claims a victory in the repeal of the neutrality bill. The fact is, if it hadn't been for the Civil war, Gen. Sherman, the reconstruction period, etc., and the consequent solid south, the President would have been beaten on repeal 37 to 31 votes in the senate, and by a percentage of 5 to 3 in the house. Gen. Wood has published figures showing that the house vote represented, solid south and all, about 71,000,000 people against and 45,000,000 for repeal.

We made a little calculation here, which showed that, on the basis of the votes cast in the last Presidential election, the house vote represented 27,000,000 against repeal and 22,000,000 for repeal. I think the difference in the way the Wood calculation and ours came out was because one was on the basis of total population, including men, women, and children, and the other on the basis of voters.

Have you read lately President Wilson's April 2, 1917, speech, asking for a declaration of war? It is astoundingly similar in its implications of world salvation and world control to Roosevelt's recent utterances.

It is strange how not only history but psychology are repeating themselves, and how the British [especially Balfour, with the assistance of Col. House] put it over President Wilson as they are now putting it over Roosevelt. Unquestionably Wilson, under suggestion from House, saw himself as the future President of a United States of the World, just as Roosevelt envisions himself now. And I think Roosevelt is calculating to buy that Presidency, or whatever the office will be, by aid to foreign nations, just as he bought the last election with aid to pressure groups among our citizenry.

The main difference between the two situations seems to be [a] that Roosevelt is weaker now than Wilson was then, on account of opposition to his plans by powerful men in and outside of congress, such as did not exist in 1916 and 1917. And [b] he has elements of strength that Wilson lacked, because he has more money and patronage with which to coerce congress and influence leaders of public opinion. Also he is supported not merely by a half puppet congress and a kept labor leadership, but by our communist movement, which provides him with considerable political strength and whatever potency exists among American writers of the left wing.

Undoubtedly the situation seems grave, but not at all hopeless. The President, with his war policy in his lap, is sitting on so many different kegs of gunpowder that, on the law of averages, it would seem that one might be counted on to blow up. AMOS PINCHOT.

P. S.: Incidentally, on April 2, 1917, the day Wilson asked congress for a declaration, the Rev. William Manning—leader then, as now, of the clerical war cheering section—assured his congregation that the capture of Jerusalem by the British army would prove "a new impulse to religion."

WANTS TO HEAR THE CAROLS.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—What further decision has been made regarding the Christmas carols which have become one of the so-called traditions of Chicago?

No doubt the music and talking would disturb the workers in the loop area, and especially dictaphone operators and switchboard operators. However, I can't understand why they should be discontinued entirely.

Every one will admit that Christmas music gives most people a big thrill, and believe me, many times I have stopped in the midst of my Christmas shopping just to listen to some beautiful hymn.

Why not have the usual Christmas carols, but after 5 p. m. when most office workers have finished their day's work?

Maybe this would not warrant the expense of putting up the speakers, etc., but anyway it is a suggestion. I think the Christmas carols, along with beautifully decorated State street, fill young and old with the great spirit of Good Will Toward Men. G. M.

LETTER MADE HER CRY.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Appearing in your column is a letter signed by "A Former Teacher." Such a sad letter really brought tears to my eyes.

Does this person realize that, regardless of the much talked about 7½ per cent cut, the teachers' salaries are still far above salaries of those earning a living outside of teaching? How many are earning today what the teachers earn? With the cost of living on the jump, the teachers are still above the others with their salaries.

My sympathy is not with those earning $200 and over but with the great number trying to get along on a great deal less.

Let us hear no more from the teachers. If they are abused let them quit and try and hold a job in private industry.

MARY MORAN.

AN ODD CONTRAST.

Des Plaines, Ill., Nov. 27.—Here in Chicago and the middle west we are asked to save every scrap of waste paper for defense purposes and down in the Arkansas rice territory they are burning thousands of tons of beautiful golden color rice straw. I have just returned from a vacation down in Stuttgart, Ark. Somebody should look into this matter and make use of that straw. It would supply a lot of paper mills I should think. MRS. JOHN A. KOENNING

WAR A LA HOLLYWOOD.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—Well, I went to see "Sergeant York" and I was delighted to find how pleasant the first World war really was. Previously, I had the idea that war was horrible. But the moving picture clearly shows how that war was fought on a dry, war battlefield, in broad daylight, with virtually no barbed wire or dead bodies or gore on the scene. The soldiers of both sides looked well-fed and healthy and their uniforms were in good condition, especially the Germans.

On the morning of the attack most of the soldiers had evidently shaved. The battlefield in the midst of the struggle was so quiet you could hear a turkey gobble. A few of the soldiers died, dramatically, gasping out heroic final speeches as they expired, but only about three drops of blood were visible at any time. And Gary Cooper was so clever at shooting Germans that the audience at the State-Lake roared with laughter as he potted one after another.

What a wonderful institution the movies are to educate our youth!

DAMAGE SUIT.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A had an automobile accident. B sued A for $200 and [1] secured a judgment against A. A makes about $20 per week and drives for a living. A supports his wife on the $20 and his furniture is worth about $200. His business is his own. A has also a previous judgment filed against him by the state of Illinois.

2. Can B prevent A from driving for a living?

3. Which has the prior right to settlement, the state or B? The state secured its judgment first. H. G.

1. We assume that the judgment was not based on a finding of malice or recklessness but merely on ordinary negligence.

2. If A owns the car which he drives and its value exceeds the $400 exemption allowed to the head of a family or the $100 exemption allowed to other persons, then B could indirectly stop the driving unless the excess is paid, but there would be no direct personal way of stopping the driving.

3. Depends on what steps are taken to enforce the judgment.

G. O. P. SUPPORTS EARLY TEST OF WAR SENTIMENT

Opposes Primary Election Delay to June 1.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The Illinois Republican state central committee shied away abruptly yesterday from the proposal that the state and county primaries now scheduled for April 14, 1942, be postponed to June 1, the same day as the Supreme court election.

One argument was sufficient to dispose of the question. A single speaker, whose point was echoed by others, held that Illinois wants the earliest possible referendum on the war issue, the first vote obtainable on the records of congressmen who have stood for and against intervention.

Detect Democratic Odor.

In addition, the committee in session in the La Salle hotel, suspected that it detected a Democratic odor in the proposal. It came first from Edmund K. Jarecki, county judge of Cook county, a Democrat, and word was received that the Democrat controled Chicago city council and Cook county board expect to pass a resolution in favor of a single election.

The committee acted favorably on a suggestion that it arrange—subject to the approval of Gov. Dwight Green—a money raising Lincoln Day dinner on Feb. 11 or Feb. 12.

H. L. Williamson of Springfield noted that a special session of the general assembly would have to be called by Gov. Green to enact legislation required for the change.

"But I am against any postponement," he said. "The people of Illinois want the earliest possible referendum on war and the congressmen who are bringing us into it. We can have it in April. Why should it be postponed until June?"

Take Practical View.

Getting down to practical politics, the committee concluded that if the five justices were chosen on primary day the party would suffer because the Democrats usually turn out better than do the Republicans.

This was said to be particularly true of the 7th district which includes Cook [Chicago], DuPage, Kankakee, Lake, and Will counties.

The 7th district elected Justice Frederic R. DeYoung by 5,862 in 1924 and reëlected him on a coalition ticket without opposition in 1933. After his death Francis S. Wilson, a Democrat, was elected thru coalition.

The one district all the committeemen felt sure of wresting from Democratic hands was the 6th where Justice Elwyn R. Shaw, a Democrat, was elected by 3,464 in 1933. The district went Republican by 80,737 on the governorship last year.

'50 Other Women'

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

MRS. KATHRYN SHEEHAN.

Details of the hectic married life of Detective Jack Sheehan, 38 years old, and his wife, Kathryn, 35, of 6808 South Artesian avenue, were disclosed yesterday in a hearing before Circuit Judge Thomas J. Lynch.

Mrs. Sheehan, who has a separate maintenance suit pending, is asking temporary support. Her attorneys, Joseph H. and Norman Becker, told the court that she gave her husband $10,000 over a three year period.

"Yes," interrupted Mrs. Sheehan, "and he spent it all on the 50 other women. He has their names in a little black book."

Earle Friedlander, the detective's attorney, asked Mrs. Sheehan if this was not her sixth marriage.

"No, it's my fourth," she replied.

Friedlander then charged that Mrs. Sheehan got up early one morning, rifled her husband's trousers of money and his house keys, and had the wheels removed from his car.

Mrs. Sheehan intercepted the conversation with: "It's my car. I paid for it."

Judge Lynch halted the hearing by ordering both sides to come back Monday with proof as to who owns the car.

FACES HEARING ON LICENSE IN ABORTION CASE

Dr. Gabler Also Told She Owes $5,000 to U. S.

Dr. Josephine Gabler, a physician, who said she sold her loop practice to a woman who since has been accused of having headed an abortion ring, yesterday encountered three more legal procedures when she visited the state's attorney's office for questioning. The developments were:

1. Dr. Gabler was ordered to appear before the state board of registration and education next Jan. 19 for a hearing on why her license to practice medicine should not be revoked.

2. She was notified by the internal revenue department that between 1937 and 1941 she failed to pay the government $5,000 in social security and unemployment taxes.

Summoned as Witness.

3. The state's attorney served Dr. Gabler with a subpena calling for her appearance as a state's witness in the trial of her business successor, Mrs. Ada Martin. Mrs. Martin, charged with conspiracy to perform abortions, is scheduled to go to trial Tuesday before Judge John F. Haas.

Dr. Gabler, assisted by her attorney, Everett Jennings, repeated to Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Papanek her previous denials that she knew anything about the abortion business. She admitted only having sold her practice to Mrs. Martin, who is not a physician.

In a deposition recently given to Attorney General George F. Barrett, Dr. Gabler told of this association with Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Martin's daughter, Ada Jane, who once was employed by her.

Slain by Policeman.

Miss Martin was shot and killed by Daniel Moriarity, a policeman on State's Attorney Courtney's staff, who confessed having been on Mrs. Martin's pay roll. He is serving a life sentence for murder.

The attorney general was interested in how much inheritance tax the state could get from the estate of Charles H. Dietz, who left $57,000 in cash, some jewelry and 1,100 shares of stock to Dr. Gabler. Dr. Gabler said they were husband and wife and a justice of the peace said he married them without a license.

REBEL COUNTIES TALK OF COINING WOODEN MONEY

Push Secession to Form State of Jefferson.

Yreka, Cal., Nov. 28 [Special].—Proposals to issue wooden nickels as a part of the monetary system of the "49th state of Jefferson" were a feature today of the secession movement of a group of California and Oregon border counties whose angry residents have professed their intention of withdrawing from their respective states.

The movement had snowballed into a "proclamation of independence" after having been started as a campaign to try to force their states to spend more money for highways in the area and to attract attention to the mineral wealth in the counties concerned.

A widespread report was that the lumber counties of northern California and southern Oregon might issue wooden nickels and offer them in lieu of state taxes to emphasize their unused forest resources.

Some Want to Join Nevada.

A new twist was given the independence phase with the disclosure that some Californians advocate joining with Nevada rather than setting up their own state. Secretary of State Malcolm McEachin of Nevada said that some Californians had approached him on the subject.

McEachin said that a letter from Don Crawford of Cedarville, Modoc county, Cal., asserted that "a group of residents of Surprise valley are anxious for this valley to become a part of Nevada. Can you tell us how to proceed?"

"If all the various necessary legislative consents can be obtained," remarked McEachin, "Surprise valley will be aptly named."

Yreka Provisional Capital.

Meantime telegrams poured into Yreka, "provisional capital of the state of Jefferson," and pioneer spirited miners, with pistols buckled to their belts, continued stopping automobiles and distributing handbills proclaiming the independence of the rebellious counties.

"The Jeffersonians," said one motorist, "are as divided and hot about it all as any group of Washington congressmen prior to the Civil war."

"Justice Deferred"

INSTALMENT XVIII.

THE BULLY.

Jack had not raised his voice, but it rang out clear as a bell. Already men were in the doorways watching. Two had stopped just across the street. The story of the fight at Fallon's cabin had been discussed all over town, but even so it was amazing that anybody could talk so to Warren Tracy.

"That's a lie," Tracy roared. "Can't any one alive get away with it. I won't stand it for a minute."

"But you are standing for it," Jack corrected. "And you're going to till I get thru. Quit thinking about your gun. If you reach for it, you'll be dead before it's out of the holster. You know you haven't the guts to go thru and find out whether what I say is true. The guy with the yellow streak. That's what people are going to call you from now on, Tracy. You're a busted flush. The kind that kicks the dog of an 11 year old boy and starts to beat up on the kid."

"If you want to fight, if that's yore game——"

"Don't fool yourself," Jack interrupted. "You won't fight, not out in the open. You'll shoot from ambush. That's your size."

"I ain't scared of you. You never saw the day——"

"O yes, you are. I've got your number. You led my father to his death, and you know you've got to pay for it. The days are past when you could straddle around as a big man others sidestepped. From now on you're a white chip. You'll never be allowed to forget that."

Deliberately Jack slapped the ugly face. Tracy fell back a step, fury in his eyes. For a moment the onlookers thought the foreman was going to draw. His fingers fumbled in the air, but they did not close on the butt of the revolver. A bitter oath fell from his lips. He turned abruptly and walked back into the store.

There was a long second of amazed silence, broken by an old man in a doorway. "By Judas Priest, I wouldn't of believed it," he yelped. "Warren has done fooled us all these years."

Waugh turned away, a queer sick feeling in his stomach. He felt degraded for having shown up the bully. A man cannot insult another without having the shame of it beat back upon himself. His purpose had been to show his contempt for the fellow and at the same time to break his influence over those who knew him. He had to do this, yet disgust at himself flooded up in him.

Followed by his shadow, Fallon, he walked unhappily back to the hotel.

"I'll get you a ticket to El Paso on tonight's train, Jim," he said, breaking a long stretch without speech.

"I ain't going to El Paso—unless you go along," Fallon said.

"You'd better go. I've torn it now. There will be trouble, and plenty of it."

"What kind of a varmint do you think I am?" the line rider asked indignantly, the blood beating up into his wrinkled face. "I don't aim to let myself be pushed around any longer."

To that decision he stuck obstinately, and his new employer could not move him from it. Jack had to give up. The little man had to prove that he had found himself at last.

"Have you a revolver?" Waugh asked.

"Y'betcha! A 45. In my valise."

"Better get it out and carry it."

"Are you packing one?"

"I haven't been, but I'll get mine out, too. We're in the army now, Jim. Keep your eyes peeled for enemies all the time. Stay on the main streets. If we go out at night we'll go together."

"That will suit me fine."

"Watch your step and don't let anybody draw you into a quarrel. If they set a trap for us we want to sidestep it."

"Sure," Fallon chuckled. "You're a fine lad to talk about ducking trouble, after the way you have just acted with Tracy. You deviled him till he must be plumb crazy. He had a gun. You knew that. And you didn't have one."

"But he didn't know it. From right now there won't be any more of that. We're practically pacifists, both of us—unless they start fireworks."

"Okay with me." The little man grinned sheepishly. "I don't have to ride herd on any warlike impulses, for I ain't got any of them. I'm as tame as Mary's little lamb. All I ask is for those AC warriors to leave me be. I won't run on them a bit."

In the neighborhood there still lived several old timers who had known Peter Waugh. One of them had a small place on the edge of Boonetown. He had sold his ranch and retired from cattle raising. Altho crippled up somewhat from rheumatism, he was still able to work in the garden. Jack found him hoeing peas, a plump little man with a red face.

"Mr. Gabriel?" Jack asked.

The old man straightened his stiff body and leaned on the hoe. "Yes, sir," he answered, defensively. He was prepared to announce that he did not want any insurance, sewing machines, or peddler's goods of any kind.

A moment later he was shaking his visitor's hand warmly and inviting him into the house. "Pete Waugh's son. Well, I'll be ding busted. I heered he had a son somewheres, but I didn't expect ever to meet him. Come in an' meet the old woman. Sugar an' molasses, she danced with yore paw before ever he married yore mother."

Jack spent a pleasant half hour with them before he approached the subject of his father's death. As soon as Gabriel realized that Waugh was asking information, with a view to reopening the case, he shut up like a clam.

"Don't know a thing about it. Not a frazzlin' thing." His sunken mouth, which had a good many teeth missing, closed as tight as a trap.

His wife, a tall slat of a woman, fixed her small black eyes on Jack. "So you aim to go after the Clintons, do you? Boy, I wouldn't do it. They're a bad outfit."

"I know that," he said quietly. "One of them shot at me last night from the brush. Missed me by a few inches."

"And you're going right on looking for evidence against them?"

"Yes."

"Remembering what happened to yore father?"

"Because I remember that."

"Hmp! He was that way, too. Hell and high water wouldn't stop him." Abruptly she snapped out, after a moment's hesitation: "Why don't you talk with Dan Ferris?"

"Now looky here, you keep outa this, Jenny," Gabriel interrupted hastily. "It ain't none of our business."

She looked at her husband, long memories stirring in her. What she saw were the repressions that had been damned up for three decades, silences that had always annoyed and humiliated her; the overbearing dominance of the Clintons, riding to success over the rights of others trampled down.

"It's been our business ever since the fight for grass began, Hiram," she answered. "Only we didn't go thru to a finish the way Pete Waugh did. I'm thru being scared of the Clintons. 'They won't bother us, anyhow. We don't know anything about the Longhorn corral killing, but if I did know I'd talk to this young man. He's Peter's son. Peter took me to my first dance—at the Dunn schoolhouse, when I was 15." For a moment there flared into her old eyes a reflection of the eager light of youth.

"Do you figure you're doing his son any service when you help him start trouble with the Clintons?" Hiram asked.

"I'm not trying to start trouble with them," Jack explained. "I'm trying to clear up the murder of my father."

"It's the same thing," Jenny told him bluntly. "You be awful careful, young man."

"I'm a model of caution," he told her lightly. "Thanks for the tip. I'll see Ferris. Where can I find him?"

"He lives on Squaw creek," Gabriel said reluctantly.

As Jack stepped from the car in front of Johnson's drug store he looked up to see two men approaching. One of them was Ike Phillips.

GEORGE A. BARR PUT ON MEDICAL CENTER BOARD

Gov. Green yesterday appointed George A. Barr of Joliet to membership on the Chicago Medical Center commission, which was empowered by the legislature to condemn unsightly property adjacent to the block of hospitals and medical schools on the near southwest side.

Green requested Barr to call a meeting of the commission to perfect organization and start the program of improving the district. Other members are Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb, named by the trustees of the University of Illinois; Col. A. A. Sprague, picked by Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board; Ray McCarthy, selected by Robert J. Dunham, president, Chicago park district, and Dr. Walter H. Theobald, chosen by Mayor Kelly.

The district under the commission's jurisdiction is bounded by Ashland and Oakley boulevards, Congress street and Roosevelt road. In it are located hospitals, research institutions and medical, dental, and pharmaceutical schools. The commission has authority to acquire any of the property within the tract, except that owned by the medical or allied institutions.

U. S. PRICE RULE ISSUE IS UP TO STATE FARMERS

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 28 [Special].—Compulsory arbitration of strikes in armament industries and price control of farm commodities to combat inflation were urged today in resolutions presented to the 27th annual convention of the Illinois Agricultural association, which represents 74,000 Illinois farmers.

The strike resolution said that compulsory arbitration of labor disputes in preparedness industries should be adopted as a universal national policy. Another proposal called for withdrawal of the railroad brotherhoods' order for a nation-wide strike on Dec. 7.

The resolution on price control said "we favor legislation providing for a federal authority empowered to set a maximum price limit on any commodity for which an inadequate supply threatens to cause an undue price rise, and providing for comparable restriction of wage rate increases. Such legislation should limit the authority to fix the price of any agricultural commodity at no less than 110 per cent of parity."

Father Freehill, St. Bede Teacher, Killed by Train

La Salle, Ill., Nov. 28 (AP).—The Rev. Father Freehill had been athletic director at Spalding institute, Peoria, for six years prior to his recent transfer to St. Bede. Previously he had been coach and athletic director at St. Bede.

SEEKS $2,050,642 BOOST FOR THREE CITY FUNDS IN 1942

Controler's Estimate Goes to Council.

It will take approximately $2,050,642 more to pay city expenses next year from the three major funds, corporate, water, and motor vehicle tax, than it did in 1941, according to City Controler Robert B. Upham.

The figures were contained in the controler's annual estimate of revenue and appropriations filed yesterday with the city clerk for presentation to the city council Monday. The council will use Upham's figures, together with estimates from department heads which are published as part of the controler's report, in the preparation of the 1942 budget.

Two Years Compared.

The following table gives the 1941 appropriation for the three major funds and the amount Upham estimates will be needed in 1942.

	1941.	1942.
Corporate [operating]	$54,690,541	$55,342,896
Water fund	15,046,789	15,727,578
Vehicle tax funds	5,548,384	6,359,852

The major increase in the corporate fund, which receives money from taxes and miscellaneous revenue such as licenses, is for the election board. This year the board's appropriation was $742,793. Upham estimated that $1,446,368 would be required next year, due to the primary and general elections.

In the appropriation for building maintenance, Upham has allowed a new item of $126,000 for the maintenance of the Service Men's center at 174 West Washington street.

Million for New Mains.

The increase in the estimated water fund appropriations is due in part to an estimated million dollars for the extension of water mains. In 1941 that figure was $330,000.

The appropriation for construction of the new filtration plant at 79th street and the lake is increased from $7,500,000 in 1941 to 11 million dollars in 1942. In the vehicle tax fund, the controler estimates $464,492 will be needed for salaries and wages, mostly in the safety testing lanes. Until now the lanes have been staffed with WPA workers.

TEACHERS BACK 3 DAY STRIKE OF CITY EMPLOYES

Kenosha, Wis., Nov. 28 [Special].—The cleavage in this industrial community of 50,000 over the three day strike of city employes extended to additional groups today as four city councilmen sided against the strikers and city teachers sided with them.

The confused controversy, in which labor is striking against a labor elected city government, finds organized union men sharply divided in their sympathies.

The AFL Trades and Labor council and the Kenosha CIO industrial council have joined in an appeal that the 200 strikers return to work and submit the controversy to the city council for negotiation. To this action the Building Trades council, consisting of all unions in the construction trades, countered with an offer of support to the strikers.

The school teachers went on record in support of the strike thru the Kenosha Education association, which has as members 261 of the city's 303 teachers. The association, which is not a union, was represented as backing the strikers in their stand against a former teacher, City Manager Le Roy Wolfe.

MAYWOOD DAIRY AID BEATEN; HOLD UNION OFFICIAL

Howard Floyd, a business agent for the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, was arrested by Maywood police last night and charged with assault and battery in a new outbreak of violence at the Maywood Farms dairy. Local 753 of the union is picketing the dairy in an attempt to force its five truck drivers to sign membership cards.

Helmuth Miske, manager of the dairy, signed the complaint against Floyd, a resident of Elgin. Miske said Floyd, one of a crowd of pickets surrounding the dairy, stepped up as he was leaving the plant and struck him several times in the face, cutting his forehead and blackening his right eye. A police squad assigned to the dairy arrested Floyd.

The assault was the second suffered by Miske. On Nov. 7 he and another employé, Orville Babrielsen, were beaten by a dozen pickets armed with brass knuckles and blackjacks.

DEATH NOTICES

In Memoriam.

MICHELSON—Ben Michelson. In loving tribute to the memory of our dear husband and father, who passed away three years ago today.
Time marches on, 'tis now three years
Since our dear one passed away.
And memories bring anew the tears
As we all recall that day.
Time marches on, but still we're sad.
And it seems like cruelest fate
That carried away so dear a dad.
Such a generous, loving mate.
Time marches on, we miss him so—
Each day, we feel more lonely.
For his tender love, we once did know.
Is now a memory, only.
Loving wife Sarah and daughters, Charlotte, Bette, and Mrs. Ruth Koch.

SCHACK—Dora Schack. In loving memory of our darling mother, who left us Nov. 29, 1937. MAY.

Social 'Musts' on Live Stock Show Program

BY JUDITH CASS.

ARMCHAIR farmers with a "hankering" for Rambouillet rams or gaited horses have a "must" engagement on their calendars within the next week, for the International Live Stock exposition opens today at the International amphitheater at Halsted and 43d streets. Prize stock brought from all over the country will be on exhibit thru next Saturday, and social doings connected with the show will center around the stockyards' famous Saddle and Sirloin club.

Following their annual custom the Malcolm Moncrieffes have brought their thorobred sheep from their ranch in Big Horn, Wyo. If they can spare time from the show the Moncrieffes will be entertained during their visit by their niece, Mrs. John Paul Welling. Mr. and Mrs. Welling returned three days ago from a New York trip, on which they took in a football game of Mr. Welling's alma mater, Princeton.

Box Holders Are Listed for Annual Horse Show.

Also drawing large crowds to the amphitheater will be the International Horse show always held in connection with the live stock exposition. Among those with boxes for the horse show are Richard Cooper Jr., William Bartholomay Jr., Gustavus F. Swift, George A. Eastwood, Thomas E. Wilson, Edward A. Cudahy Jr., Herbert J. Lorber, Gordon Lang, and Dr. Walter G. McGuire.

More news for the horse show circuits is that the Hinsdale Horse show will be given next June on one of the polo fields at the Oak Brook club under the same officers that supervised last summer's show. Re-elected as officers of the Hinsdale Horse Show association are Walter P. Saunders, president; James A. Hannah, Robert P. Hasbrook, and John M. Price, vice presidents; E. Porter Essley, secretary, and Albert T. Huizinga, treasurer. The Hinsdale Junior Infant Welfare benefits from the show.

24 Clubs Will Collaborate in Coliseum Dog Show.

The dog show, 31st in a series, is the largest in the middle west and has attracted entries from all over the country, including Irish terriers from the kennels of Mrs. Albert G. Simms of Albuquerque, N. M., and French poodles owned by Mrs. George Putnam of Manchester, Mass.

Saturday's Tip to Shopper: Red Alligator Bag

BY REA SEEGER.

Saturday tips for the Christmas gift snoopers out for the first round-up of ideas! A good start on the bag collections will only be shrewd buying, for the best and newest stuff goes as fast as snow under a July sun. If you really want to make a super gesture track down the biggest and reddest of alligator bags. They are dramatic enough to highlight any costume.

Alligator leather wears and wears and wears, always looks smooth, smart and distinguished. There are plentiful supplies of alligator in red as well as copper browns, beige, forest-green and black . . . pouches, envelopes, small, medium, and outsize.

Travel bags rate a grand second choice. These usually feature carryall capacity, all kinds of secret and visible compartments, zippered inner pockets for cash supply, and enough fittings to please a glamor girl. Saddle-tan shades, dark caramel tones, dark green, a few wine reds, and the all-purpose never dated dull and shiny blacks offer a wide choice.

Dramatically large handbags, the kind that rival a muff for swank and outside and inside area, come in fabric covers, some of soft, dull textured wool, some of knitted fabrics stretched over smart bulky shapes and others in combinations of braid and ribbon. Some spectacular beauties have wool fringe edges.

The most beautiful bags are made of the celebrated hand woven Dorothy Liebes fabrics. Many colored soft chenille yarn has been interwoven with gold and silver metallic braid, or with braid of shimmering bugle beads.

Front Views and Profiles

It's the First 1,500 Feet.

The young draftee at Fort Benning, Ga., was frantic. He recalled it all in retrospect in a letter to his mother. On Saturday he was told he would make his first parachute jump Monday.

He felt like a condemned prisoner the day before execution. He hurried into Atlanta, bought a new shirt and tie, ate a tremendous dinner. He excoriated himself with, "Why did I ever let myself in for this?" Then Monday came:

"I don't remember jumping," he wrote. "I don't remember anything until I was falling and counting, and then I heard the whoosh of the parachute as it opened, and I found myself screaming 'God bless the silkworm!'"

Envy.

Bondi Brown, a wise old man of nine, read a poem in Wednesday's column written by a boy of 7. "Pretty good—for 7," he commented. Then, still glancing at the poem, he added, acidly, "I'll bet somebody helped him misspell all those words, tho."

They Still Have Shoes, We Hope.

Chet Swital sends his definition of a hangover: Something that makes one's head feel as tho nails were being straightened on it and make one's stomach feel as tho the whole Russian army marched across it barefoot.

Metropolitan Mosaic.

The Christmas scene is tender, brilliant, throbbing. . . . Shoppers smile as they drag their feet onward. . . . The little boy says to his mother, "Mom, that's four Santas we've seen in this one block," and the wizened old man with a fine crop of white hair hums Jingle Bells as he totters thru an aisle twinkling with the lights of fairyland. . . . A Christmas tree of white ostrich plumes is shot with lights of purple and rose, and the mannequin in a window wears elbow-length red gloves. . . . The dolls in the toy shops, feeling the European blockade, are lovely but hairless, and a new perfume is called Love Potion. . . .

The Forgotten Man.

We cherish the story, while vouching for its authenticity, of Sally Johnson, the old colored woman in the Arkansas delta who applied for an old age pension. To verify her age she produced a license saying that Sally Horne had married William Johnson.

"But Sally," she was told, "wasn't your maiden name Smith?"

Sally's eyes widened in dismay. She leaned back in thought. Finally, her eyes dim with introspection thru the years, she whispered faintly, "Nathan! Nathan!"

"Were you ever married to a Nathan Horne?" she was prodded.

"Yes'm, yes'm," came the slow, dreaming answer. "But he didn't live very long, and I clean forgot him."

"Cast Ye Bread Upon the Waters . . ."

Tuesday a well dressed woman stopped beside the Salvation Army lassie on the northwest corner of State and Madison street, gravely watched her as she rang her little brass bell and waited for pennies to fall into her black Christmas kettle. Then, with an, "O, I guess your smile is worth a dime," she dropped in a coin. The next day she returned and pushed an envelope in. In it were five $10 bills.

Opera's Golden Days Recalled as Mason Sings

"LA BOHEME."

Opera in four acts by Giacomo Puccini to a libretto by Giuseppe Giacosa and Luigi Illica after Henri Murger's "La Vie de Bohème." Presented by the Chicago Opera company in the Civic Opera house, Friday evening, Nov. 28, 1941.

THE CAST:

Mimi	Edith Mason
Rudolph	Jan Kiepura
Marcel	George Czaplicki
Colline	Virgilio Lazzari
Schaunard	Stefan Kozakevich
Musetta	Dorothy Kirsten
Alcindoro [also Benoit]	Vittorio Trevisan
Parpignol	Giuseppe Cavadore
Sergeant	Ben Landsman
Conductor	Emile Cooper

BY EDWARD BARRY

As Mimi in "La Bohème," Edith Mason last night made her first appearance in two years with the Chicago Opera company. A packed Civic Opera house gave her round after round of cordial applause and tossed her enough flowers to start a shop.

Many times during the evening Miss Mason overwhelmed her listeners with memories of the golden days of opera here. In the third act [notably at the end of the "Addio"] there were evident the finely schooled taste, the searching beauty of tone, and the honeyed legato that made Miss Mason one of the most enchanting singers it has ever been our fortune to hear.

There was evident, too, a sincere and deep absorption which seemed to result almost automatically in tone colorings of just the right radiance and phrase contours of an enormous expressive power.

All of this is not intended to conceal the fact that the singer encountered some grave vocal difficulties, especially in the first act. There, despite the simplicity and sweetness of her conception of Mimi's part, Miss Mason found that the unreliability of her top notes, especially in a forte, made it impossible to get her musical ideas before her audience in anything like their entirety.

And she did not have the most reassuring Rudolph in the world. Jan Kiepura's extreme handling of the part not only weakens the good impression which his voice quality makes but also makes it harder for the soprano to contribute to the wistful, simple, and touching picture of youth and love.

The performance as a whole was pleasant, despite serious disagreements between conductor and stage forces on the question of tempo and despite the impossibility of getting really first rate ensemble effects without extended rehearsal. Rudolph's three fellow Bohemians were well cast and Dorothy Kirsten made a nice exasperating little Musetta. Vittorio Trevisan, one of the great character players of opera's golden age, sang both of last night's purely comic parts.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

Just in time for Christmas and the gift giving and festivities thereof we have a lovely new perfume. It arrived without fanfare but we think it deserves the roll of drums.

It's freesia and we might as well admit at the start that prejudice might color our opinion of it, since we'd put a freesia corsage above a diamond tiara any spring day. On the other hand, the very fact that the waxy white flowers are so beloved makes us more critical of any attempt to capture their haunting beauty of fragrance. This is an attempt, and a completely successful one, that rates a salute.

The fragrance of freesias—and this perfume translation of it—is delicate but curiously exotic in its own well-bred fashion. It's a haunting scent and we suppose that not all women would like it, but the woman who likes florals that are out of the ordinary and notes in a perfume that are rich and subtle should be quite mad about it. It's one of those now cold, now warm scent symphonies that we find most interesting.

This tropical freesia is the latest addition to a white flower fragrance family. We think it's the best and most beautiful and rather think you will too. It's lasting, lovely on fur, and not too, too expensive.

Friends Crowd Opera House to Acclaim Mason

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

Unless standing room had been sold another person couldn't have been squeezed into the Civic Opera house last night, even with the proverbial shoehorn. This wasn't altogether unusual on a Friday night, for that is the weekly performance that is under the sponsorship of the Chicago board of education and it almost always is a full house. But in addition Chicago's own Edith Mason was singing and consequently her many friends crowded the great opera house. She is popular not only as a prima donna but as a person, and since she has been living here as the wife of William A. Ragland she has made scores of friends.

Mr. Ragland was in the fourth row with his stepdaughter, Graziella Polacco, both of them as nervous as if they were doing the singing, but definitely pleased and proud at the warm reception Graziella's mother was given. During the performance Mr. Ragland invited a few friends to accompany him and his family to their home in Lake Shore drive to an informal supper party for Maestro Emile Cooper, who conducted last night.

Some well-known persons in the audience were Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, the John Alden Carpenters, the James G. McMillans, Giovanni Martinelli, the William D. Saltiels, Mrs. James G. Shakman, Mrs. H. Comer Winter, Mrs. Hugo Dalmar, Mrs. George Rasmussen, the George Woodruffs, Mr. and Mrs. Leeds Mitchell, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Claude C. Hopkins, who had come from her home in Grand Rapids for the occasion; Mrs. Arthur Jackson, the Leo Nicolsons, Mrs. Otho F. Ball, Mrs. Edward A. Leight, Mrs. William F. Peter, the Walter R. Kirks, Mrs. Louis Eckstein and Mrs. Clifford Caldwell, who is Mme. Mason's accompanist when she infrequently sings in recital.

Good Morning!

You see what the Rialto's got!

The little State street house, noted mostly for its girly-girly shows, most incongruously houses this week one of the year's best pictures.

"Forty Thousand Horsemen"—a production that any theater should be proud to display!—was filmed in Australia "with the coöperation of the department of defense and officers and men of the 1st and 2d Australian cavalry divisions." . . .

It tells a story of the exploits of bushman horseman during the last World war, emphasizing the personalities of "Red" Gallagher, Larry, and Jim, and their all for one, one for all activities. . . . A charming heroine it has too, in a little French girl. Living in North Africa, she has seen her father killed by the enemy and is befriended by a kindly sheik, who persuades Julie to don boy's clothing and pass as his son, feeling that she will be safer thus. . . .

These Australian bushmen were mighty men—in funny hats. . . . Womanish felt hats with a feather on the side.

"Brr," brrs the German commander, flipping one of these hats with a scornful thumb and forefinger, "You expect me to be afraid of men who wear hats like THAT . . . ?"

Does he live and learn!

For a long time members of the Australian Light Horsemen, stationed in Cairo, restively await orders to march into action—and now you meet those happy-go-lucky, daring fellows, "Red," Larry, and Jim. . . .

Suddenly comes the call to arms. . . . And then the bitter grind of desert warfare. . . . It is at the front that "Red" and Julie meet. For the supposed boy has been taken into the desert by the Germans as a guarantee of the sheik's good faith. [In reality he is a British sympathizer.]

I am told that Betty Bryant and Grant Taylor are being wooed by Hollywood. If not—should be!

The steadily increasing tempo of the action keeps your interest at fever heat. . . . Those desert scenes—the sweep and drama of them! Such photography! Such suspense!

"Forty Thousand Horsemen" was made in 1940. NOT "old stuff," you see. . . .

If you can't get downtown watch your neighborhood theater ads. Because I think your neighborhood theater may soon be showing the film.

See you tomorrow.

Nov. 29, 1941.

Universal day—Get around early and have some fresh ideas.

December—Those in a 9-year can look forward to more fun than they probably thought was possible under the circumstances. Just when everything seems to have collapsed because of the ending of so many things for you this year, you will find the situation is not nearly as hopeless as it might seem. In fact the majority will feel so much lighter this coming month because of the burdens which have dropped from their back, or the ties which have been cut or they have cut themselves, that they will no doubt spend a very light-hearted holiday. Certain invitations from and to friends should abound, and the social atmosphere be very pleasant. Be cheerful, optimistic, and as charming as you know how, being particularly careful to dress attractively.

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 28.—The Warners are considering making a movie around recent events in the New York night club circuit. The scenario would run something like this:

A perennial playboy hasn't been getting into the papers lately. He calls up and says he is engaged to another beautiful babe and they say aw, that's old stuff, and hang up. So the playboy realizes he has to make something look authentic if he's going to win his way back into twitterprint.

He selects a babe at what would be random for anybody else and takes her to a neighboring state for a marriage license. This, at least, will look like the McCoy. But he knows that this state won't let anybody get married right away, because there are gin-marriage laws and laws about waiting for blood tests.

But fate crosses him up. The out-of-state official is so impressed by having a genuine New York night club playboy come up for a mating license that he generously waives the time element and is willing to perform the ceremony right now. There being no way out, the ceremony is performed and the playboy is out of circulation.

The movie will concern what might happen after such a surprise wedding. It should be good.

Bette Davis is expecting her husband, Arthur Farnsworth, back from the hospital tomorrow. She won't meet him at the train because cameramen and reporters might be there and might ask them to demonstrate a kiss. And neither of them can take such exhibitionism. Miss Davis says that since her marriage she has developed a phobia concerning two words. She can't stand interviewers speaking of Farnsworth as her "hubby" or her "mate." She calls her—ah—spouse Farny.

One of the pleasantest sets in Hollywood is the big "Arsenic and Old Lace" stage on the Warner lot. Here Frank Capra is doing a film version of a big Broadway hit, and here is something more than a movie factory. There is an air of great carefulness about the whole thing, as there is with any Capra picture; but there is also an air of humor. And every actor on the job is doing his doggonedest to steal each scene from every other actor. Cary Grant, Peter Lorre, Raymond Massey, Jack Carson, and all the others are struggling in a nice way for the center of attention every time a piece of film rolls. This should make the picture look alive.

There are three foreigners in the film—Josephine Hull, Jean Adair, and John Alexander. They are on leave from the Broadway hit to play their own parts for the screen—the Misses Hull and Adair as the murderesses, Alexander as the man who thinks he is Teddy Roosevelt. Alexander has wanted to get into movies for a long time, but this is his first chance; Miss Adair made a movie once, and Miss Hull was in one 10 years ago, when techniques were different.

Miss Hull, splendid comedienne of first rate Broadway hits like "Arsenic" and "You Can't Take It with You," is astonishingly respectful of Hollywood. "Everybody has been so nice," she says.

From time to time I shall publish near-prize winning recipes which are entered in the recipe contest we are conducting. If we could award more than one daily $5 prize, these would be among the lucky recipes. We hope the cooks who sent them in will try again for an award.

Hannah O. Starbird, R. N., 432 South Wolcott street, Chicago, says that Lamb Chops Bolton are just the kind of meat men like at stag dinners.

LAMB CHOPS BOLTON.

"Have your butcher cut one extra-thick lamb chop for each serving. Have him remove all except about 2 inches of the rib, leaving a "tail" of meat that is brought around and skewered, leaving a little hole that is to be filled with unsmoked liver sausage. Broil 10 to 12 minutes under a rather hot flame and serve with any desired sauce. I prefer plain butter, salt and pepper, as this is a very large and rich serving of meat."

"I notice that a mere man may enter this contest, so here is one of my favorite dishes, easy to make and very good," writes W. A. Hoffman, 5140 Woodlawn avenue, Chicago.

Peppers Stuffed with Apples.

[Serves five.]

2 cups fresh apple sauce
1 cup buttered bread crumbs
1 tablespoon chopped walnuts
2 tablespoons grated cheese
5 green peppers.

Mix apple sauce, buttered crumbs, nuts and cheese. Cut off tops of peppers, remove seeds, and fill with mixture. Sprinkle more cheese over the tops. Bake until tender.

Cooking editor's note: Green peppers often are parboiled for 5 minutes before stuffing. And use a 350 to 375 degree oven with this recipe.

Helen Lemberger, 1553 North Clark street, Chicago, makes an unusual soup which she serves with toasted cheese sandwiches and a crisp salad of greens.

Tomato-Onion Soup.

[Serves four.]

6 tablespoons tomato paste
3 cups cold water
4 tablespoons minced green onions
1 cup sweet cream
Salt.

Dilute tomato paste by adding cold water gradually. Stir well. Add minced onion. Bring to boiling point and boil two or three minutes. Add cream, stirring well. Salt to taste and serve at once.

Baked salmon with a spicy sauce is a recipe which Mrs. Edward Haines, 4325 Berkeley avenue, Chicago, likes a great deal.

Baked Salmon with Anchovy-Celery Sauce.

[Serves six.]

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
1/16 teaspoon paprika
½ cup liquid from salmon
½ cup heavy cream
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 eggs
½ cup cracker crumbs
1 pound can salmon.

Melt butter, add flour, seasonings, and salmon liquid, and cook until mixture thickens. Cool slightly. Add cream, lemon juice, crumbs, well beaten egg yolks and salmon, boned and flaked. Mix thoroly and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into greased loaf pan and bake at 350 degrees until firm, about 40 minutes. Unmold and serve with this sauce.

Anchovy-Celery Sauce. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in saucepan and add ¼ cup finely chopped celery. Cook over low heat until tender. Add 2 tablespoons flour, blend well, and add 1 cup canned chicken soup and 1 teaspoon anchovy paste. Cook until thickened. Add ¼ cup cream and 2 drops tabasco.

According to Culbertson

LAST SATURDAY'S QUESTION.

Question 40: You are West, declarer at a seven no trump contract. The opponents made no bids. Your hand and dummy are as follows:

West [declarer]	East [dummy]
♠A 5	♠Q 6 4
♥A K Q 4 2	♥5
♦7 5 4 3 2	♦A 8
♣3	♣A K Q J 10 8 5

North opens the diamond queen. What must be your play at the second trick?

Answer: You must play a low spade to the ace at the second trick. Your only chance to fulfill this grand slam contract [aside from the almost impossible chance that the spade king lies singleton] is to execute a squeeze. You have in top cards seven clubs, one diamond, one spade, and three hearts. You cannot hope for an extra diamond trick, hence your only chance is to play for either four hearts or two spades. This hope can easily be realized if the particular defender who holds four or more hearts also holds the spade king.

After cashing the spade ace you run the seven clubs, discarding four diamonds, one heart, and one spade. Now if the above condition holds true, the unfortunate defender will have to discard his spade king [in which case you cash the spade queen] or must unguard the heart suit and permit you to run four heart tricks. Failure to lead to the spade ace at the second trick destroys the possibility of this squeeze play. [No demerit for improper answer, but for playing as indicated take 25 points credit.]

TODAY'S HAND.

East, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	NORTH
	♥K 5
	♦A Q J
	♣A Q 5 4 2
WEST		EAST
♠Q J 7 3 2		♠K 10 8 5 4
♥Q 10 8 4		♥7 2
♦7 6		♦8 3 2
♣J 9		♣10 7 3
	SOUTH
	♠None
	♥A J 9 6 3
	♦K 10 9 5 4
	♣K 8 6

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 heart	Pass	3 clubs
Pass	3 hearts	Pass	4 no trump*
Pass	5 clubs	Pass	6 hearts
Pass	Pass	Pass

*Culbertson 4-5 no trump convention.

The net result of the "rock crusher" in the combined North-South hands was a minus score of 100 points. By comparison with the 2,140 points they could have gained thru the bidding of their laydown grand slam in diamonds or clubs, this outcome was hardly one to brag about.

It was South's criminal choice of rebid that sank the ship. Obviously South was one of those thousands of players who feel they dare not show a "new suit" for fear that partner will assume it means extra values. This is fallacious and even dangerous reasoning. It was South's duty to describe the pattern of his own hand, and surely a rebid of the anemic heart suit was no description at all. Then, on top of his other crimes, South refused to show the heart ace, feeling that his general "weakness" dictated a signoff.

The bidding should have proceeded as follows:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	4 no trump*	Pass
5 hearts	Pass	7 diamonds [final bid]

*Culbertson 4-5 no trump convention.

If South held three spades to the king and no clubs he would not be justified in showing the heart ace. In that case a signoff in the lowest bid-suit would be logical.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

Stuffed oysters is a recipe which contest editors decided was worth a $5 prize.

Natalia C. Nelson, 1144 Tower road, Winnetka, Ill., says of her recipe: "It was given me on a visit to Mexico, after I had enjoyed it at a most delightful luncheon. I have served it many times and even guests who have confessed an aversion to oysters have asked for the recipe. Preparation can be made many hours in advance of serving."

STUFFED OYSTERS.

[Serves six.]

2 ounces [¼ cup] butter
1 large onion, chopped fine
½ cup finely chopped celery
⅛ cup finely chopped parsley
3 slices white bread, crusts removed, about 2 inches thick
3 dozen oysters, cut into bits
1 thick slice lemon, peel included, cut fine
Salt, black pepper
Worcestershire sauce
Tabasco
Thyme, sage
3 eggs, slightly beaten
Bread crumbs
Butter

Melt ¼ cup butter in skillet. Add onion, celery, and parsley, stirring over low heat for 3 minutes. Add oysters. Soak bread in oyster liquid, squeeze dry enough to crumble into skillet, add lemon and seasonings. Stir gently over low heat about 5 minutes and remove from heat. Stir in eggs immediately. Taste for seasoning. Cool and pack lightly in six well buttered shells, cover with bread crumbs and dot generously with butter. Heat well in 350 degree oven before serving. The oysters puff up and brown slightly when done.

The Between Age Child May Dislike Books

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

A great many parents worry over the fact that their children don't like to read. There is a number of reasons why this may be so. Sometimes the home atmosphere discourages it; that is, the family isn't a reading family. Sometimes it is because a child doesn't get the little push in that direction which he needs by having interesting reading put in his way. Sometimes he or she is at the age where everything else in the world is more fascinating than a book. And sometimes boys and girls of 8 or 9 find the mere mechanics of reading such a hurdle that they are discouraged and skip books entirely.

The following letter depicts very well a state of affairs that is typical of some children during the "in-between" years.

"My dear Mrs. Bevans:

"I wonder if you could help me. My son will be 9 years old in May and is in the third grade. He hasn't any desire to read to himself, but the Sunday comics are read and re-read from one Sunday to the next if I don't destroy them. He enjoys having some one read to him, but I would like to have him do it himself sometimes. He doesn't seem to have any definite likes or dislikes in the types of stories read to him, so if you can give me a varied list to choose from that would give him the desire, I would appreciate it very much."

As to the comics, well, when I think of the summer before last at the seashore, when the college girls and boys would pop in to ask: "Mrs. Bevans, have your papers come yet? We'd like the funnies," or I'd hear: "Hey, Mom, don't start the fire with that; that's the funnies," I have nothing to say!

As to the rest of the letter: You must stop worrying over your son's not caring to read to himself. Lots of children are led into the enjoyment of books by being read to. At the age of 9 most boys are passionately interested in play and are so absorbed in their active doings that books are not vitally important to them. I would relax and not trouble your boy about his reading. It is possible to create a nervous tension which will hinder instead of help him, and is more likely to make him feel inferior or even contrary, and thus prevent his learning.

But I should get him a few books that are interesting but are several years below his reading age. Reading something with ease may give him a sense of power and encourage him, and so arouse his interest. The children's room in your library can help you in making selections.

What causes tantrums? How may a child be encouraged to be neat? What two things help the nervous child? For advice on these and other related topics read "You and Your Young Child." Jealous Nature Kills Its Own Romance Chances

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I read in your column recently about the case of a young woman who signed herself 'Miserable.' Since I can realize how terribly she must feel, I am writing this letter. I would appreciate your printing it with the hope that, somehow, I may be able to help her.

"It seems to me that jealousy is caused by a lack of confidence in one's self, by a fear that we might fail in a thing that means a lot to us. Therefore, to cure herself of jealousy, and in this case, to regain her husband's love, 'Miserable' will first have to build up a little more self-assurance.

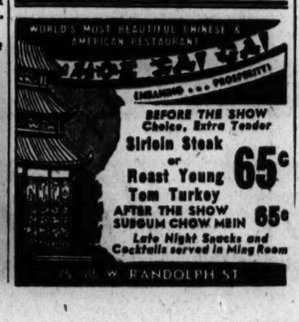
"Men seem to fall in love with girls who have charm, that is, girls who are attractive, have pleasant dispositions, are fun to be with, and are stanch friends. In short, girls who make them happy.

"Perhaps 'Miserable' doesn't realize she has these qualities. Certainly she must be nice looking, or she wouldn't have attracted her husband in the first place.

"'Miserable' must be a rather nice person, or her friends would not bother to help her, in fact, she wouldn't have friends. Since she may not have realized her own potentialities, she probably became worried and then ceased to be fun to him.

"I lost a boy friend thru jealousy. I was always afraid I might not be able to keep his love, and often accused him of not loving me. I stopped being companionable, and we drifted apart. But I loved him, and somehow I realized my failing and, in trying to forget, I put myself out to make friends and be a friend. I have many friends now, both boys and girls [I am 23], and I think it is the admiration that others had for me which made him realize that I was the one for him. We are now engaged to be married. That was a boy friend. Certainly there must be even a stronger bond between a husband and wife. A FRIEND."

Thank you, correspondent, for your splendid message.



White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Career Girls' Eating Habits.

A questionnaire sent to 71,000 business women uncovers information on the eating habits of the working girl. About 5 per cent eat their dinners regularly in restaurants, and in small communities, only 2 per cent. In towns numbering more than 10,000 inhabitants, few eat their lunches at home—only those who happen to work near where they live. In towns under 10,000 a much larger proportion go home for lunch. And, the survey adds, "contrary to the usual impression, working women usually eat freshly cooked food when at home rather than food out of cans." In other words, the career girl can cook!

Orchid Sequel.

A sequel to the orchid story is contributed by "Office Drudge:" When a popular member of the office force was moved into an executive position of unusual honor, various members of the firm wanted to offer congratulations. What would the newly promoted lady like best? An orchid, of course! So she received nine orchids.

She put them in the refrigerating plant to keep, and the following day, a Saturday, stopped in to get one. She ran into one of the vice presidents. "My goodness," he remarked, "I didn't know you ever come down to work on Saturday." "Oh," she said airily, "I just stopped in to change my orchids."

Getting the Job.

Two girls apply for the same job. One gets it. One does not. And neither knows why.

The one who's in—well—no matter. But the girl who's turned down is left at sea.

Did she talk too much . . . or too little? Were her references unsatisfactory? Did she fail to meet the standards?

There is some value, then, in learning first-hand the basis upon which a certain large company judges the hundreds of job applicants who stream thru their doors.

"School record," was the answer.

"You mean by that, scholarship rating?"

"No," came the explanation, "we judge each girl by her participation and coöperation in school activities. The girl who willingly carries responsibility in school, who shows an inclination to contribute something, is almost certain to coöperate and to contribute something in business."

How little the high school girl [who flings down her books when she comes home on a wintry afternoon and announces she has been elected to the student council] . . . how little she realizes that some day a job may hinge on that one seemingly small achievement.

Three Way Contract.

A. A. K. adds to the paragraph on contracts "Marriage is a contract with cancellation stipulations varying in the different states." It's also a three party contract. That is why the consent of the state [the third party] is necessary to enter into a marriage, or dissolve it.

And a school teacher adds to the paragraph cautioning women to watch the hardening effect of business upon their looks: "Time keeps a diary in our faces and writes a monstrously plain hand."

WCTU to Forgo Yule Gifts to Feed Children

Thousands of members of the Woman's Christian Temperance union will forgo Christmas presents and cards this year in order to send money to England for feeding refugee children, Mrs. Margaret C. Munns, national treasurer, announced yesterday. She asserted there would be more sympathy with regard to England's food problems if the British used their grain for food instead of converting it into Scotch whisky to be sold in the United States.

Three More Good Fellow Contributions Received

Three contributions of $5 each were received yesterday for the Good Fellow Fund of the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., from H. B. Sullivan, Elizabeth Browning, and William Farmer. This makes a total of $61 received for the purchase of Christmas baskets.

a necklace of heirloom pearls which has been in her family for many years. Her ivory tulle veil was held by a tulle halo, and she carried white orchids and stephanotis. The ceremony and reception took place in the Evanston home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Forsyth. The bride's sister and maid of honor, Miss Mary Jane Forsyth, wore a turquoise gown, and the two other attendants were in chartreuse. Mr. Case, son of Dr. and Mrs. Case of Chicago, will take his bride to Norfolk, Va., where he is stationed as a lieutenant in the United States navy.

The talents of the Saddle and Cycle's best amateur actors and songstresses have been enlisted for a musical comedy to be given tomorrow night at the club. Haskells, the Hughston M. McBains, and the junior Byron F. Harveys, who will have 34 in their party.

Appearing later on the impromptu stage will be Louis C. Sudler, Edwin M. Ashcraft III., Aldis Browne Jr., Mrs. Robert Dumper, Mrs. Harvey, Mrs. Earl Kribben, Mrs. Wells Farnham, John Cromelin, and Eugene Swigart. Durand Smith serves as guest director.

Chicago Curling Teams Arranging for Dinners.

Other members of the North Shore Curling league, which includes the Glen View, Indian Hill, Skokie, and Milwaukee clubs, will meet within the next two weeks.

The Glen View will meet on Wednesday, with Clifford Fitzgerald as chairman, and the Milwaukee on Thursday. The Indian Hill dinner will be held on Dec. 10, and the Skokie on Dec. 15. Godfrey Atkin is chairman for the Indian Hill rinks and Stanley H. MacArthur for the Skokie.

Y., will take place in St. Leo's church, 7800 Emerald avenue, at 10 o'clock this morning. A reception after the ceremony will be held in the home of the bride's mother.

On the House

Are you beginning to be troubled by windows that steam and drip? . . . This means that the humidity in your house is doubtless adequate, but steaming windows with water running down to the sills, are no asset from a decorative point of view. . . . Storm sash on your windows will help this condition, and in most cases entirely eliminate the nuisance. . . . Now, too, this storm sash can be made to harmonize with any type window, and, according to experts, you can save as much as 30 per cent of your fuel bill by properly installed storm sash.

Coaches—Charles Harvey [Tilden Tech], Aloysius L. Cronin [Leo].

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

Leo's Lions and Tilden Tech's Yellow Jackets, those champions from the Catholic and Public School leagues, who admit Minnesota and Notre Dame produced pretty fair records this fall, will march onto Soldiers' field this afternoon to show they know their football business, too, and the exhibition may be held before the season's largest gathering in the middle west.

The game, eighth under the auspices of Chicago's own Christmas Benefit fund, will start at 1:15 o'clock after a half hour of pageantry, the most elaborate in the history of the inter-league series.

Ticket Sales Reach 110,000.

There was as much guessing on the expected attendance yesterday in the benefit fund's offices as there was on the probable outcome of the game thruout the city. There was $90,000 in the till, representing 110,000 seats sold, as the ticket sellers finally went to their noon day victuals late in the afternoon.

These hardy individuals were still at their posts last night and will return to the box offices at the lake front arena this morning to accommodate the late comers who decide to spend the perfect football afternoon watching the league championship elevens play for the city title.

May Approach Record.

There were those, among them Secretary Barnet Hodes, who, on the strength of the weather man's favorable outlook, predicted another crowd approaching the 1937 mark of 115,000, a throng which taxed the capacity of the arena and surged onto the field. The present seating capacity of the field was jammed last summer as 98,203 watched the Chicago Bears defeat the College All-Americans, 37 to 13, in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S annual All-Star game.

The series probably never will present two elevens as evenly matched as the Lions and the Yellow Jackets. Each squad possesses fleet backs and powerful linemen. The statistics provide little aid in the effort to name the favorite. The Lions have scored ten consecutive victories, rolling up 249 points to their opponents' 27. The Yellow Jackets have won nine games, lost one [an early season 9 to 0 defeat by West Waterloo, Ia.,] and piled up 215 points to opponents' 37.

Catholics Have Had Trouble.

The Catholic leaguers have had little success in the inter-league game since it went under the sponsorship of Mayor Kelly's benefit fund in 1934. The Public School league champions have won five of the previous seven games, two contests ending in ties, 19 to 19, between Austin and Fenwick in 1936, and 13 to 13 between Fenger and Mount Carmel in 1939. Moreover, the Lions not only have lost their four previous appearances in the game but failed to score a

College Stars Beat Oshkosh Five, 35 to 33

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

An All-Star squad of collegiate basketball players last night defeated the Oshkosh All-Stars before a crowd of less than 20,000 in the Chicago Stadium by a score as thrilling as last year's inaugural—35 to 33.

The end of the game found the harassed Oshkosh quintet rushing in substitutes in an effort to gain more time, but the collegians retained command of the ball to the finish, despite a few frantic long shots by the Wisconsin quintet, winners of the National Professional league championship last year.

It was the second straight year that Arthur [Dutch] Lonborg, coach of Northwestern University, had tutored the college lads to a victory over a professional squad, his 1940 squad conquering the famed Harlem Globe Trotters, 44 to 42, in a double overtime argument.

Tie Score at Half.

Gus Broberg of Dartmouth sank one to tie the count near the end of the half at 17 to 17. The collegians pulled ahead at 29 to 26 at the end of the third quarter.

Moe Becker, the skinny Duquesne lad who played one of the best games of the night, and Herm Schaeffer, late of Indiana, then contributed free throws for a 31 to 26 margin. Lou Barle's free throw and Shipp's second basket of the evening made it 31 to 29, after which Barle hit again to tie the score at 31 to 31. An exchange of free throws by George Glamack of North Carolina and Barle made it 32 to 32. Jack Garfinkel of St. John's then aimed for the basket from far out for what was the decisive score.

A Familiar Pattern.

The pageantry preceding the game and the doings between the half were rather fancy, considering that they were quite reminiscent of the pattern originated in the All-Star football games and the Golden Gloves tournaments. This similarity followed the raising of the colors, the presentation of gifts to the various athletes and the maneuvers during the intermission.

The preliminary game saw the Chicago Bruins, local representative of the National Professional league, undergo a lesson in passing finesse and lose to the New York's colored Renaissance quintet, 45 to 26.

L.S.U. Faces Tulane Today; Students Sign Peace Pact

New Orleans, La., Nov. 28 (AP).—The football teams of Tulane and Louisiana State universities will meet tomorrow for the 39th time, each trying to salvage something of a disappointing season. More than 50,000 persons are expected to watch the contest. Presidents of the rival student bodies have signed an agreement designed to prevent such extra attractions as fights over the goal posts.

Nebraska Meets Oklahoma in Duel for Second Place

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 28 (AP).—Nebraska and Oklahoma will be fighting for second place in the Big Six conference when the two teams meet in their annual football game here tomorrow. Oklahoma holds the spot now, but if Nebraska wins the runnerup honors will be shared at three victories and two defeats each.

The above 10 players are members of the starting Tilden Tech team which last Saturday defeated Fenger High for its first Public School league championship since 1928. The squad scored nine consecutive victories in league competition.

98,000 TO SEE ARMY AND NAVY IN 42D BATTLE

Time of game—12:30 o'clock central standard time.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 28 [Special].—Emery E. [Swede] Larson, the marine major who will be returned to active duty Jan. 1 after three years as coach of the United States Naval academy football team, will send his Middies onto the turf of Municipal stadium here against Army tomorrow determined to maintain intact his record of never having lost a game to West Point, either as a player or a coach.

Larson, who returned from China to coach Navy, led the Middies to a 10 to 0 triumph in 1939 and a 14 to 0 victory last year. Tomorrow 98,000 fans will watch Navy's efforts to make it three straight for Larson as a coach and six straight for him as a member of naval personnel.

Task Not Easy.

The task confronting Navy, however, has not been rendered any easier by Earl [Red] Blaik, the civilian coach who rescued Army football from the worst slump of its history. Blaik has taken a team which won only one game in 1940 and whipped it into an eleven that has captured five out of eight this year and placed the lone blot on Notre Dame's otherwise perfect record by holding the Irish to a scoreless tie. Key men, however, have had to go the full 60 minutes, or close to it, in every Army contest.

Army leads in the series, which began in 1890, with 22 victories to Navy's 16 and three ties.

Larson, thru a season that has seen his Middies win every game except for a surprise tie by Harvard and a one touchdown defeat by Notre Dame, has used a two team system, with ample reserves in back of both his "starting" elevens. In man power Navy certainly must be conceded the advantage.

This is the 10th consecutive year Philadelphia has battened down its storm hatches and spread the welcome mat for the horde of notables and nonentities—and this week-end's extravaganza shapes up as the gayest of the decade. Money—splurged from a defense boom—was spent freely. Hotels, night clubs, and restaurants did a record smashing business.

Good Weather Forecast.

Every one, from Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt to plain Gus Q. Phan, hoped for good weather for the game tomorrow and the weatherman promised they'd get it. The forecast was for sunny skies and 60 degree temperature, assuring Municipal stadium of a full house.

With the President en route to Georgia, Mrs. Roosevelt announced she will sit in the Army section the first half of the game and with the Navy the second half. Army rooters will include Secretary of War Stimson, Under Secretary Robert P. Patterson, and Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff. Heading the Navy's section will be Secretary Knox, Adm. Howard R. Stark, chief of naval operations, and Adm. E. J. King, commander of the Atlantic fleet. Vice President Henry A. Wallace also will attend.

High point of the festivities, as usual, will be the maneuvering of the Naval academy's 3,100 midshipmen and West Point's 1,800 cadets. The service men are scheduled to march into the stadium at 11:15 a. m. [C.S.T.]. The game starts at 12:30 p. m. [C. S. T.].

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

TWO weeks ago this morning the Wake had the temerity to suggest that in no other section of the United States could you find a combination of college football teams comparable to Minnesota, Notre Dame, Michigan, Northwestern, Ohio State, and Missouri. . . . It was a simple statement of fact, not intended to disparage the caliber of the sport in the south, far west or east, but some of our contemporaries in the south immediately began to froth at the mouth and it looked as if we might be torn limb from limb if ever we put foot in Memphis. . . . It seems that some of the sports writers from that area came to the big town to see Northwestern play Notre Dame and they went away convinced that the players representing those universities were just a lot of gentlemanly guys named Joe who couldn't carry the water bucket for such ferocious brutes as perform for Vanderbilt, Alabama, and Tulane. . . . Minor league baseball reporters often get that way, too, when they have their first glimpse of major league competition. . . . Well, a few days ago the Associated Press polled 115 sports writers in all sections of the country in an effort to rate the 10 top teams, and lo and behold—the returns included Minnesota, Notre Dame, Michigan, Missouri, and Northwestern. . . . This will be shocking news, indeed, when it reaches Memphis, but the nation's top 10 teams didn't number a single representative from the Southeastern conference. . . . Better luck next year, fellows.

Theoretically, Charley Grimm, manager of the Milwaukee Brewers, no longer is a member of the family of happy Cubs. . . . But he was the first asked to accompany the Cub party to the winter meetings in Jacksonville, Fla., with the understanding he was to get aboard for the long trip with a ready assortment of anecdotes. . . . When Jimmy Dykes tells banquet listeners about using an "unbalanced" infield he always makes it clear he isn't implying his infielders are crazy. . . . Referee Red Friesell recently made his first public appearance since he suffered a fractured leg in the Philadelphia Eagles-Brooklyn Dodgers game on Sept. 27. . . . Swinging between a pair of crutches, he told the Pittsburgh Quarter-Back club he thought it was a bum job of officiating. . . . "I was clipped," said Red, "and the officials didn't call it." . . . Heavy fogs which disrupted plane schedules spoiled Coach Frank Leahy's plans to scout the Stanford-California game today. Ed McKeever, Notre Dame back field coach, will do the job instead.

A Fruitless Life.

This acre God has given me to till
Will not be cared for by another hand.
If I resist or disregard His will
I shall but mar the work that He has planned;
What will it profit Him to sow good seeds
And send the warming sunshine and cool rain
If I neglect to pluck the fetid weeds
That cumber all the ground and choke the grain?
And when at last the autumn season nears
What shall I answer Him when He shall say:
"Where is the garnered harvest of the years,
The golden grain that you have laid away?"
Will not my barren life distort His plans
If I go home to Him with empty hands?

Of Thee I Sing.

I marvel at your sylphlike grace,
A fleet Diana of the chase;
Redundant is your classic poise—
Cool, muted quality of joys,
Like fingers soft upon my brow,
But, sweetheart, some protests allow:
To give grave background, may I prate
Necessity of hose seams straight,
And sometimes poise is cheaply bought
By saying little, knowing naught
Of world events. A tiny crumb
Of knowledge earns a tidy sum
Of praise—a fortune paid as duty
By those grown tired of skin deep beauty.
Of these I sing, those faults unsaid
I'll speak of after we are wed.

GARY FIGHTER, DOWN IN FIRST, RALLIES TO WIN

10,004 See Battle in Garden Ring.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on Next Page.)

New York, Nov. 28.—Tony Zale is middleweight champion of all the world. Tonight the Gary Golden Glover, who once quit professional boxing because he deemed himself a failure, stormed pugilism's last rampart in Madison Square Garden by a brilliant, overwhelming, unanimous conquest of Georgie Abrams in 15 rounds.

Zale willingly put up his own middleweight title, awarded by the National Boxing association, as his stake for the opportunity to conquer the man New York state chose to defend the claim to middleweight honors. Tony's confidence brought him an undisputed championship. It also won him a legion of followers, who stood and cheered the lithe Pole as the announcer raised his hand in time honored signal of victory.

Walker Sees the Fight.

In tonight's crowd of 10,004, few of whom ever had seen Zale in action, was Mickey Walker, the man who renounced this title 10 years ago to campaign in higher weight classes. And the Toy Bulldog, long a hero in Manhattan, never fought more courageously than did the man who succeeds to his throne.

Tonight's crowd paid $23,854 to watch a battle for which New York probably would have jammed the Garden to capacity if Broadway had had any conception of Zale's ability. Tony will receive 40 per cent of the net receipts. More important, of course, is that Zale now is an established fighter in Manhattan.

It was a typical Zale fight. It followed the pattern Chicago saw when Tony successfully defended his NBA championship against Steve Mamakos and Al Hostak.

What's a Knockdown?

Zale was knocked down for a nine count in the first round. He was badly dazed by Abrams' stunning right to the jaw in the eighth. Momentarily Tony seemed on the verge of being knocked out, but the rugged Pole rallied his reserve strength, even as he had in the opening round, and came back viciously to carry the battle to his opponent.

Zale never had Abrams off his feet, but he had the Washington boy hanging on repeatedly, whacking him in the ribs with monotonous persistency until Georgie's skin glowed a dull red.

At the beginning of the unequal bout Abrams was faster, shiftier, and punched straighter than Zale. But Tony refused to quit before Abrams' best blows. His doggedness was discouraging, and at last Zale swept easily to a unanimous decision.

Georgie Knows He Is Licked.

While Zale danced across the ring to shake hands after the bout, neither Abrams nor his manager, Chris Dundee, made any gesture of dissent. By his attitude, Abrams confessed what all here knew—that he was a badly beaten fighter.

When Abrams retired to his dressing room, commission physicians examined his puffed and cut lips and his right eye, which was badly swollen. He was sent to the office of Dr. Charles A. Turtz. Abrams, who apparently was suffering from an internal hemorrhage of the right eye, said he had been unable to see with it after the second round.

It Was a One Sided Affair.

In our book Zale won nine rounds, lost four, and two, the second and 13th, were even. One of Abrams' rounds, the sixth, was forfeited at the referee's direction, however, when Zale was convicted of low punching. The verdict was not unfair, perhaps, but it should be noted that by this time Tony's body punching gradually was sapping Abrams' strength and his protests may have stemmed from the punishment he was receiving.

The ease with which Zale won is shown in the round by round vote, by which system New York officials score. After the eighth, when the champion skirted the edge of danger, he won all except the 13th, which we charitably called even, not so much on what Abrams accomplished, but because Zale coasted preparatory to starting his driving finish.

CHICAGO AWAITS RICHEST TURF SEASON IN 1942

Arlington, Washington to Pay $1,068,800.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Officials of Arlington and Washington Parks yesterday announced a coördinated program for 1942 which is designed to make Chicago the most important racing center in the country from June 22 to Sept. 7. During this period a well sustained succession of rich stakes and high daily purses will more than match the most lucrative competition the eastern tracks have to offer.

In this span of 67 racing days, the two tracks will distribute $1,068,800 in added money. Counting the sums contributed by horsemen in the way of stake fees, the gross purse is expected to run in the neighborhood of $1,312,000. Arlington Park, which will run from June 22 to Aug. 1, will put up $574,900 for a daily average of $15,969. Washington Park will take over on Aug. 3 and operate until Sept. 7, during which time it will offer $493,900 for a daily average of $15,932.

It's an All-Time High.

These meetings are the most ambitious in the history of Chicago racing. Arlington's program will top even the rich session of 1929.

The $50,000 Classic and the $50,000 American Derby will headline the Arlington and Washington Park schedules, respectively. Each track will present its customary $20,000 Futurity. In addition to its established stakes, Arlington Park will run a new $25,000 handicap at a mile and a quarter for 3 year olds and up. This will balance the $25,000 Washington Park handicap. Arlington lists 21 stakes during its 36 days and Washington Park 18 for its 31 days.

Minimum Purses Are Up.

The matter of minimum purses shows a big increase over the figures which were customary in the prosperous late '20s. The minimum for the better class of claiming race will be $1,500. There will be only two races a day at each track where the purse will be lower than this—and in these two races it will be $1,200.

The program was announced in a joint statement issued by John D. Allen and Walter Gregory, presidents of Arlington and Washington Parks, respectively. The presidents stated:

"In presenting to the Chicago racing public and the horsemen of America a more ambitious program than Arlington Park presented in 1929 and the richest program that Washington Park ever offered, we feel that we are fulfilling every racing ideal for which these institutions have stood. We hope and believe it will attract the leading stables of the country to these two Chicago tracks next summer."

Second All-Star Preview Listed for Tomorrow

Day Wins Again

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 28 [Special].—Ned Day of West Allis, Wis., defending his national individual match game bowling title tonight, gave Lowell Jackson, St. Louis challenger, another beating, winning the 10 game set at Nelson Burton's Recreation, 1,941 to 1,799. Day won six of the games, and now leads by 68.95 points, 483.11 to 414.16. Scores:

Day—197, 194, 212, 158, 166, 194, 169, 202, 269, 180—1,941.

Jackson—191, 146, 185, 225, 170, 218, 172, 185, 155, 152—1,799.

The first preview of the approaching All-Star bowling tournament, Thursday morning, was so successful that a second squad of All-Star principals and alternates has been assembled for a rehearsal of the tournament assignment. This squad is to bowl at 10 a. m. tomorrow on the Dearborn-Jackson Recreation center alleys.

All 10 of the men who are to bowl five games across 10 alleys are Chicagoans. Three are repeaters from Thursday's squad. The group will be made up of Paul Krumske, Eddie Tadevich, Harry Lippe, Walter Freitag, Lloyd Strouse, Adam Plunge, Harry Ledene Jr., Peter Peterson, Sykes Thoma, and Glenn Gersch.

Five Coats of Shellac.

Construction of the 10 alleys on which the tournament will be bowled in the Coliseum, Dec. 7 thru 14, is finished and actual laying of the drives will take place Monday. The full week will be needed for the completion of the job, as five coats of shellac must be applied and each coat given time to dry. The alleys then must be polished also.

Bowlers from the 42 cities outside of Chicago that are to be represented in the tournament are expected to start arriving during the closing days of next week. All will be on hand by 10 o'clock Sunday morning when Eddie Linsz, tournament secretary, checks in the entries.

Hargadon and Wilman Win.

Ned Day and Lowell Jackson, whose 40 game match will feature the first four nights of the All-Star event, will reach Chicago Tuesday or Wednesday, and will practice daily.

A trio of All-Stars rolled the highest individual totals in the doubles match early yesterday that featured The opening at Ted Lyons' recreation. Joe Wilman and Bill Hargadon got 652 and 692, respectively, for a 1,344 aggregate to beat Paul Krumske and Adolph Carlson.

EX-CUB NAMED MANAGER.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 28 (AP).—Herbert J. Brett, former Chicago Cub pitcher and minor league pilot, has been named manager of Wilmington of the Interstate Baseball league, the club announced today.

Only a Real Champion Can Come Back

Tony Zale, the ex-Golden Glover from Gary (on floor), appeared to be on his way out when this picture was taken in the first round of his title battle with Georgie Abrams in Madison Square Garden last night. He regained his feet, however, and went on to win a unanimous 15 round decision over the sailor, thereby earning undisputed possession of the middleweight championship. The referee is Billy Cavanagh.

International Horse Show to Open Tonight

The International Horse show returns to Chicago tonight. This big, fast-moving exhibition will draw throngs to the International amphitheater thruout the coming week. In the course of eight evening performances and four matinées, many of the show ring's finest horses will appear. Winners of blue ribbons in the nation's foremost events will entertain spectators with their performances under saddle, in harness and over the hurdles.

The show will be spiced with variety. There will be parades of prize winning draft animals and cattle. Gigantic shires, Clydesdales, Percherons, and Belgians will stamp around the ring to the tune of the bands. Fat black Angus steers and blue ribbon Herefords will be displayed as a change of pace from the horses.

Circus Acts, Too.

There will be circus acts such as the dare-devil riding of the numerous members of the Graham family. There will be sheep shearing contests and exhibitions by a sheep dog.

Some of the stars of the recent New York show in Madison Square Garden will go after new honors. John Cuneo has entered some of the most highly regarded representatives of his Hawthorn farm, which is located near Libertyville.

George Peak, veteran proprietor of the Peak stables of Winchester, Ill., is expected to appear. Tho he is now in his eighties, he usually celebrates his birthday during every show by driving his horses in at least one of the events.

McGuires to Ride.

Mrs. A. C. Thompson of Happy Way farm near Oak Lawn, Ill., will have her usual strong representation. So will H. Leslie Atlass of Wheaton. The various members of Dr. Walter G. McGuire's family will ride their horses in the saddle events. Among them will be Josephine, Mary Elizabeth, Patricia, and Walter Jr.

Among the other regulars who will be back is Judy King of Atlanta. The Heyl Pony farm of Washington, Ill. George Sadlier of Indianapolis and Dr. and Mrs. Daniel Orth of Wheaton will make strong bids for blue ribbons.

Tonight's show will be for Chicago area exhibitors only. The more general competition will begin tomorrow afternoon at the first of the matinées and will be continued in the evening performance. Other matinées are scheduled for Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday of next week. The show will close with the grand championship stakes in the various divisions a week from tonight.

Draft Board Keeps Feller in Class 1-A

Cleveland, O., Nov. 28 (AP).—Bob Feller's 1-A draft classification will not be reconsidered on the basis of his mother's recent letter to selective service officials concerning his parents' dependency on the Cleveland Indian pitcher's estimated $45,000 a year income.

John E. Morley, chairman of Feller's local draft board, declared today "his mother's letter was not in the nature of a request for reopening of his case," and "until there is an actual request for reclassification and cause shown for deferment, Feller will remain in 1-A."

Won't Ask Deferment.

The young pitching ace, whose draft number—2,857—was only eight numbers away from the board's last call, has said he would not ask deferment. Unless his case is reopened he probably will be inducted in February.

In her letter, written to Board Secretary Wayne L. Townsend several weeks ago, Mrs. Feller said Bob's ailing father was dependent wholly on the pitcher's earnings. Mrs. Feller also has been ill for the past year. Feller did not indicate in his draft questionnaire the classification in which he thought he should be placed, but listed his parents and a younger sister as dependents.

HE'LL TALK—IN A WEEK.

Van Meter, Ia., Nov. 28 (AP).—Bob Feller said at his home here today he will announce his future plans in about a week, but declined even to hint what they may be.

WEST VIRGINIA, MICHIGAN STATE IN THIRD GAME

Morgantown, W. Va., Nov. 28 (AP).—The West Virginia Mountaineers will shoot for a 50 to 50 break on their season against Michigan State tomorrow, and also attempt to maintain a record of not having lost a game in Mountaineer stadium during the two-year régime of Coach Bill Kern.

Altho West Virginia has improved in recent games, the Spartans are expected to score their third victory of the rivalry which started in 1938.

If This Tale Be Nostalgic, Folks, Make the Most of It

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The "grand opening" of Ted Lyons' south side bowling palace was Thursday night and we could have had a piece in yesterday morning's paper only we didn't on account we were in one of the basement clubrooms of Ted's gorgeous establishment until 4:30 o'clock, which is too late to send in bowling items. And the reason we were there till 4:30 a. m. yesterday was because we were listening to a pitch by pitch account of the 1917 world series, the last in which a Chicago baseball team won a world championship.

And who was giving this pitch by pitch account of the 1917 world series? We guess you think some windy radio announcer or some befuddled baseball reporter. Well, we'll tell you who was giving this pitch by pitch recital. It was Red Faber, who pitched four games and three of the four White Sox victories over the New York Giants for the 1917 world title, and Cracker Schalk, who caught every pitch in that series.

No Rash Promises, Ed.

If that isn't getting cauliflower ears first handed we promise never again to sit up till 4:30 o'clock in a bowling alley basement listening to two authentic heroes living in the past.

As tough luck would have it, we didn't take along our brief case. If we had had along our record books we could have averted several near fisticuffs between Red and Cracker over little details. But the boys did not start slugging so perhaps it was just as well there was no unromantic statistic book to raise its monotonous head.

Red's memory seemed sharper than Cracker's which is rather hard to understand on account Red is four years older than Cracker. Red was born in Cascade, Ia., Sept. 6, 1888, and Cracker was born in Litchfield, Ill., Aung. 12, 1892. The only item that Red clean forgot was the Giant who shut him out, 5 to 0, in the Polo Grounds in the fourth game of the series. Schalk remembered it was Ferdie Schupp.

Trade Events of Yesterday.

Red remembered all the circumstances of Eddie Cicotte's 2 to 1 victory over Slim Sallee in the series opener. He seemed even sharper in his recollection that a gent named Faber on Oct. 7 gave Chicago its second victory of the series, 7 to 2.

It was Cracker who remembered that Rube Benton shut out Cicotte, 2 to 0, in the opener in New York, the third game of the series, and both remembered that the Sox also were shut out in the fourth game, that one in which Schupp beat Red, 5 to 0.

From this point on Faber really was warmed up, for after losing the fourth game he won the fifth and sixth for the title. But he wasn't any hotter on the diamond years and years ago than he was yesterday morning as he whizzed the ball in memory past the snoots of Art Fletcher, Heinie Zimmerman, and all the other great New York heroes. We never saw Red's spitter breaking better than it was shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday morning.

Anyhow he beat Sallee 8 to 5 in Chicago in the fifth game, then the teams went back to New York and the Sox won the title, 4 to 2. That was the game in which Heinie Zim chased Eddie Collins across the plate.

There was only one thing we didn't like about the recital. We thought Cracker was pretty ornery to bring up the oldie about Red stealing third base in one of the Chicago games of the series, said third being occupied by Buck Weaver at the time.

Red Goes Out to Pitch.

Even so, Red filled in some detail not usually included in the oft repeated tales of the only theft of an occupied base in world series history.

According to Red's corrections of Schalk's version, Buck Weaver was on second base with two out and Red hit a ground ball single to right. The play was made to the plate and Red went to second on the throw-in. Since Weaver was a fast runner Red never dreamed he hadn't scored standing up, whereas Buck, for some reason Red doesn't know to this day, held up at third. Seeing Sallee take a windup on his first pitch, Red on the next toss scampered to third, and found Weaver there, aghast.

You remember the rest of the story: Weaver screamed, "Whereinhell are you goin'?" To which Red, in his droll way, replied: "I'm goin' out to pitch."

Red lives out at Gray's Lake now and doesn't get to town very often. But he's going to come in to be Schalk's guest at the ball writers' dinner on Jan. 6. It will be the first he's attended.

Heroes of 1917

Ray (Cracker) Schalk, left, and Urban (Red) Faber, heroes of the White Sox's 1917 world series victory over the New York Giants, who cleared up a few vague points concerning that series at the opening of Ted Lyons' recreation center Thursday morning.

Tucker and Beckwith to Meet Dec. 12

Tommy Tucker, East Rockaway, L. I., light heavyweight, and Booker Beckwith of Gary, Ind., will meet in a 10 round bout in Chicago Stadium Dec. 12. Two supporting matches of 10 rounds will bring together Willis [Shorty] Hogue, middleweight of San Diego, Cal., and Coley Welch of Portland, Me., and Willard [Big Boy] Hogue, twin 157 pound brother of Willis, and José Basora, Porto Rico.

Promoter William R. Rand and Arthur Wirtz, treasurer and vice president of the Stadium, thought the contests were all right, but the purses asked by the fighters were unreasonable.

Accordingly, the boys reduced their demands to a level agreeable to Rand and Wirtz. Original cost of the three matches totaled about $10,000, the promoter said, but the reduction cut this amount to an estimated $7,000.

Vic Troise, New York junior welterweight, will arrive today for his Chicago debut in a 10 round bout against Eddie Lander of the west side in Marigold Gardens Monday. Promoter Irving Schoenwald last night completed the supporting card. Nate Bolden, 1937 intercity Golden Gloves middleweight champion, is paired with Henry Jones, Detroit light heavyweight; Johnny O'Brien, Calumet City middleweight, is matched with George Mericks, also of Detroit; Buddy Smallwood, former Cleveland sectional Golden Gloves flyweight and bantamweight winner, is paired with Richard Rigali, Chicago, and Kippy Dumas, Detroit welterweight, is matched with Hymie Dabb, also of Chicago.

HAWKS SEEK 4TH IN ROW AT HOME TOMORROW NIGHT

Games Tonight

Boston Bruins at Montreal Canadiens.
Brooklyn Americans at Toronto Maple Leafs.
Detroit Red Wings at New York Rangers.

The Blackhawks, undefeated in four games on their home ice this season, will play the New York Rangers in the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night.

Sounds pretty hot — that four straight on home ice, but as a matter of fact the Hawks have taken two severe trimmings since they won their last home game. Thursday night they were jolted by the Detroit Red Wings, 4 to 1, and Tuesday the Rangers beat them, 5 to 4.

Leafs, Bruins Both Play.

The two road trip beatings enabled Boston to pass the Hawks and tie Toronto for the league lead. It is likely the leaders will still be tied for the top position after tonight's bookings, which have Brooklyn playing Toronto on the Leafs' own ice—where the Leafs are tough plus—and the Bruins scheduled for Montreal and a clash with the Canadiens.

President W. J. Tobin of the Hawks announced yesterday that Right Wing Fido Purpur will be recalled from Kansas City and that Joe Papike and Bob Carse will be sent to Kansas City. In addition to Purpur the Hawks will be strengthened for Sunday night's game by Max Bentley, Hawks' center who sustained a fractured left wrist in an intraclub game at Hibbing Oct. 19.

Fans to See Mr. Burns.

Tomorrow night's Hawks-Ranger game may be a battle for third place, for the Rangers are battling tonight at New York with the Detroit Red Wings, and a victory for Lester Patrick's club will send it up the ladder half a game behind the Hawks.

In tomorrow's game Chicago fans will see the Rangers' Norm Burns for the first time. It was Norm who set up two plays in the overtime period last Tuesday. One went to Bryan Hextall to tie the score at 4 to 4 and 55 seconds later he slid the second to Mac Colville, who converted it into the winning goal.

DOGDOM'S FINEST BID FOR HONORS AND CASH TODAY

30 States Represented in Coliseum Entry List.

BY BOB BECKER.

Dogdom's high society, the upper crust of the thorobred realm, will go before the judges at 10 o'clock this morning as the two day session of the 31st annual show of the Western Specialty Clubs association opens in the Coliseum.

The entry list includes 1,228 dogs from 30 states. The show will open at 10 a. m. and close at 10 p. m. on both days. More than $10,000 in trophies and cash awards will be distributed. One owner living in Havana, Cuba has entered a standard Schnauzer for competition, and every section of the United States is represented with dogs in one or more of the 24 breeds eligible to take part.

The schedule for the show follows:

TODAY.

10 A. M.—Irish terriers, Pomeranians, fox terriers, Pekingese, German shepherd obedience tests.

NOON—Ceremony honoring Mike, blind Irish setter which saved his young master from a serious accident.

1 P. M.—Trick demonstration by standard Schnauzers.

2 P. M.—Scottish terriers, standard Schnauzers, Dobermann-Pinschers, fox terriers [continued], Great Danes.

4 P. M.—Dachshunds.

5:30 P. M.—Children's handling classes sponsored by The Tribune.

6:30 P. M.—Trick demonstration by standard Schnauzers.

7 P. M.—Demonstration of Red Cross service by German shepherds.

7:30 P. M.—English Springer spaniels, Irish setters, Chow-Chows, bull terriers, German shepherd obedience tests [continued].

TOMORROW.

10 A. M.—Bulldogs, German shepherds [bench judging], Schipperkes, Cocker spaniels, Dobermann-Pinschers [females], Sealyham terriers, Cocker spaniels [continued].

4:30 P. M.—Poodles.

6:30 P. M.—Trick demonstration by standard Schnauzers.

7 P. M.—Demonstration of Red Cross service by German shepherds.

7:15 P. M.—Presentation of bulldog mascot to United States Marine corps.

7:30 P. M.—Boxers, Dobermann-Pinschers [continued], Boston terriers, Chihuahuas.

9 P. M.—Trick demonstration by standard Schnauzers.

Twenty-Four Will Survive.

Out of the two-day show will come 24 final winners, each with the title of "best of breed." In dog shows open to all breeds there is further competition beyond best of breed, with six dogs winning the group awards [best in sporting group, best in hound group, best terrier, best working dog, best toy, and best non-sporting dog], and finally one dog is named as best in the show. But, in the Western Specialty show only 24 of the 109 breeds are eligible, and, therefore, no group awards are made and there is no best in show classification.

As each of the 24 breed winners is selected, it will be placed in a champion's circle near the entrance to the Coliseum, so that spectators will be able to see the best of all the 1,228 dogs without walking past the benches.

Notice, Boys and Girls.

Boys and girls under 16 who plan to compete in the children's handling classes sponsored by THE TRIBUNE should appear at the designated judging ring before 5:30 today. The ring in which the event is to be held will be chosen at the show this afternoon.

Mrs. Dwight H. Green, wife of the governor of Illinois, and an owner of a Sealyham terrier, will present trophies to the winning Sealys tomorrow afternoon. National figures who will have dogs in competition include Maj. Edward Bowes, who will exhibit a poodle; Lynne Overman, movie actor, to show a dachshund, and Mrs. John G. Winant, wife of the American ambassador to Great Britain, who will exhibit several Scottish terriers.

ASSOCIATION TO HOLD ANNUAL MEETING TODAY

Columbus, O., Nov. 28 (AP).—As leaders of the eight baseball clubs in the American association gathered tonight for the league's annual conference tomorrow, three main problems—playoffs, schedules, and broadcasting—were discussed.

Some club managers were expected to demand that playoff series be abandoned. But sports experts predicted that the usually profitable playoffs would be retained.

Whereas in the past western clubs went east for their openers, this year they are expected to open the season against western teams. This will reduce the number of trips a club makes a season from four to three, and will save each club $1,000.

Under this plan, opening games April 16, probably would be: Columbus at Indianapolis; Toledo at Louisville; Minneapolis at Kansas City; St. Paul at Milwaukee.

Another issue is whether clubs should be allowed to sell broadcasting rights of their own games. In the past, all the rights have been sold together by the league. Clubs in cities where radio rights are more valuable are expected to ask for the privilege of selling their own.

MADISON A. C. BOXERS SCORE BEFORE 1,000

Jimmy Baratta, Buddy Ryan, and Pat Maloney, outstanding welterweight members of the Madison Athletic club amateur boxing team, scored victories in last night's show in the Madison arena on the west side before a crowd of 1,000. Baratta stopped Frankie May, unattached; Ryan conquered Don Wallace, Savoy A. C., and Maloney beat Wendell White, also of the Savoy.

In other matches Pete Blouir beat James [Cairo] Hodge, Savoy A. C. heavyweight; William Cassidy, Illinois Athletic club junior lightweight, knocked out Joe Mandel; Vince Ortiz stopped Ray Wallace, Savoy A. C.; Harold Walleck, I. A. C. lightweight, beat Joe Heneghan, also of the I. A. C., and Andy Dooley, I. A. C. bantamweight, knocked out Layonel Lewis, Savoy.

What About That Predicted Packer Loss?

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The turning point of the National Football league race was on Nov. 2. That was the day the Bears confidently stepped out on Wrigley field and promptly were slapped down by the Green Bay Packers. That was the day the cry was answered "Who's going to stop the Bears?"

That same evening, as he took his defeat more nonchalantly than any one believed he could, George Halas, the big Bear, predicted that either the Bears or Packers, or both, would again lose before the regular schedule was completed. In fact, before running afoul the Packers, Halas had insisted the Bears would lose at least two of their 11 league contests.

Well, the Bears have two games left—including the one tomorrow in Philadelphia—and the Packers have only one, this being their meeting tomorrow with the Redskins in Washington. And since that Nov. 2 afternoon these two old rivals have gone on their victorious way.

Tomorrow May Be Day.

If Halas is right about at least one more defeat popping up, it may be that this will come to pass in Washington tomorrow. The Eagles hardly figure to cause the Bears too much trouble, and it could be that Sam Baugh will be in such slick pitching form that the Redskins will get some fun out of this 1941 campaign, now that they have been succeeded as eastern champions by the Giants.

The Bears weren't making any rash promises as they boarded an eastbound train yesterday afternoon. From Halas on down, they were intrigued at the prospect of trying to stop their own trick passing and running maneuvers, since Coach Greasy Neale of the Eagles has their system copied down to a "t." On top of this, Mr. Neale declares he has put the past two weeks since his Eagles played to full use in designing some original stuff.

If the Packers and Bears both win, Halas will remain in Philadelphia for Monday's playoff meeting, which will be presided over by Elmer Layden, commissioner of professional football. At this parley a coin will be flipped to determine where the Packers and Bears will meet in the playoff game, this being contingent, of course, upon the latter beating the Cardinals Dec. 7 in Comiskey park.

Cardinals Face Lions.

The Packers moved into Washington last night after practicing during the week in New York. Their game with the Redskins will be broadcast over station WTMJ, Milwaukee, starting at 1 o'clock, Chicago time.

The Cardinals will leave today for Detroit, where they meet the Lions tomorrow in a battle for third place in the western division. A victory for the south siders will clinch this spot. A tie, which would be the second this season between the two clubs, would deadlock them for third place, assuming that the Cards will lose to the Bears in their season's final. Bob Morrow, injured in the New York game, will be available for duty at full back.

DREHER, SCOTT GIVEN MACKINAC RACE TROPHIES

Otto Dreher of the South Shore Yacht club, Milwaukee, and Sumner W. D. Scott of the Columbia Yacht club were awarded the 1941 Mackinac race prizes last night at the annual winners' dinner of the Chicago Yacht club. The affair was held in the Merchants and Manufacturers club. Dreher, owner-skipper of the sloop Lively Lady, won the Universal [racing] division honors last July in the historic Mackinac run. Skipper Scott won the cruising division title with his ketch Breeze.

E. E. [Ned] Sheridan, newly elected commodore of the Chicago Yacht club, presided at the meeting following the dinner. Race Committee Chairman Byron Willis presented trophies to winners of all class champions of the club as well as to yachtsmen from all parts of Lake Michigan who won open races sponsored by the club.

CYO Will Decide Touch Football Titles Today

The championship playoff of the CYO touch football tournament will be held today in St. Philip stadium, Jackson and Kedzie, in both junior and senior divisions. In the junior loop Angel Guardian orphanage will meet All Saints [108th street], at 2 p. m., followed by the senior game between Angel Guardian and Holy Guardian Angel at 3 o'clock.

Honor Unbeaten Irish at Chicago Dance Tonight

Tilden Meets Leo Today for All-City Title

point. They absorbed their fourth defeat at the hands of Fenger last season, 18 to 0, before 70,000.

However, the Lions had several ailing players in last year's game, among them Skip Carroll, giant tackle now at Marquette university, and Henry [Babe] Baranowski, the squad's touchdown specialist this season who has scored almost half of the Lions' points.

They're All Ready Now.

The Lions will have no alibi if they lose today's game, every member on the roster being available for duty against the Yellow Jackets. Only one player, Guard Frank Lauro, whose mother died last Sunday night, was missing from the Lions' practice drills during the week, but he rejoined the squad yesterday for the final offensive session.

Tilden Tech also will be at full strength for the game, its first appearance in the charity spectacle since 1928, when it defeated De Paul academy, 12 to 0. Two linemen—Guard Victor Mieszkowski and Tackle Don Peterson—missed a few drills because of colds, but will be in the starting lineup and ready to make possible the long runs of Tilden's fleet ball carriers—Ray Schumacher, Len Mazzaco and Eddie Uvodich. Mazzaco is one of the two seniors in the opening lineup, the other being Earl Hamilton, quarter back who is rated as one of the finest blockers in Tilden's history.

Service Men to Help.

Soldiers and sailors from nearby army camps and naval training stations will participate in the pregame and between halves ceremonies. There also will be ROTC units, drum and bugle corps, and 12 bands. Oscar W. Anderson, supervisor of music in the public school system, will lead the massed bands in the flag raising and playing of the national anthem at 1 o'clock.

MIDWEST HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING, MAPS SCHEDULE

Athletic directors, coaches, and faculty representatives of the Midwest College conference yesterday opened their annual meeting in the Sherman hotel. The directors and coaches gathered in an afternoon session, while the faculty men met in the evening. All three will conclude the session with a general meeting today.

Main business of the conference appeared to be the schedule changes necessitated by the withdrawal from the conference of Carleton college of Northfield, Minn. Carleton's action was attributed to its geographical situation and the fact that it could not always meet the conference minimums of six football games and twelve basketball games. The eight other members of the Midwest group are Beloit, Coe, Cornell, Grinnell, Lawrence, Monmouth, Ripon, and Knox.

7 Leo Players Conclude Prep Careers Today

Seven members of Leo High's starting team will end their prep football careers in the game against Tilden Tech in Soldiers' field this afternoon. They include Henry [Babe] Baranowski, quarter back; Tom McDonald and Chuck Mehmel, half backs; Frank Lauro and James Schmuhl, guards; Larry Forst, tackle, and Bob Quinn, right end. Lauro and Quinn are co-captains of the Catholic league championship squad.

Collegiate coaches and scouts will be among the thousands at the game. Fritz Crisler of Michigan, who previously had arranged to attend, telegraphed officials of Chicago's Own Christmas Benefit fund that he decided to spend the afternoon watching the Army and Navy in Philadelphia. George Ceithaml, Wolverine captain for 1942, is a graduate of Lindblom, which participated in the interleague game in 1934 and 1935.

Mayor Kelly was in Washington yesterday, but will return to the city by airplane this morning. He will sit on the 50 yard line in the west stands of Soldiers' field along with James B. McCahey, president of the school board; William H. Johnson, superintendent of public schools; the Right Rev. Daniel F. Cunningham, superintendent of Catholic schools, and other civic leaders.

The Tilden Tech-Leo game is not the only prep charity game scheduled in the state of Illinois today. East St. Louis High, Southwestern conference champion and Duquoin High Egyptian conference title holder, will meet in East St. Louis. The game is expected to attract 10,000, proceeds being donated to the Shriners' hospitals for crippled children.

Bruce Smith Wins Heisman Trophy; Award on Dec. 9

New York, Nov. 28 (AP).—Bruce Smith, captain and half back of Minnesota's unbeaten football team, today was chosen winner of the Heisman Memorial trophy, given annually to the player adjudged the nation's best by sports writers and radio broadcasters.

Smith received 554 votes to 345 for Angelo Bertelli, passing ace of the unbeaten Notre Dame eleven. Approximately 750 ballots were cast.

The trophy, honoring the memory of John W. Heisman, will be presented Smith at the Downtown Athletic club Dec. 9.

Tom Harmon of Michigan was the 1940 winner and the award went to Nile Kinnick of Iowa in 1939. Other winners have been: Davey O'Brien of Texas Christian, Clint Frank of Yale, Larry Kelley of Yale, and Jay Berwanger of the University of Chicago.

The leading 10 vote getters in the 1941 balloting:

Bruce Smith, Minnesota, 554; Angelo Bertelli, Notre Dame, 345; Frank Albert, Stanford, 336; Frank Sinkwich, Georgia, 249; Bill Dudley, Virginia, 247; Endicott Peabody, Harvard, 153; Edgar Jones, Pittsburgh, 151; Robert Westfall, Michigan, 147; Steve Lach, Duke, 126; Jack Crain, Texas, 102.

Oregon State Faces Oregon; Last Hurdle

Eugene, Ore., Nov. 28 (AP).—Oregon State's football team meets Oregon university, the only team between it and the Rose bowl, tomorrow afternoon, but Pasadena talk tonight still was taboo among the Beavers.

"This is a tough game against a tough team," Coach Lon Stiner repeated. "We'll think about the Rose bowl when and if we win."

State is now tied with Stanford for the Pacific Coast conference title, but has a superior claim to the bowl bid because of its 10 to 0 triumph over Stanford.

Rain made a wet field certain and favored the heavier Webfoot team.

STANFORD MEETS CALIFORNIA.

Palo Alto, Cal., Nov. 28 (AP).—Twice beaten but still clutching at faint hopes for a return to the Rose bowl, Stanford makes its final bid tomorrow against its oldest rival, California.

To stake a clear cut claim to the bowl invitation, the Indians must score a victory over California and Oregon must defeat Oregon State. The Stanford-California renewal will attract 70,000 or more fans, depending on the weather.

NAMED LUTHER CAPTAIN.

Decorah, Ia., Nov. 28 [Special].—Paul Schroeder of Postville, Ia., has been elected captain of the 1942 Luther college football team. Curtis Jacobson of Canton, Minn., has been named the team's most valuable 1941 player.

GRAINS HIGHER AS U.S. STEPS UP BUYING OF FOOD

Wheat, Corn and Lard Futures Advance.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Grain and provision prices edged higher yesterday as the department of agriculture announced one of its largest food purchases since lend-lease buying for England began. Provision dealers estimated the federal buying agency spent 5 million dollars or more for the pork, lard, chicken, and other meat products purchased in the last week.

Wheat sold ¼ cent higher at $1.13¼ per bushel for delivery in December, while other wheat futures contracts closed unchanged to ⅛ cent lower. Corn climbed ⅛ to ⅛ cent a bushel; soy beans, ⅜ to ½ cent, and lard, 5 to 12 cents a hundred pounds. Oats finished ⅛ to ⅛ lower and rye was down ⅛ cent a bushel.

Lift Kansas City Embargo.

Trading in grain futures was comparatively small. Out of the southwest came the news that the railroads had lifted their embargo on grain shipments to Kansas City for storage, indicating that the serious lack of grain space had been alleviated temporarily. Trade reports indicated that shipments of wheat from the country were slowing down because the market price has fallen below the loan rate.

With more storage space available, a growing demand has developed for corn. Feed manufacturers and processors are seeking supplies while the elevator operators themselves are in the market for the grain. Prices have advanced more than 8 cents a bushel in the last six weeks.

Drying Out Wet Corn.

Because of the wet weather during October, the 1941 corn contains a high percentage of moisture. The elevators are equipped to dry out this corn and thus improve the grade. With the existing wide spread between the cash market for corn and the price for delivery in May, they are finding it profitable to operate their drying plants. The spread in the two prices has been more than 10 cents a bushel.

Today will be the first for posting notices of intentions to make deliveries of actual cereals and soy beans on December futures contracts.

FEDERAL BUYERS TAKE 68 CARS MORE OF CHEESE

Brings Lend-Lease Total to 138 Million Pounds.

With the purchase of 68 carloads of cheese yesterday on the Wisconsin Cheese exchange, Plymouth, Wis., the government set what is probably a new record in cheese buying, officials of the Chicago Mercantile exchange reported. The Federal Surplus Commodities corporation, the federal buying agency, had purchased 7,415,854 pounds from manufacturers earlier in the week.

Total purchases of cheese for lend-lease purposes in the last seven days were 9,075,000 pounds.

Pays 23¼ Cents a Pound.

The FSCC reported it paid 23¼ cents a pound for the cheese it purchased on the Plymouth exchange. Altogether it has bought close to 138 million pounds of cheese under the lend-lease program.

Withdrawal of the large amount of milk required to make the cheese from the potential supply available for the manufacture of butter, brought a reaction in butter futures prices in Chicago. The November future closed out at 33¼ cents a pound, the highest expiration price for the delivery in four years.

Wholesale Eggs Decline.

Wholesale egg prices dropped 1 to 2 cents a dozen as consumers showed some inclination to do without eggs rather than pay the prevailing high prices. Best grades declined to 37 cents a dozen. Retail stores, however, continued to ask around 50 cents for these grades.

Closing sales on November egg futures were made at a 12 year high of 33.40 cents. The December and January contracts finished 1-5 cent a dozen higher.

PRINTING INK.

Interchemical corporation common on the New York Stock exchange appears to have a firm foundation, judging from its relative stability during the last few months, so I'm considering it as an investment. What can you tell me of its operations, earnings, and dividends?—J. P. K.

Answer: Interchemical corporation is a leading domestic producer of printing inks and, to a smaller extent, pigments, paints, lacquers, and other chemical coatings. The company supplies about half the inks used by the country's newspapers. Labeling and packaging, however, provide the most important ink outlet. Ink sales are made direct to users.

Interchemical has several divisions and subsidiaries. Properties include plants in Brooklyn, N. Y.; Newark, N. J.; Battle Creek, Mich.; Chicago; Cincinnati, O., and Oakland, Cal. Executive offices and research laboratories are in New York City.

Net income for the nine months thru last September was $1,239,346, equal to $3.26 a common share. This was a gain of 58.5 per cent over the $782,097, or $1.68 a share, in the same period the preceding year. With the exception of 1932, operations have been profitable since the incorporation in 1928.

Dividends on the common stock were omitted from 1931 thru 1933 and in 1938. Preferred payments have been made regularly. Earnings and common dividends for years ended Dec. 31 follow:

	Net sales.	Net income.	Dividends.
1940	$24,904,087	$1,107,028	$1.60
1939	23,432,929	1,581,961	.40
1938	18,796,040	483,383	....
1937	20,207,043	818,559	2.00
1936	17,446,208	1,269,314	2.75

Four quarterly payments of 40 cents each have been made on the common in 1941. Interchemical has 290,320 shares of no par common stock and 65,154 shares of 6 per cent preferred, $100 par, outstanding. There is a $2,050,000 issue of 3½ per cent debentures, due in 1949. At the end of September, total assets exceeded $20,000,000. Current assets amounted to $12,202,507 and net working capital was $7,724,445.

PLAN ABANDONED.

What is the status of the North American Car corporation's recapitalization and merger plan?—V. L.

Answer: The recapitalization plan, including the merger of the Palace Poultry Car company, a subsidiary, was abandoned early this month. A special meeting failed to produce enough votes to make the proposal effective.

Setbacks Reported in Some Lines of Chicago Business

Setbacks in some lines of business activity in Chicago in October, traceable in part to the effects of the arms program, were reported yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce in its monthly analysis.

In the construction industry, to which materials priority regulations have been applied, the dollar value represented in building projects for which permits were issued last month declined to $3,637,795, from $4,448,675 in October, 1940. The number of permits issued increased to 496, from 416.

Automobile sales fell about 41 per cent to 6,090 from 10,298 in the 1940 month.

Factory pay rolls were up 43 per cent; bank clearings, 27 per cent; electric power output, 11 per cent; department store sales, 8 per cent.

U.S. STEPS INTO SAGGING MARKET TO HALT HOG DIP

Increases Lend-Lease Buying of Pork.

The government stepped up lend-lease buying of pork and lard this week as the average price of hogs threatened to fall below "parity" as figured by the department of agriculture, it was disclosed at the stock yards yesterday. Contracts were the heaviest since mid-September when costs were much higher, and third largest since last May.

During the week the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation purchased 7,496,821 pounds of cured pork, 9,942,332 pounds of canned pork, 8,859,200 pounds of lard, a total of 26,298,353 pounds. It also bought 430,016 pounds of canned chicken.

Purchase Under Lend-Lease.

The pork and lard total represented an increase of 2,342,000 pounds or 9.8 per cent over last week, and a gain of 6,176,000 pounds or 30 per cent compared with two weeks ago. Since lend-lease buying began, the government agency has purchased 751,101,229 pounds, consisting of 233,232,881 pounds of cured pork, 209,202,592 pounds in cans, and 308,665,756 pounds of lard.

Despite the stepped up buying, yesterday's market for 240 to 270 pound hogs, the weights favored by federal buyers, ruled weak to 10 cents lower.

Lighter Hogs Scarce.

Lighter hogs were scarce, and most stock under 210 pounds in weight sold strong to 10 cents higher, with advances of 25 cents registered in some underweights. The $10.15 a hundredweight top was paid for selected 180 to 200 pound spring pigs.

Well over 100 carloads of cattle culled from the show met brisk demand. Buyers paid up to $14.

UNIONS OFFER COMPROMISE ON RAIL PAY FIGHT

Propose Increases of $1 a Day.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28 (AP).—A compromise proposal for settling the railroad wage dispute, calling for pay increases of $1 a day for 1,250,000 operating and nonoperating workers, was advanced today by the 19 rail brotherhoods.

Charles M. Hay contends rails can afford $1 a day increase.

The proposal, made to President Roosevelt's emergency fact-finding board, was substantially below the union's original request, but would amount to an estimated 130 million dollars a year more than wage raises recommended by the board after an extensive investigation held in Chicago.

The five operating brotherhoods originally asked 30 per cent increases for their 350,000 members. They now receive from $5.06 a day up. The board recommended 7½ per cent.

Ask 30 to 34 Cents More an Hour.

The nonoperating unions, with total membership of about 900,000, sought increases of 30 to 34 cents an hour over present scales ranging from 35 to 85 cents. The board recommended a nine cent an hour increase, for an average of about 13½ per cent.

Labor spokesmen said $1 a day increases would lift the present pay of the operating men about 15 per cent and that of the nonoperating group about 20 per cent. Both groups rejected the board's original recommendations and the operating workmen voted to strike Dec. 7.

The emergency board reconvened today at the request of President Roosevelt in an eleventh hour attempt to avert a strike. Union representatives were heard today and the railroad companies will present their case tomorrow. Mr. Roosevelt asked that the board file a supplemental report with him Dec. 1.

Board Offers to Mediate.

In opening today's session which was devoted to hearing of objections to the board's report by counsel for the 19 unions, Chairman Wayne L. Morse offered the services of the board as mediator in the dispute, an alternative to submitting an immediate report to the President. Under such a procedure, he told reporters later, the strike call would stand, but he expressed the hope that the unions would postpone the strike pending negoiations. Neither labor nor management representatives indicated whether they would accept the offer.

Charles M. Hay of St. Louis, counsel for the operating brotherhoods, told the board that on the basis of evidence presented by labor at the Chicago hearings, the carriers could afford to pay wage increases of 400 millions annually. This, he said, amounted to $1 a day or 12½ cents an hour for the 1,250,000 employés. It was a decrease of more than 50 per cent from the 900 millions a year which, the railroads said, the unions' original demands would have cost them.

Requests Basic Increases.

Frank L. Mulholland of Toledo, attorney for the nonoperating unions, asked that the board recommend basic wage increases instead of proposing, as it had in the first report, that the recommended increases be effective only until Dec. 31, 1942, with the whole wage question to be reexamined at that time. He contended that railroad labor had been "left behind the parade toward better conditions," saying that men doing comparable work in other industries were being paid higher wages.

Mulholland pleaded with the board to revise its recommendation for annual six day vacations with pay for the nonoperating men. The 14 unions had asked two week vacations.

Freight Rates on Tanker Oil Reduced 20 Per Cent

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28 (AP).—A 20 per cent reduction in basic freight rates for transportation of oil in tankers from Caribbean or gulf ports to the east coast of the United States was announced today by the maritime commission. The new maximum rate is 40 cents per barrel on the basis of gasoline from Port Arthur to New York. The commission said port and product differentials would be announced later.

11 Million Deal to Give Vultee Control of Rival

Downey, Cal., Nov. 28 (AP).—Vultee Aircraft corporation said today it had agreed to purchase 440,000 shares of Consolidated Aircraft corporation common stock from Maj. R. H. Fleet and others. Total purchase price will be $10,940,000, of which $9,280,000 will be paid in cash.

[Plans for the purchase of Consolidated stock were disclosed in The Tribune of last Wednesday.]

Acquisition by Vultee of the big Consolidated plant at San Diego will make Vultee-Consolidated one of the nation's largest aircraft concerns, with a backlog of unfilled orders approximating 1 billion dollars.

Fleet Gets Advisory Post.

Vultee, builder of basic training planes, fighters, and dive bombers, is headed by Richard W. Millar, an investment banker, who said Maj. Fleet would remain with the new concern in an advisory capacity.

Maj. Fleet, president and largest stockholder of Consolidated, is acting as agent for other stockholders in the transaction. Purchase price of the stock, which amounts to approximately 34 per cent of outstanding common shares of Consolidated and represents working control, includes a dividend of $2 a share, payable Dec. 27.

Plans Sale of Stock.

"It is expected that a portion of the cash funds will be obtained by the public sale of approximately $6,000,000 of Vultee convertible preferred stock and the sale of 150,000 additional shares of Vultee common stock to Aviation corporation at $10 a share, and the balance from additional bank loans or corporate funds," the announcement said.

A special meeting of Vultee stockholders has been called for Dec. 15 to act upon a proposal to authorize the required preferred stock issue and to increase the authorized number of common shares.

Anticipated preferred stock financing, it was stated, will be handled by Blyth & Co. and Emanuel & Co.

BIG FIRM FIGHTS WAUKEGAN MOVE TO ANNEX PLANT

Johns-Manville corporation of Delaware yesterday took legal steps to prevent the city of Waukegan from annexing a tract of land north of the city limits on which its big plant is located. The company petitioned the United States District court for an injunction stopping Waukegan from making the land a part of that city.

The petition alleged that Waukegan's corporation counsel, John E. Bairstoll, conspired with 99 other persons to increase the city's revenue by trying to annex the Johns-Manville tract to the city. If annexed the tax rate would be increased from the 1940 figure of $5.50 per $1,000 to $7.40, it was alleged.

The petition also charged that persons were induced to take parts of the tract and sign a petition for annexation which is now pending in the Circuit court of Lake county. A hearing on a temporary restraining order was set for Dec. 1 before Federal Judge John P. Barnes.

Government to Explain Fund Freezing Control

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28 [Special].—To clarify foreign fund freezing control for bankers and others concerned in its administration the treasury announced today that it would send representatives to key cities to explain it. Meetings of bankers, importers, exporters, and brokers will be held in Chicago, Cleveland, Denver, San Francisco, Dallas, New Orleans, and Atlanta.

Week's Output Up

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 28 (AP).—Production of passenger cars and trucks in the United States and Canada this week is placed at 93,495 units by Ward's Reports, Inc. Making this estimate today, the survey said the figures compare with 76,820 vehicles last week and with 130,783 this week a year ago. Ward's said it looked for a short-lived advance in operations as the turn is made into December.

Dealers Outbid U. S. to Obtain Silver Supply

New York, Nov. 28 (AP).—A competitive market in silver developed today for the first time since 1940 as private interests were forced to outbid the United States government to obtain supplies.

Handy & Harman, bullion dealers, raised their price to 35¼ cents an ounce from 34⅝ cents, first change since June 7, 1940. Since mid-1940 the free market price has been ¼ cent below the government figure. Later in the day the treasury reaffirmed its official buying rate of 35 cents an ounce, a price in effect since July 10, 1939.

Lures Mexican Silver.

Handy & Harman said the higher price was necessary to attract Mexican silver which otherwise would be sold to the treasury. On Nov. 19, the firm said, the United States agreed to purchase up to six million ounces of silver monthly from the Mexican government at the daily price quoted by the United States treasury.

One silver dealer explained that the higher free market quotation did not necessarily indicate a shortage for industrial use or for fabrication in the arts.

"There might be a shortage of rabbits at 1 cent each," he said. "Raise the price and you could get all you wanted."

The New York free silver market is supplied principally by Mexico, the world's largest producer, and, to a lesser degree, by several South American nations, including Bolivia and Peru.

Treasury Gets Home Output.

Silver produced in domestic mines by-passes the local market and goes direct to the vaults of the federal treasury because the government pays a special price of 70⅝ cents an ounce for it.

Prior to 1939 London ranked as the silver center of the world. Silver was quoted there today at the equivalent of 42.62 cents. Restrictions against importing silver into England and India virtually have isolated these countries, however.

New York has usurped London's position as prime market, largely as a result of Washington monetary policy.

JAPANESE BANKS STUDY POSSIBLE MOVE FROM N. Y.

New York, Nov. 28 (AP).—Spokesmen for two large Japanese commercial bank branches here said today that "in view of the present diplomatic situation" they were studying possible curtailment of their banking activities in the United States.

They were Mitsui bank, one of Japan's largest, and Mitsubishi Bank, Ltd.

A third, Sumitomo Bank, Ltd., said it was planning to transfer part of its staff to its head office in Tokio, but that further developments were awaited before any other changes were made.

At Mitsui's office a representative said that under the circumstances "it is quite natural to study" possible changes. Mitsui's London branch has transferred part of its business to the branch of the official Yokohama Specie bank there and some to English banking houses.

DEALERS' GROUP OPPOSES CURB'S UNLISTED TRADE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28 (AP).—The National Association of Securities Dealers opposed at a Securities and Exchange commission hearing today the request of the New York Curb exchange to extend unlisted trading privileges to certain securities now traded in the over the counter market.

The intervention was the first time that the association had opposed the granting of such privileges, and officials of the NASD said that it marked a new policy under which all such applications by exchanges will be studied in the future.

Only two witnesses took the stand before the hearing was recessed at the request of the curb exchange, which asked postponement until Dec. 15.

16 Hat Firms and a Union Are Indicted

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 28 (AP).—A federal grand jury today indicted 16 hat manufacturing firms, 31 of their officers and officials, a labor union, four of its locals, and six union officials on charges or conspiring to fix prices on army field hats purchased by the war department.

The union is the AFL United Hatters, Cap, and Millinery Workers' international, and the locals named are in Philadelphia, New York, Chicago, and St. Louis. The hat manufacturing firms are in the same cities and in Kansas City, Mo.

The justice department described the case as "a nation-wide conspiracy by the hat manufacturers and the labor union to fix prices of army field hats and to limit and restrict quantities of hats upon which each manufacturer would bid."

Six Million Hats Ordered.

Approximately 6 million field hats of the type used in summer and by troops in training or on maneuvers in southern states have been ordered by the war department, the announcement said.

The first contracts, calling for 2 million hats, were awarded in February, with bids for a similar quantity asked both in June and September.

The indictment alleged 21 of the 46 bids submitted in June were for the identical gross price of 65 cents a hat.

The war department rejected those bids and instituted an investigation. The bids submitted in September were as much as 25 cents a hat lower, the highest being 63 cents. The highest bid accepted by the war department was 49 cents a hat.

Certain manufacturers and labor union officials met in New York in June, the indictment charged, to fix the bid price and establish quotas of hats for individual manufacturers.

Defendants are Named.

The defendants named in the indictment include the following from Chicago:

Soboroff-Rosenwald company and Samuel Soboroff, president; Edward Rosenwald, vice president and treasurer, and Irving E. Soboroff, assistant secretary, and Star Hat and Cap company, and Charles Schneider, president; Hyman Schneider, vice president and treasurer, and William Schneider, secretary.

The union representatives named included Samuel Winn, business agent of local No. 5, Chicago.

Justin W. Dart, formerly of Walgreen company, has been engaged by United Drug, Inc., to join the management group of the company and work with executives and directors in making a general study of the business.

INDICT 14 MEAT COMPANIES ON PRICE CHARGES

37 Individuals Also Are Named.

Charges of conspiracy to fix live stock prices paid producers and meat prices charged consumers were contained in indictments returned yesterday against 14 meat packing companies and the American Meat institute. The indictments, accusing the 15 concerns and 37 individuals of violation of the anti-trust laws, were returned by a federal grand jury before Judge Charles E. Woodward in Chicago.

The indictment asserted that members of the American Meat institute sell more than two and one-half billion dollars worth of meat annually, and that they represent 90 per cent of the total amount of meat sold in the United States. The defendants, which include seven Chicago companies and many of their officials, sell 70 per cent of the nation's meat, it was asserted.

Charges of Grand Jury.

These companies and officials, the grand jury charged, have for 13 years conspired to fix live stock and meat prices by means of weekly bulletins sponsored by the institute, by elimination of price cutting, and by obtaining the adherence of other packers to their published price lists.

The weekly bulletins purported to show the meat packers' costs and indicated they were operating at a loss, the indictment said. By means of figures selected and agreed upon by the defendants, and specific formulas set forth in these cost bulletins, the defendants have suggested standard costs, purchasing prices for live stock, and selling prices for meat, it was alleged.

They have made repeated and persistent efforts since 1928 to achieve sales price stabilization and a one price policy in the meat packing industry, according to the charges. These policies were developed at committee meetings of the American Meat institute and their effect was to suppress competition, it was said.

Evidence Presented by Britt.

Evidence was presented to the grand jury by Daniel B. Britt, special assistant attorney general in charge of the justice department's anti-trust division in Chicago. He was assisted by Thomas H. Daly and Richard B. O'Donnell.

Chicago packing companies indicted were:

Agar Packing and Provision company, Armour & Co., Cudahy Packing company, Oscar Mayer & Co., Inc., Miller & Hart, Inc., Swift & Co., and Wilson & Co., Inc.

Individuals named in the indictment were:

John T. Agar, vice president of Agar Packing and Provision corporation; Frank A. Benson, vice president of Armour & Co.; Thomas W. Bryant, assistant controler of Wilson & Co.; Gaston L. Childress, general manager of the Houston Packing company; William S. Clithero, vice president, Armour & Co.; Edward A. Cudahy Jr., president, Cudahy Packing company; Ralph H. Rath, president of Rath Packing company; Reuben A. Rath, vice president of Rath Packing company; Clement H. Romeiser of Wilson & Co.; William R. Sinclair, president of Kingan & Co.; Paul C. Smith, vice president of Swift & Co.; J. C. Stents of John Morrell & Co.; J. T. Stringer of Cudahy Packing company; Gustavus F. Swift, vice chairman of the board of dirgctors of Swift & Co.; Harmon Utley of Oscar Mayer & Co.; F. E. Wilhelm, vice president, Cudahy Packing company; Thomas E. Wilson, chairman of the board of Wilson & Co.

The American Meat institute issued a statement later denying that the defendants had violated the law or done anything contrary to public interest, and saying the industry is doing an efficient job of serving both farmers and consumers on a margin of profit averaging only a fraction of a cent a pound.

John Holmes, president of Swift & Co., denied his company has violated either "the letter or the spirit of the law" and that he was convinced a court hearing on the charges would prove "our business is operated in accordance with the law."

Ban on Foil Making Suspended 30 Days to Permit New Study

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28 (AP).—Donald M. Nelson, priorities director, today announced a 30 day suspension of his order forbidding manufacture of lead and tinfoil for cigaret packages, chewing gum, and candy, and said an investigation would be made which may lead to possible revocation or modification of the order. Meanwhile, the Office of Price Administration announced maximum prices for other commodities.

The drastic foil decree, issued last Monday, had aroused protest from R. S. Reynolds, president of Reynolds Metals company, who predicted it would lead to a shutdown of the firm's four foil plants—two in Richmond, Va. and one each in Louisville, Ky., and Chicago.

Banned Use for Packaging.

The order would have restricted immediately the amount of tin and lead going into foil, would have prohibited the manufacture and sale of foil after Jan. 15, and would have prohibited its use for the packaging after March 15, 1942. The tobacco industry uses about 85 per cent of the foil output.

Leon Henderson, price administrator, established a ceiling on manufacturers' prices for Douglas fir doors, affecting approximately 60 per cent of all doors made in the United States.

The maximums, effective Dec. 10, are about 15 per cent below current levels and OPA estimated they would save consumers 3 million dollars annually.

Henderson announced that 80 per cent of the manufacturers of western pine doors, door frames, sashes, window frames, and screens had voluntarily agreed to stabilize prices for their products at approximately the levels prevailing during the last two weeks in August.

Maximum prices on rolled zinc sheets, strip and plates, adjusted to the recent one cent a pound increase in slab zinc prices, were announced.

The ceiling fixed these base prices per pound, f. o. b. mill:

Sheet zinc, 13.15 cents; ribbon or strip zinc, 12.25 cents; small zinc plates, 11 cents in lots of 1,000 pounds and over, 12 cents in lots of less than 1,000 pounds; large zinc plates, 12 cents in lots of 1,000 pounds or over, 13 cents in lots of less than 1,000 pounds; zinc engravers' plates, raw, 14.25 cents, finished, 21.25 cents; zinc lithographers' plates, 15 cents.

Various discounts up to 7 per cent, depending on the size of shipments, are permitted on sheet and strip zinc. The schedule allows a differential of 4.9 cents above the price of prime western zinc for sheet and 4 cents for strip.

AGREE TO REFUNDS.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28 (AP).—Price Administrator Leon Henderson said today two large Illinois waste paper jobbers had agreed to refund all amounts collected in excess of ceiling waste paper prices established by OPA. The case represented the first action taken by Henderson's office to compel cash restitution by violators of the waste paper price schedule. Names of the jobbers were not made public.

Army Pushes Plan to Spread Its Contracts

First application of the army's new policy of spreading armament contracts among small manufacturers in the Chicago area was announced yesterday by Lieut. Col. Reginald Whitaker. He said he exercised the newly granted authority to let contracts directly from the field by procuring welding equipment from a Kenosha, Wis., company, altho its price was 12 per cent above the lowest bid.

Col. Whitaker, who is executive officer of the Chicago procurement district of the army corps of engineers, said the contract was let at higher cost to the army in order to aid a small company in a community certified by the Office of Production Management as a "distress" area because of priorities unemployment.

Given Discretionary Powers.

He explained that the army is cooperating with the OPM contract distribution division in spreading work as rapidly as possible in areas where plants have been hit by government curtailment orders. Purchasing, once centered in the supply section of the chief of engineers' office in Washington, D. C., has been decentralized.

"The district contracting officers," explained Col. Whitaker, "now can negotiate contracts directly with plants in their area. We are permitted to go 15 per cent above the lowest bid or the most recent contract price in order to help a distressed company. We can also let cost plus fixed fee contracts."

The welding equipment order was one of five or six on Col. Whitaker's shopping list for which he received authority to make awards directly under the new policy. The army corps of engineers buys a variety of other articles, such as drafting instruments, road building machinery, shovels, engines, bridge equipment, tools, and pumps.

District Includes 11 States.

Col. Whitaker observed that his present buying staff could be expanded rapidly for large scale purchases should the United States decide to equip an expeditionary force. He explained that the large contracts will continue to be let in Washington.

Consideration of companies and areas affected by the priorities regulations will be given in awarding contracts, he said. The following communities have been designated as "distress" areas: Meadville, Pa.; Kenosha, Wis.; Evansville, Ind.; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Mansfield, O.; Greenville, Mich.; Eatonton, Ga.; Ripon, Wis.; and Newton-Kellogg, Ia.

The Chicago procurement district embraces Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, and Colorado.

Department Store Sales Thru Nation Up 11 Pct.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28 (AP).—The Federal Reserve board estimated today that department store sales in the week ended Nov. 22 were about 11 per cent higher than in the corresponding week last year. In the four weeks ended Nov. 22 they averaged 14 per cent more than in the similar period last year.

OPM PICKS ALEX TAUB AS PLANT CONVERSION FOR ARMS WORK CHIEF

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28 (AP).—Alex Taub, Pontiac, Mich., engineer, was named today to direct the program of the Office of Production Management for converting civilian industries into armament plants.

Alex Taub.

Taub's appointment as chief of the conversion section was announced by Floyd B. Odlum, director of OPM's contract distribution division.

Taub, a former General Motors executive, joined OPM last July as chief consultant to the automotive branch. Later he became consultant to the labor division to assist in spreading arms work to relieve "priorities unemployment."

SHEFFIELD WILL BUILD AND RUN U. S. IRON PLANT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28 [Special].—A plant costing $22,670,855 and capable of producing 274,000 tons of pig iron and 216,000 tons of steel plates annually will be built for the government on the Houston ship channel near Houston, Tex., the Defense Plant corporation announced today.

The DPC authorized the award of a contract covering the facilities to Sheffield Steel corporation. The company will build and operate a blast furnace and a steel plant under a five year contract, with DPC retaining title to the property.

Among army contracts let to Chicago area companies were $304,131 for tractors and $72,363 for cranes from the International Harvester company; $390,720 for shells from the Standard Forgings corporation, Indiana Harbor, Ind.; $70,310 for jewelers lathes from the C. and E. Marshall company, and $114,740 for ammunition chests from the Morton Manufacturing company.

CUT TREASURY'S BILL SALE TO 150 MILLION A WEEK

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28 (AP).—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. announced today that beginning Dec. 10 the treasury would reduce the amount of its weekly sale of 91 day treasury bills from 200 to 150 million dollars.

Starting Dec. 10 there will be six weeks in each of which 100 million dollars of bills will come due for payment. The announcement that sales will amount to 150 millions each week means that the treasury will borrow a net total of 50 millions weekly.

The sale of treasury bills is a temporary form of treasury financing. Morgenthau already has announced that the treasury next week will borrow 1½ billion dollars in the largest single cash borrowing operation since the World war. It will boost the federal debt to a new record high of more than 56 billions.

STOCK LEADERS TUMBLE ON FAR EASTERN CRISIS

Price Index at Low for 17 Months.

New York, Nov. 28 (AP).—Numerous stock market leaders dropped to new low ground for more than a year in today's market as United States-Japanese relations appeared near the breaking point and heavy tax selling persisted.

Feeble attempts at recovery in the forenoon got nowhere in particular and, while a smattering of favorites clung to modest improvement, losses of fractions to around 2 points predominated at the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks finished with a net decline of .4 a point at 38.9, a new low since June 11, 1940. It was the sixth successive session the composite had failed to record any progress.

Volume of Trading Rises.

Sizable blocks came out at intervals and transfers totaled 868,160 shares, compared with 811,480 yesterday. Of 843 individual issues traded, 415 closed down, 199 up, and 229 unchanged.

Wall street turned a bit pessimistic when the President stressed the gravity of the far eastern situation. In addition, war bulletins from Russia and Africa were without much speculative inspiration and doubts regarding price control legislation, taxes, and labor developments again served as a handicap.

Business happenings, especially increasingly pleasing year-end dividends, propped several shares.

Stocks in the "new low" classification included American Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey, General Motors, Chrysler, Union Pacific, American Can, and American Tobacco common and "B."

CHICAGO LIST UNEVEN.

Prices on the Chicago Stock exchanged were unevenly lower yesterday for the third day in a row. Of 122 issues traded, 30 advanced, 49 declined, and 43 closed unchanged. Transactions totaled 42,000 shares.

Volume leaders were Chicago corporation, 5,950 shares, unchanged at ⅝; Central and South West Utilities common, 3,850 shares, unchanged at 1/16; and Commonwealth Edison, 2,350 shares, unchanged at 22¼.

In the last half hour, after the New York close, Commonwealth Edison, General Motors, Glenn L. Martin, and Swift International advanced ⅛, while Western Union advanced ⅛, and United States Steel declined ⅛.

LONDON MARKET UP

LONDON, Nov. 28 (AP).—Industrial stock market prices, buoyed by the weight of investment money and by good dividend and profit statements by leading companies—and, to a lesser extent, by improved war conditions—advanced this week to the highest levels since the spring of 1939.

The Financial News industrial index stands at 82.5, the highest since June, 1939, and comparing with the level of 100 prevailing in July, 1935. The Libyan campaign and the continued resistance of Russia naturally have had a good effect, market circles said, but the chief reason for the advance was the weight of industrial investment.

HOME FURNISHING SALES DIP NEAR 'NORMAL' LEVEL

Wholesale home furnishings sales dropped to "near normalcy" in October, indicating an easing of speculative buying, Percy Wilson, managing director of the Merchandise Mart, reported yesterday. He said October sales dipped to a level 29.4 per cent ahead of a year earlier, in contrast to the 40 to 45 per cent gains recorded in many months this year. Sales were 8.6 per cent higher than September.

One factor was that retailers, carrying the heaviest inventories in the last 12 months, felt consumers' reaction to government regulation of time payment sales. As retail sales eased off, deliveries of goods on order enabled home furnishings dealers to build up larger reserves.

Rail Accidents Up with Traffic

Washington, D. C., Nov. 28 (AP).—Interstate Commerce commission reports showed today a substantial increase in train accidents this year over 1940, but officials of the Association of American Railroads said it was not out of proportion to the increase in traffic.

An I. C. C. tabulation for the first nine months of 1941 listed 6,611 accidents of all kinds compared with 5,080 in the same period last year.

While the number of accidents increased there have been only five fatalities among passengers compared with 66 in the first nine months of 1940.

Big Reduction Since 1929.

The Association of American Railroads figured the accident rate for the first eight months of this year was 6 for each million locomotive miles, compared with 5.43 for 1940. The rate in 1929, the railroads' record year for traffic, was 9.57 and back in 1923 it was 15.2.

"From a safety standpoint," the association said, "we are 60 per cent better off in 1941 than in 1923, and 35 per cent better off than in 1929. This year also is substantially better than 1936 and 1937."

More Trespassers Killed.

The association reported an increase in deaths of trespassers. There were 1,681 killed in the first nine months of this year, compared with 1,584 in the like period of 1940.

Other figures for 1941 compared with 1940:

Employés on duty: Killed, 513 and 384; injured, 18,057 and 13,041.

Highway grade crossing casualties, including both trespassers and non-trespassers: Killed, 1,339 and 1,224; injured, 3,271 and 2,998.

MINOR CHANGES IN PROFIT SHOWN BY MIDDLE WEST

Consolidated Quarter Net 40 Cents a Share.

Minor changes in consolidated net income for the three months and nine months ended Sept. 30 as compared with a year earlier were reported yesterday by Middle West corporation and subsidiaries. The parent company alone announced a drop in profit for the three months, but an increase for the nine months.

Consolidated net income for the three months was $1,333,648, equal to 40 cents a share, against $1,302,399, or 39 cents a share, in the 1940 period. For the nine months it was $2,801,092, equal to 84 cents a share, compared with $2,905,585, or 87 cents a share, a year earlier.

Tax Provisions Raised.

Nine month provisions for income and excess profits taxes were $5,213,190, an increase of $2,151,339. The consolidated statement did not include Central Illinois Public Service company.

The parent company's three month net income was $277,947, equal to 8 cents a share, against $501,578, or 15 cents a share, in the 1940 period. Nine month profit, however, was higher at $1,199,339, equal to 36 cents a share, compared with $1,161,156, or 35 cents a share.

Purcell L. Smith, president of Middle West, said that total income of the parent company declined $188,957 for the three month period, largely as a result of decreases in the amounts of dividends received at irregular intervals on common stocks of su'sidiary operating companies. Total income of the parent company was $387,669, against $576,627 in the 1940 period.

Midland Steel Products company announced that its third quarter profit was higher than a year earlier at $380,279 against $260,165. Nine month net earnings were up a shade, amounting to $1,357,548, compared with $1,351,290.
